Introduction

Since the publication of Falmouth - A New England Township in Nova Scotia in 1965 many requests for copies have been directed to myself as well as to the Mika Publishing Company. It was therefore decided that a reprint of the 1965 edition would be published to meet this demand.

The original book included more than 150 genealogies. These families lived on the west side of the Avon River from the head of the tide at Upper Falmouth to Mount Denson and Hantsport in the lower section of Falmouth Township. There are now many hundreds of descendants of the original French Acadian families and the New England Planters who replaced them in 1760. Over the years many corrections and additions to the original book have been forwarded to me. Many of these revisions will appear in the Supplement at the end of the current reprint.

It is hoped that further research will be undertaken for the Falmouth genealogies. As more and more records become available for study the information already collected can be verified and expanded.

My forthcoming local history Newport, Nova Scotia - A Rhode Island Township will include further information on a number of the Falmouth families which received grants or moved to the eastern side of the Avon River.

I would like to thank the many persons who have forwarded information for this revision. Special thanks are due my friend L. S. Loomer, of Windsor, N. S., who has made available corrections and additions from his copy of the original book in which he has made voluminous annotations.

PREFACE

The local history of the Windsor-Falmouth district (Pisiquid) has long been one of my keen interests. As a youth at Falmouth I became interested in the legends of the Acadian people who had lived in the Pisiquid district prior to the arrival of the New England settlers. Longfellow's poem, Evangeline had a special meaning for me since my father's home and apple orchards were located within a short distance of the Acadian marshes and near the site of an Acadian church and cemetery.

Preparations for this historical sketch were made with the hope that the material could be released in 1960 in time for the 200th anniversary of the founding of Falmouth. The delay in publication has been largely due to the difficulty in collecting facts of local history and data concerning the descendants of the many families who have lived at Falmouth.

The current volume is divided into two sections. Part I attempts to outline the history of the Falmouth area and special emphasis has been given to the early period of the settlement. Part II, the genealogical section, consists of lists and brief accounts of many residents of Falmouth, Mount Denson and Hantsport. It will be noted that some families are covered in greater detail than others. This is mainly due to traditions in particular families to preserve the early history of the family.

It is a pleasure to express a great indebtness to the staff of the following institutions: Public Archives of Canada, Public Archives of Nova Scotia, Legislative Library, Halifax, N.S., Acadia University Library, Wolfville, N.S., New Brunswick Museum, Saint John, N.B. and the Toronto Public Library. Their guidance and interest in my research project has proven invaluable. I am also indebted to a great many others who forwarded material and offered suggestions. Wilson of Charlottetown, P.E.I. grateful acknowledgement is especially due for their ready and cheerful help.

It is unfortunate that a complete interpretative history of Hants County, Nova Scotia is not available. The early development of Windsor and other sections of Hants County are closely linked with the settlement of Falmouth and Newport and it is hoped that some future writer will produce a history which will include the entire area of the County.

CHAPTER I

GENERAL DESCRIPTION OF FALMOUTH, NOVA SCOTIA

The Township of Falmouth is located on the western side of the Avon River (Pisiquid) directly across from the Town of Windsor, Nova Scotia. It consists of 50,000 acres. The boundaries of the original Falmouth township were:

> Starting at a point on the Avon River at Hantsport and continuing south along the Hants-Kings County line to a point in the Chester Road area. The line then extends south westerly to the Windsor Forks district and rejoins the Avon River.

Falmouth was founded in 1760 at the same time as the other Minas townships of Horton and Cornwallis. The new settlements were laid out along the tidal rivers of the Minas Basin on lands which had recently been vacated by the Acadian French. The original settlers came mainly from the New England colonies to receive free land grants from the British Crown.

The principal occupation in the Falmouth area today is farming. Falmouth has been associated with the fruit growing industry since Acadian times and apples and pears have been exported from the district for many years. There is also an important local greenhouse industry which produces vegetables and flowers for the Maritime and Montreal markets.

The physical structure of the Minas area is closely associated with the action of the Bay of Fundy tides which rise to a height of approximately twenty eight feet at the Windsor-Falmouth section of the Avon River. The Minas district lies within the Atlantic Coastal Plain which was covered by a continental ice sheet during the Pleistocene age (one million years ago). The last ice sheet over Eastern Canada is believed to have receded about 18,000 years ago. The entire land mass underwent periods of submergence and emergence. During the submergence period, the land sank below the sea and was subjected to tidal action which caused a reworking of all materials both bedrock and glacial drift. The resulting type sands and gravels which today form the basis of the soil in this section of Nova Scotia are considered ideal for the growing of fruit trees.

The marsh lands along the banks of the Avon River were mainly formed by red sandstone deposits carried in fine sedimentary form and deposited along the banks of the river by the Bay of Fundy tides. The alluvial soil extends into the Falmouth uplands indicating the varying sea levels during the formation of the area's land structure. The rock formation in the Falmouth area consists of grey limestone, red shales, gypsum and anhydrite. In the upper sections of the district, near the Kings County line, the carboniferous rock formation consists of sandstone, shale, arkose and conglomerate.

Before the founding of the township by the New England settlers in 1760, Falmouth was part of the Acadian district of Pisiquid. This district included the whole valley of the Pisiquid River (Avon). It is believed that French explorers visited the Pisiquid area as early as the late 1500's but the first recorded visit was made in 1604 by the Father of New France, Sameul de Champlain when he visited the waters of the Bay of Fundy and the Minas Basin.

CHAPTER II.

THE ACADIAN SETTLEMENT OF PISIQUID

La paroisse de l'Assomption (Windsor, Nova Scotia)

La paroisse de la Sainte-Famille (Falmouth, Nova Scotia)

The French Acadian settlement of Pisiquid is believed to have been founded in 1685. It included the areas known today as Windsor, St. Croix, Newport, Martock, Windsor Forks, Upper Falmouth, Falmouth, Mount Denson and Hantsport.[1]

The Acadians of Pisiquid were descendants of French settlers who in 1632 were encouraged by De Razilly to leave their homes in La Rochelle, Saintonge and Poitou on the West Coast of France to establish the settlement of Port-Royal (Nova Scotia). It was customary for the younger members of the Port-Royal families to move from their homes located on the Bay of Fundy to villages along the tidal rivers of the Minas Basin. When they had built dykes and had sufficient marsh land under cultivation to support a permanent settlement, groups of these families would establish a new village. In this manner the settlements at Grand-Pre La Riviere aux Canards and Pisiquid are believed to have been founded.

The area known today as Falmouth was one of the main Acadian settlements of the Pisiquid district. There were at least five distinct villages or family groupings on the Falmouth side of the river. The Acadian farms were located along the tidal marshes stretching from Hantsport to the head of the tide at Upper Falmouth. The original Acadian cellars may still be located today at a number of sites along the edges of these marshlands. The Acadian apple orchards are no longer in existence but older residents of Falmouth can recall that there were apple trees located at Castle Frederick, on the Lawrence Farm and in the area of Alline Bridge which were probably planted by the Acadian residents of Falmouth. There was an Acadian road leading from Grand-Pre which ran through the lower section of Falmouth to a ford which crossed the Pisiquid River at the present location of the Wilson-Spencer home.

It is believed that the Acadian priest at St. Charles-aux-Mines (Grand-Pre) held religious services in the Pisiquid district prior to 1698 when a Jesuit missionary Louis de Thury founded the parish of L'Assomption. The parish church of L'Assomption was built on or near the present site of Fort Edward (Windsor, N.S.).

There is evidence of a controversy between the Acadians who lived on the western or Windsor side of the river and their neighbours who lived on the Falmouth side. The problem was over the location of the parish church. Those on the Falmouth side wanted the church located in their area. The matter was finally settled in 1722 when the Bishop of Quebec, Monseigneur

1 It is unfortunate that the Acadian church records for the Pisiquid district have not yet been recovered and this has made the task of collecting authentic information concerning the area a most difficult one. It is earnestly hoped that further research will be undertaken to establish a detailed history for the area and of the Acadian people who lived along the shores of the Pisiquid River (Avon) between the years 1685 and 1755.

Jean Saint-Vallier issued a pastoral letter in which he instructed that the parish at Pisiquid would be divided into two parishes.[2] This resulted in the eastern side of the river retaining the original name - la paroisse de 1'Assomption (Windsor) and the formation of a new parish on the western side of the river - la paroisse de Sainte-Famille (Falmouth). Bishop Vallier gave specific instructions that mass would be said on alternate Sundays in the two parishes. It is of particular interest that the Bishop gave instructions that separate parish registers would be kept.[3]

There were at least three Acadian churches located in the parish of the Sainte-Famille (Falmouth). The most ancient is believed to have been located on the Young-Church property and there is a local tradition that an Acadian cemetery was located at this site.[4] There is also a tradition that an Acadian church was located on the property line (near the top of the hill) between the Lawrence and the Hanson properties at Upper Falmouth. It is believed that the Church of the Sainte-Famille which served the Acadians at Falmouth immediately prior to the Expulsion in 1755 was located near the Parade, i.e., on the J.H. Pullen property. This location would place it at the top of the hill which slopes up from the river opposite the present site of Fort Edward (Windsor).

2 Mandement aux Habitants de Pisiquid, 28 June 1722, Archives de l'Archeveche de Quebec, (A.A.Q.) Registre C.

3 Considerable effort has been made over the years to recover the Pisiquid registers but without success. The registers of Saint-Charles-aux-Mines were located at Saint-Gabriel D'Iberville, a village in Louisiana.

4 The cemetery is believed to have been located to the north west of the Elisha Church homestead. This property is now owned by the Illsley family and in recent years a gravel pit has been in operation along the river bank section of the farm.

Between the years 1689 and 1710 the early Acadian settlements suffered from armed reprisals resulting from the wars between England and France but with the signing of the Treaty of Utrecht in 1713, Acadie (Nova Scotia) became British territory and relative calm settled over the area. The inhabitants of French origin were given the right to remain in Nova Scotia. The British set up a government which included a Governor and Council with Port-Royal (Annapolis) as the headquarters.

The Pisiquid district was not listed separately in early French census returns but the records for 1714 show that there were 53 Acadian families at Pisiquid with a total population of 344. By 1727 there were 160 Acadian families living along the shores of the Pisiquid River. The official records of the Province contain many references to property and inheritance disputes involving the residents of Pisiquid during the years between 1713 and 1755.[5] There apparently was great difficulty in settling disputes of this type partly due to the records kept under the old French land titles system, i.e., Seigneurial Tenure. After the British conquest of 1713, Governors tried to get the Acadians to establish their property rights mainly for the purpose of making proper assessments of seigneurial dues but no success was made in this matter. The Falmouth side of the Pisiquid River was included in the LaTour seigneurie but it has not been possible to recover the records which would identify the owners of the Acadian farms in the Falmouth area.

It was customary for Acadian deputies to be elected each year to act as representatives for the inhabitants. For the year 1754 the following were deputies in the various Pisiquid villages:

Acadian village	Present location	Name of Deputy
Village Breaux	Martock	not listed
Village Trahan	St. Croix	Jean Herbert
Village St. Croix	St. Croix	Brunneau Trahan
Village Landry	St. Croix	Jean Landry
Village Forrest	Falmouth	Jacques LeBlanc
Village Rivet	Falmouth	Jacques LeBlanc

During the 1740's and the early 1750's open hostility broke out between the English and the French and Indians. Evidence of discontent at Pisiquid can be seen from records for the period. The sloop, "Friend's Adventure" was captured by Indians in a creek in the Pisiquid River. In 1750 Capt. Gorham had a skirmish with Indians near the old Acadian Bridge at the St. Croix River. In 1752 special orders were issued to the troops stationed at Fort Edward (Windsor) concerning the Acadians or Neutral French, as they were then called. The French inhabitants were to be treated as, "His Majesty's Subjects". "No officer, or soldier shall presume to insult or otherwise abuse any of the inhabitants". On 3 Oct. 1754 the case of M. Daudin, the French priest at Pisiquid was heard before the Council at Halifax. Father Daudin was accused of acting in a "most insolent and treasonable manner". He was later permitted to return to his Pisiquid parishes on "promise of good behaviour".

During this period a number of Acadian families left their homes and moved to Ile Royale (Cape Breton) or to Ile St. Jean (Prince Edward Island). In 1753 it was estimated that over one hundred families had left their homes at Pisiquid. In 1754 however there is a record of 6 Acadians who petitioned the Council at Halifax for permission to return to their former homes. They were granted this right on condition of taking the required oath of allegiance.

The Acadians carried on an active trade with the French military base located on Ile Royale. A petition to the French Commandant in 1744 shows that it was customary for the Acadians to supply meat and grain to the French troops. The petition urged that the Commandant not withdraw his "savages and troops from their districts". Some indication of the relationship between the French at Quebec and the Acadian people may be learned from the following communication of 1748 between Messrs. DeBeauhornais and Hocquart of Quebec and Count DeMaurepas. This document described the Acadians as "extremely covetous of specie". The report continued that since the settlement of Ile Royale, the Acadians had drawn from Louisbourg by means of their trade in cattle, and all the other provisions, almost all the money which the King sent out.

The tragic story of the Expulsion of the Acadians in 1755 from their ancestral homes in Acadie to other English colonies along the Atlantic seaboard will be well known to most readers. No attempt will be made to retell this story but since many published accounts of the Expulsion have given emphasis to the events which took place at Grande-Pre, it will be of interest to note how the Expulsion order was carried out in the Pisiquid district.

As in other Acadian settlements, an official notice was addressed to all male Acadians 10 years of age and over at Pisiquid. The notice specified that the Acadians were to report at Fort Edward (Windsor) at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of 5 Sept. 1755 to hear a special proclamation. Some 183 French inhabitants appeared before the Fort and heard that their land and cattle had been forfeited to the Crown and that they themselves would be removed from the Province. The actual deportation appears to have been delayed in so far as the Pisiquid area was concerned due to a shortage of transport vessels and this probably accounted for the fact that the Acadian buildings on both sides of the Pisiquid River were not burned as was the case at Grand-Pre. It is believed that the Acadians were permitted to live in their homes at Pisiquid until such time as transports arrived.

It has not been possible to establish an accurate list of the persons who were evacuated from Pisiquid. Some information in this regard has been included in the genealogical section which includes information on the Acadian families which are known to have lived on the Falmouth side of the river: Babin, Boudreau, Brossard, Doiron, Forest, Gautreau, Landry, Rivet and Vincent. It is hoped that more information on this phase of Acadian history will become available as further research continues and original documents are recovered.

The case of some 1500 Acadians quartered or stationed at Fort Edward between 1760 and 1768 is a matter which has yet to be explained. It has been generally accepted that the Acadians at Fort Edward worked throughout the Minas townships in repairing the dykes which had been broken by the great storm of 1759. Some of these people are believed to have escaped deportation and others had probably made their way back from exile. The early Falmouth records refer to the hiring of labourers for work on the dykes. There is also a petition signed by the leading citizens of Falmouth, Horton and Cornwallis which requested that the Acadians at Fort Edward be permitted to remain there and continue to draw military rations in order to retain their assistance in repairing the dykes. In addition to the above, there is a statement made by Governor Desbarres:[6]

> "Ever since the era of 1763 at the close of the war which accomplished the conquest of the French territories in North America, a considerable number of Acadians had been employed in the Public Service under my direction and approving their alertness, diligence and attentive conduct and as their families, parents and friends generally destitute of means of existence were anxious to remove to the Country in search of employment, several among them domicilated (sic) themselves on Farms which I was in the course of establishing in the vicinity of Windsor where they for years exerted themselves with remarkable industry and evinced a peculiar intelligence in the management, improvement and cultivation of Marsh lands. Being intimately acquainted with the relative circumstances of the Menaudie Lands and viewing its extensive marshes in the light of an opportune and suitable filed of employment, they expressed an earnest desire of being allowed to form a settlement there on conditions similar to those enjoyed by the occupants of my said Farms, which were to be supplied with all requisite implements, stock of Cattle etc. etc. to yield one half of the produce by way of rent.
> To secure the valuable marshes from inundations of tides and freshets by erecting substantial dykes and aboiteaux and opening adequate canals and drains for rendering them productive in tillage or otherwise was a primary object to be attended to, which they pledged themselves to accomplish at the usual price. Amply provided with necessary provisions, tools, and implements of all s s, cattle etc. parties of them were sent off in 1766 and 1767 to commence the proposed undertaking. After preparing accommodations for their families and sowing and planting such patches of the upland as suited their purpose they proceeded with..... to the labours of the dykes. Resolved to allow them every encouragement, I sent them from time to time fresh supplies and wrote to Mercantile persons in Cumberland to furnish them on my account with all such articles as might occasionally appear expedient to forward my intentions when on 8 May 1769 I demised a lease under hand and seal unto the following Acadians namely unto: John Bourg, Joseph Leger, Joseph Como, Charles Foret, Peter Brun[7], Peter Babin, Paul Foret, Charles Melanson, Francis Bourg, John Bourg Junr. 600 acres of my Menaudie upland and 100 acres of marsh dyked and drained at my cost to be held in perpituity and jointly by them, their lawful issue, heirs and assigns, on the hereafter mentioned conditions: That said J. Bourg etc. shall sow every year on the demised premises a quantity of good seed wheat not less than 12 bus. per tenement and of all other sorts of grain

6 Desbarres Papers, Vol. 17, Public Archives of Canada. Col. Desbarres' Falmouth estate, Castle Frederick, will be treated in some deatil in another section. His properties in Cumberland County were located on the Isthmus of Chignecto at Minudie near the present town of Amherst, Nova Scotia.

7 The death of Peter Brian which occurred at Minudie, Cumberland County, N.S. on 3 Feb. 1832, was reported in the Nova Scotian of 1 Mar. 1832. Peter Brian was referred to as a French inhabitant, aged 101, who had escaped to the woods at the time of the Acadian Expulsion in 1755. He later became a tenant of Col. Desbarres.

in proportion and shall regularly deliver one/third of the crop thereof unto my granary or store on or before the first of April following each crop in a clean and fit state for market".

This evidence seems to confirm that the Acadians were indeed employed at Falmouth, Horton and Cornwallis during the first five years of the founding of the New England Townships. Desbarres' statement that Acadians lived on his Windsor farms no doubt refers to his Castle Frederick estates at Falmouth since his properties were located on that side of the river. It is also reasonable to assume that other leading citizens in the Minas Townships made similar arrangements with the Acadians and this will probably account for the extensive dyking projects undertaken on the Falmouth Great Dyke by Benj. Gerrish and at Mount Denson by Henry Denny Denson.

Desbarres' list of Acadians who settled at Menudie in Cumberland County (Nova Scotia) is of particular interest here since some of these men were employed by him during his surveys of the coast of North America between the years 1763 and 1765. In one of the Desbarres reports he mentioned that these Acadian men were above the average fellow to be hired at Halifax and wrote that they were apt in comprehending the work, excellent boatmen and never complained of long hours.[8] The surnames of the Acadians who became Desbarres tenants at Minudie suggest that they were residents of Pisiquid.

CHAPTER III

FOUNDING OF THE TOWNSHIP OF FALMOUTH

On Oct. 12, 1758 an offer of free land in Nova Scotia was published in the Boston Gazette. The proclamation was issued by the Governor of Nova Scotia, and announced to New Englanders that the lands along the shores of the Bay of Fundy, recently vacated by the Acadian French were open for settlement. The proclamation described the lands in glowing terms: "upwards of one hundred thousand acres of intervale and plow lands, producing wheat, rye, barley, oats, hemp, flax.....these have been cultivated for more than a hundred years past and never fail of crops, nor need manuring. Also, more than one hundred thousand acres of upland, cleared and stocked with English grass, planted with orchards, gardens.....These lands, with good husbandry produce often two loads of hay per acre."[9]

Before considering the actual settlement of Falmouth a review will be made of the events leading up to the publication of Governor Lawrence's proclamation. As early as 1759 Governor Shirley of Massachusetts was urging the authorities in London to settle Nova Scotia with New Englanders. He wanted protection from the French who still were in possession of the fortress at Louisbourg. A stable British settlement had not developed in Nova Scotia in spite of the fact that in 1713 the Treaty of Utrecht had conveyed the Nova Scotia mainland to Britain. The presence of a French fortress at Louisbourg, the weakness of the British forces in Nova Scotia, the hostility of the Indians and the loyalty of the Acadian French to the French Crown were sufficient reasons to discourage British or New England families from settling in Nova Scotia.

But the tide was soon to turn. In June 1749, Halifax was founded by the arrival of 3,000 English settlers under Colonel Edward Cornwallis and civil government was at last firmly established in the Province. A number of German settlers landed at Halifax in 1750 and their arrival marked the beginning of the extensive "Foreign Protestant" migration into Nova Scotia.[10] The government later settled these people in the area known today as Lunenburg County.

In 1755 as we have seen in the section devoted to the Acadian period, the government confiscated the lands of the Acadian farmers and transported them to Massachusetts, Louisiana and other places along the Atlantic coast. The Seven Year's War between England and France was declared in 1756 and the French fortress at Louisbourg (Cape Breton) fell in 1758 to British Forces under Admiral Boscawen and Major General Amherst.[11] In the following year, on Sept. 18th, M. de Ramezay surrendered Quebec City to Admiral Sanders and General Townshend. If the progress of the war favoured Britain at this time, the same could not be said for the situation in Nova Scotia. Groups of Acadians accompanied by Indians constantly raided the scattered English settlements and attacked military couriers. In July of 1759, a large party of Indians and Acadians appeared before Fort Edward (Windsor) and remained there for some days. Near Cape Sable a group of about one hundred Acadians and Indians fired on a party who were inspecting the area.

An event familiar to all Falmouth residents occurred in 1756 and is included here as an example of the bloodshed and terror which existed in the Nova Scotian settlements immediately prior to the arrival of the New England Planters. Louis Payzant and his family had arrived in Nova Scotia from the Island of Jersey and were settled on an island in Mahone Bay (Lunenburg County). On the night of May 8th, 1756 a party of Indians attacked the Payzant home and massacred Mr. Payzant. His widow, Marie and his children were carried off and held captive at Quebec. At the fall of that city Marie Payzant returned to Nova Scotia with her family where she received a grant of land at Falmouth at the founding of the township in 1760.[12]

In the midst of the war time activity at Halifax and the violence and terror throughout the province, negotiations continued in connection with the proposed Bay of Fundy townships. Following the announcement in the Boston Gazette, Thomas Hancock, the government's agent at Boston had been swamped with enquiries concerning the Acadian lands. Hundreds of families in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut had formed associations to take advantage of the offer of free land. In order to answer the many questions which the canny New Englanders had posed, Governor Lawrence issued a Second Proclamation. This document is sometimes called "The Charter of Nova Scotia". It promised 100 acres of land to each family head plus 50 additional acres for each member of the family. It described the form of government and the courts of justice and stated that both were similar to those in New England. Each township of fifty families was to be allowed two representatives in the Legislative Assembly. As to religion, "full liberty of conscience both by His Majesty's Royal Instructions and the late Act of the General Assembly of this Province is secured to persons of all persuasions, Papists excepted." Forts garrisoned by His Majesty's troops would provide protection for the new townships.

Agents from New England arrived at Halifax in April in 1759 and Governor Lawrence met with them and discussed the many problems associated with the proposed settlements.[13] The agents were then taken to the proposed township sites at Cornwallis, Falmouth and Horton in an armed vessel with an officer of artillery and eight soldiers of the Royal Americans. On their return to Halifax, plans were immediately drawn up for the Horton and Cornwallis townships. Apparently John Hicks and Amos Fuller representing groups in Rhode Island and Connecticut did not have authority to make a final arrangement with respect to the Falmouth township. However, on 21 May 1759 they asked that the area north of the Pisiquid (Avon) River (site of Falmouth) be reserved and if sufficient numbers could be interested in the plan of settlement, fifty families would be settled at Falmouth later in the year with an additional fifty families to arrive in the spring of 1761. Before leaving Halifax, the New England agents were successful in gaining important concessions regarding transportation and provisions for the settlers. An agreement was reached whereby the settlers' stock and furniture would be transported in vessels paid for by the Province of Nova Scotia. The poorer families amongst the settlers would be entitled to receive one bushel of corn or its equivalent in grain each month, for a period of one year. In July, John Hicks, the Rhode Island agent was back in Halifax with a list of settlers for the Falmouth township. The formal grant for Falmouth was made on July 21st, 1759 and is known as the First Falmouth grant. It did not go into effect as scheduled for reasons which we shall soon see.

The list of grantees shown in the Falmouth Grant of 1759 contains very few names of the settlers who actually took up grants when the township was founded in the spring of 1760.[14] Included in the list are the names of Jabez Chappel and Jeremiah Cook who were at Falmouth on 10 July 1760 but had left the township before the effective grant was made out.[15] Some of the names in the first grant appear in the Cornwallis and Horton grants of 1761 but it is believed that the great majority of the persons listed in the 1759 grant remained in New England. See Appendix B for a complete list of grantees whose names appear in the ineffective grant of 1759.

In the early summer of 1759 the government at Halifax became greatly alarmed over hostile acts by Acadians and Indians and plans for the settlement of the Minas Townships were delayed for a period of one year. John Hicks, the Rhode Island agent attended a Council meeting at Halifax and agreed to delay the arrival until May of 1760.

Another problem also presented itself. It was discovered that part of the proposed township sites had been granted in 1736 by Lieutenant Governor Armstrong. The matter was settled by having the 1736 grants escheated on the ground that the grantees had not complied with the conditions of their grants.[16]

14 The following grantees listed in the First Falmouth Grant of 21 July 1759 were included in the effective grant which was dated 21 July 1761: William Allen, Wignall Cole, Cyprian Davison, John Davison, Jonathan Davison, Shubael Dimock, Eleazer Doane, Martha Dyer, Abner Hall, Barnabus Hall, Benj. Hicks, John Hicks, Daniel Hovey Jr., David Randall, John Steel, Wm. Nevil Wolseley, Nehemiah Wood, James Wilson.

15 Jabez Chappel's name appears as a grantee at Cornwallis in 1761. Jer. Cook probably returned to New England.

16 Beamish Murdoch, A History of Nova Scotia, Vol. 2, p. 375 & Vol. 1 p. 520 - "On 31 Aug. 1736, Lt. Gov. Armstrong signed a grant of 50,000 acres of land, 'on the South side of the Bason of Minas, beginning and stretching from the mouth of the Pisiquid River along the shore North East to Cape Fendu six miles, and from thence running easterly along the shore thirteen miles, and from this extremity ranging backwards five miles, and from thence by a line running due west to the mouth of Pisiquid river sixteen miles, being in the township of Harrington, in the County of Southampton, in the Province of Nova Scotia". The grantees included Gov. Phillipps, Lt.-Gov. Armstrong, Hon. Alex'r Cosby, Lt.-Gov. of Garrison of R.A., Paul Mascarene, John Adams, Wm. Skene, Wm. Sherreff, Henry Cope & c.

PLATE 4. THE HONORABLE EDWARD BOSCAWEN, BY J. REYNOLDS. (PUBLIC ARCHIVES OF CANADA).

Admiral Boscawen was the navel commander at the seige of Louisbourg in 1758. He was the 3rd son of Hugh, 1st Viscount Falmouth.

Early in 1760 the hostility of the Indians and Acadians had ended and conditions were sufficiently under control for the arrival of the first settlers. In May the sloops "Sally" and "Lydia" arrived at Pisiquid with the first settlers for the Falmouth and Newport areas. The "Sally" with Jonathan Lovett, master brought thirty five persons from Newport, Rhode Island and the "Lydia" brought twenty three persons from the same place.[17]

It is important that the reader have some understanding of the boundaries of the early settlements. When the initial plans were drawn up, the Pisiquid district included the present areas of Falmouth, Mount Denson, Hantsport, Windsor Forks, Windsor, Three Mile Plains, Sweet's Corners, St. Croix, Poplar Grove, Avondale, Newport Landing and probably the present site of Newport. Initially the Township of Falmouth included much of the area as outlined above but shortly after the arrival of the New Englanders the terminology of East Falmouth and West Falmouth came into use to distinguish the eastern and western sides of the Pisiquid River (Avon). From the very beginning there were two distinct town sites: one on the Falmouth side of the river located on the hillside near the present site of the Falmouth Centre Cemetery and almost directly across the river from the site of Fort Edward (Windsor) and the other on the eastern side of the river at the present site of Avondale (Newport Landing).[18] The Newport town site was located on the hillside which rises from the Avon River and was located directly across the River from the present site of Mount Denson. It is known that the authorities at Halifax were not in favour of establishing the Newport township due to the fact that there were a limited number of shares for the area.

17 A comparison of the names of these families with the list of grantees at Falmouth and Newport reveals that all these families with the exception of Nath. Reynolds settled at Newport, N.S. Nath. Reynolds received a grant at Falmouth.

18 Records for the Township of Newport show that a Township Meeting was held on June 9th, 1760 (one day before the first meeting on the Falmouth side).

By 1761 the matter had been settled with the provision for additional shares and on July 21st the official grant for the Township of Newport wasdrawnup.[19] In view of the close relationship of the Falmouth and Newport townships a list of the early settlers of Newport will be shown in Appendix D.

The district surrounding Fort Edward was not included in the Newport or Falmouth grants of 1761 and it was not until 1764 that this section was set apart and erected into the Township of Windsor. Part of the Windsor area was granted to members of Governor Lawrence's Council before the founding of the Falmouth township.[20]

Concerning the naming of Falmouth we have very little information. Eaton in his report on Rhode Island Settlers[21] makes the assumption that Falmouth was named in honour of Admiral Boscawen, the navel commander at the seige of Louisbourg in 1758.[22]

It is unfortunate that more information concerning the arrival of the settlers at Falmouth has not been recovered and it has therefore not been possible to establish the precise dates on which the main group of Falmouth settlers arrived. From the records of the early Township Meetings however we have some information: by June 13th, 1760 the following had established themselves in temporary homes near the Fort: Constant Church, Wignall Cole, Jonathan Davison, Shubael Dimock, Eleazer Doane, Abner Hall, Amos Owen, David Randall and John Steele. Some of those who later received grants at Falmouth are mentioned in the early records of the Newport township: Captain Edward York, Peter Shey, Abel Michener, Joseph Wilson, William Allen Jr. There is some evidence that a number of the families arrived in their own vessels and it is believed that some arrived as early as 1759.[23]

19 Information concerning the naming of Newport may be found in a letter written by Charles Morris, Chief Surveyor, to Isaac Deschamps dated 31 March, 1761, "I have proposed to have it named Newport, from my Lord Newport, a friend of Mr. Belcher's and which I believe will be agreeable to the people - I think the additional 20 shares will be of no disadvantage". It seems likely that the naming of Newport was also associated with Newport, R.I. since this was the point of embarkation for many of the settlers of the Newport Township.

20 Councillor grantees: Jonathan Belcher, Benjamin Green, Charles Morris, Richard Buckely, Thomas Saul, Joseph Gerrish and John Collier.

21 A.W.H. Eaton, Rhode Island Settlers in Nova Scotia, Americiana, 1915, p. 12.

22 Admiral Boscawen was the 3rd son of Hugh, 1st Viscount of Falmouth and a brother of Hugh, 2nd Viscount. The 9th Viscount Falmouth, George Hugh Boscawen lives in England, at the family seat at Tregothnan near Truro, Cornwall.

23 There is a tradition in the Dimock family that Daniel Dimock, son of Shubael Dimock (1708-1781) arrived in the Pisiquid district from Mansfield, Conn. in 1759, several months before the arrival of the principal group of settlers.

Although information concerning the vessels which brought the Falmouth settlers from New England has not been available to me, the names of the ships for the overall Bay of Fundy settlements at Horton, Cornwallis and Falmouth and Newport have been listed in the official accounts of the province.[24]

The grant of Falmouth which went into effect was registered on July 21st, 1761 and is recorded in Grant Book 3, p. 41-45. The boundaries of the effective "new grant of Falmouth on the west side of Piziquid River" were as follows:[25]

"A Tract of Land Situate lying and being within the Bason of Minas being the District commonly called Pizaquid now called and to be hereafter known by the Name of the Township of Falmouth within the said Province of Nova Scotia, in which Township is comprehended the Land hereby granted, being bounded northerly by the Township of Horton, Beginning at a Point of Land on Pizaquid River and running south 60 Degrees West, measuring Thirteen hundred chains of four Rods to a chain, Westerly on ungranted Lands running South 30 Degrees East measuring 880 chains, Southerly on ungranted Lands running 60 Degrees East to Lands granted to James Monk, Esq., and others, measuring 440 chains, and on the Said Land running North 30 Degrees West 300 chains, thence on the Same North 60 Degrees East 192 chains till it meets with Pizaquid River to the Boundaries first mentioned, containing on the whole 50,000 acres, allowance being made for Mountainous Lands, Lakes, and High Ways, according to the Plan annexed."

When the first settlers arrived at Pisiquid (Falmouth) in the spring of 1760 they found that a palisaded fort had been built on the Falmouth side of the river on the "upland between both marshes, east of Petit Cape" and in sight of Fort Edward (Windsor).[26] The Fort at Falmouth was called FortLawrence - it is believed to have been located on the top of the hill near the vicinity of Geo. H. Wilson's present home. The government's agent, Henry Denny Denson had been sent to the Falmouth area to make preparations for the arrival of the settlers and he had established himself in an Acadian home hear the site of Fort Lawrence. The Chief Surveyor, Charles Morris encouraged the settlers to build their first homes on the Town site. His letter to the Governor provides the reason for this type of settlement:

25 Crown Land Office, Halifax, N.S., Grant Book 3, p. 41-45.

26 Charles Morris' letter of 1 June 1760, Council Minutes, 5 June 1760 - PANS.

"That if they are permitted to scatter in their settlement under its present circumstances it may tempt the neutral French and the Indians to give them a fatal blow which otherwise they would not think of.....individuals may be unfortunate but a settlement so founded will hold its ground...it will be necessary to have at least one load of boards about 30" for covering for the troops and stores.....Captain Watmore (Watmough) is hereby disposed to serve the settlements and would be glad to a share in some of these lands for his children if any vacancy should remain or be forfeited. He informs me he has 110 men in both detatchments a number.....too small to defend this Fort (Edward) and protect three settlements as two of them, Minas and Canard are remote."[27]

It is not known how long the settlers lived in their temporary homes on the Falmouth town site but it seems likely that another year would pass before conditions were secure enough for them to move their buildings to their Farm lots. The reference to Captain Watmough is of interest since it throws some light on the manner in which grants were made. Captain Watmough received a grant of 500 acres at Falmouth on 21 July 1761 and his two sons James Horatio Watmough and Edward Ellis Watmough received similar grants at Falmouth on 19 February, 1768.

Although the original minutes of the first Township Meetings have not been recovered, copies of a number of the early resolutions have been preserved and from these a fairly detailed account of the plan of settlement can be established.[28] The first Township Meeting in the area was held on the Newport side of the river on 9 June 1760. On the following day, a meeting was held on the Falmouth side with Shubael Dimock, a former deacon of the separate Church of Mansfield, Connecticut as Chairman and Abner Hall also of Mansfield, Connecticut as "proprietor's Clerk". At the Falmouth Township Meeting of June 10th, Wignall Cole, Abner Hall and David Randall were chosen to manage the affairs of the Township. The old New England custom of Township Meetings was adopted in the new townships in Nova Scotia. The practice of choosing their officers and making plans for surveying and laying out lands for public use: 200 acres for a common, 60 acres for a town site and lots for the "meeting minister", school, cemetery and for the Church of England were allotted in accordance with New England practice.[29]

The Falmouth records show that the work of surveying the Township in preparation for the division of the lands was given a high priority. The lands were carefully inspected and every effort was made to see that all lots contained an equitable share of the good land. If part of the land was poor more acreage would be allowed to the lot with the land of medium worth being used as the standard. The Town Plot was divided into lots of one half acres and each proprietor was given one lot regardless of the number of shares owned in the Township. In the other type of lots, i.e., the farm lots, 6-acre lots, dyke and wood lots, the acreage varied in proportion to the number of shares held to the total number of shares in the township.[30]

28 The official Township Records were in possession of the Township Clerk in 1860 when the Rev. Joseph C. Cox inspected them in connection with an historical essay on Falmouth (J.C. Cox's Akins Historical Prize, King's College, 1865). The records were consulted by Prof. H.Y. Hind in 1889 who included copies of some of the early resolutions in his Sketch of the Old Parish Burying Ground, Windsor, N.S.

The distribution of the Acadian buildings and materials which had been left by the Acadian farmers took place in July 17th 1760. The Acadian homes and buildings in the Pisiquid (Falmouth) area were not burned as they were in the Grand-Pre area during the Expulsion in 1755. The allottment of the Acadian buildings on July 17th is of particular interest since it lists the names of those settlers who were at Falmouth in the early summer of 1760. The list includes: Stephen Barnaby, Samuel Brown, Constant Church, Wignall Cole, John Davison together with Elizabeth Dewey, Jonathan Davison, Henry Denny Denson, Shubael Dimock, Eleazer Doane, Martha Dyer, Abner Hall, Jabesh Harrington, John Hicks, Benj. Hicks, Enoch Hovey, Nathan Hovey, Thomas Hovey, John Meachum, Joseph Northup, Amos Owen, David Pyke, David Randall, John Shaver (Schaffner), John Steel, Edm. Watmough, James Wilson, Nehemiah Wood.

The following were allotted Acadian buildings but are not listed as original grantees at Falmouth: Elizabeth Dewey, Ebenezer Millet (received a grant at Falmouth on 19 February, 1768), Jabez Chappel (probably father of Jabesh Chappell Jr. who was a grantee at Cornwallis), Joseph Steele (his heirs received a grant at Falmouth on 19 February, 1768), David Millington, Daniel Sanford (grantee at Newport) and Jeremiah Cook.

Another urgent matter in the new settlement was the control of cattle and other stock. In order to prevent damage to the hay crop, Jonathan Davison was named herdsman to take care of the horses, sheep and swine to keep the stock confined until the hay had been mown.

Government supplies of "corn and grain" were stored in part of Henry Denny Denson"s house near Fort Lawrence. It will be recalled that these provision were promised to the settlers by Governor Lawrence. During the first winter there were 50 families at Falmouth who received "His Majesty's" provisions of "mackerel, flour and indian corn".[31]

Without some knowledge of the early township records it might be assumed that there were rich growths of timber at Falmouth in the early days of the township. There is ample evidence that such was not the case. It is known that the Acadian French at Grand-Pre were obliged to procure their wood from the east side of the Pisiquid River and this must have applied to the Acadians who lived on the Falmouth side of the river.[32] This unusual situation was the result of the great forest fire which occurred in 1710 when the entire area between the Pisiquid and the Gaspereau Rivers was levelled. The emphasis given to the matter of woodlots is to be seen in the official resolutions enacted at Newport and Falmouth within a few months of the arrival of the New Englanders. On August 15th, 1760 the residents of Newport, N.S. voted that, "no person or persons belonging to Falmouth shall take or carry any wood or timber from within the bounds of this Township". In addition, regulations were drawn up forbidding the sale of wood or timber except for building purposes within the Newport Township. The proprietors of Newport who were also proprietors of Falmouth were permitted to cut timber on the north side of the Kennetcook River "till their land is laid out". Within six days of this meeting at Newport, the Falmouth settlers had drawn up strict regulations concerning their woodlands:[33]

"Voted that a sufficient piece of woodland be set off and bounded out by the committee for the settlers to cut firewood and fencing timber upon.

Voted that those people who shall remain in the village shall and may cut firewood and timber south of the Windmill Creek so much as shall be thought necessary for those people by the committee.

Voted that if any proprietor shall cut wood on the lands of the Northerly side of Windmill Creek except on such lands as the committee shall set apart for woodland, shall pay the sum of forty shillings and said money to be used for the benefit of the Proprietors".

It will be noted that the Falmouth resolution did not restrict residents of other areas from cutting wood in the Falmouth area and for good reason since the Falmouth woodlands were of little value. The resolution did however define the area at Falmouth where firewood and timber could be cut. The designated area was the land "south of the Windmill Creek". This area is known today as the "Beaver Pond" and is located south of Shaw's Creek.[34] The regulation was probably cancelled as soon as the division of the woodlots had taken place.

The division or allottment of the lands at Falmouth took place within the first year of the settlement. Samuel Borden, a grantee at Newport, N.S., was chosen a surveyor to lay out the various types of lots. A Town Plot of sixty acres and a Common of 200 acres were voted to be laid out on the upland which rises from the river directly across the river from the present site of Windsor, N.S. Part of the common was reserved "for a burying place".[35]

33 Minutes of Falmouth Township Meeting, 21 Aug. 1760.

34 The Beaver Pond area has probably never been under cultivation. The first road between the Village and Centre Falmouth is believed to have crossed along the upland of this area. The section immediately to the rear of the "Island Farm", now owned by Matthew and John Sexton, was used as picnic grounds and is still referred to as "Shaw's Picnic Grounds" although the oldest residents of Falmouth cannot recall when the area was used for this purpose.

35 Minutes of Falmouth Township Meeting, 11 Sept. 1760. The area reserved is the location of Falmouth Centre Cemetery. It continues to be the principal burial place at Falmouth.

A committee of five was chosen to assist in the surveying: Henry Denny Denson, Eleazer Doane, Abner Hall, Edward Wanton and Wignall Cole; the treasurer was Abner Hall and the constable was David Randall.

By the middle of November the Town Lots, the 6-acre lots and the Farm Lots had been drawn by lot and the proprietors were presumably free to improve their lands as required under the terms of the grant. The following apportionment shows the lands reserved for the Churches and Schools:[36]

	6-Acre Lots (drawn 18 Oct. 1760)	Farm Lots (drawn 15 Nov. 1760)	Dyke Lots
Meeting Minister	No. 12A	No. 20	No. 3C TownDyke
Church of England	No. 9C	No. 40	No. 26C Great Marsh
School	No. 15A	No. 5 at the Forks of the River	No. 7 - South Branch of the Forks

The first division farm lots in the lower section of the township were laid out with a marsh frontage. In the centre section the Town Plot, the Common and 6-acre lots occupied the front section and the farm lots were laid immediately to the rear of the last division of 6-acre lots. The second division farm lots were laid out from a base line at the rear of the first division farm lots in the upper section of the township. See the Falmouth Township Plan which is attached as Appendix A.

A comparison of the names in the Falmouth census return for 1770 with the list of grantees will indicate the number of changes which took place in the 10 year period following the founding of the township in 1760. By 1770 only nineteen of the original were listed as property owners and only 5 of the twenty seven grantees who received grants between 1762 and 1768.[37] This confirms that there were a number of grants escheated due to failure to improve the lots under the terms of the grant and also the number of cases of property transfers all of which will be noted in the section on the individual families in the genealogical section.

The first years of settlement were difficult ones. The condition of the dyke lands, the threat of hostility from the Indians and Acadians, the lack of roads and bridges and facilities to transport products to market all contributed toward the hardships of the pioneer settlements. The close of the Seven Year's War in 1763 had an important effect on the area since it reduced the war time activity in Nova Scotia and therefore reduced an important source of revenue for the new settlements. Many of the exchanges of properties and 37 A few of the property owners in 1770 had probably inherited their lands from the original grantees and in some cases the property may have been listed under another surname, as in the case of the widow Payzant. After her marriage to Malachi Caigan her property is listed under his name.

cancellation of grants were largely due to the economic conditions in the country at the time.

By 1766 the situation had improved. There was a particularly good harvest for that year and this opened the way for a period of growth and development in the entire area.

CASTLE FREDERICK

(Falmouth estate of J.F.W. DesBarres)

The early history of Falmouth would not be complete without some reference to Castle Frederick, which was J.F.W. DesBarres' manor house and estate located near the head of the tide at Upper Falmouth, Nova Scotia.

This section of Falmouth was a well established Acadian settlement (Pierre Landry) before the founding of Falmouth by New Englanders in 1760. The area is believed to have included a large Acadian apple orchard.

Being located at the head waters of the Avon River, at some distance from the Falmouth town site, the area was probably not favoured by the New England settlers and therefore this land was not assigned until 1763 when Joseph Frederick Wallet DesBarres, an officer of the 60th Regiment of Foot was granted 1500 acres in the upper section of the township.

J.F.W. DesBarres was born in France or Switzerland in 1721 and died at Halifax, Nova Scotia on 27th October, 1824. He was the son of Joseph Leonard and Anne Catherine (Cuvier) DesBarres. He belonged to a Huguenot family and at an early age emigrated to England. He was educated as an engineer at Basel, Switzerland and in England. Shortly after joining the British Army he was posted to the 60th Regiment of Foot (Royal Americans) and went to North America with this regiment at the opening of the Seven Years War. He served at Ticonderoga in 1757, Louisbourg in 1758 and at Quebec in 1759. For some years he was engaged in engineering studies associated with the defences of Quebec and Halifax. At the end of the war in 1763 he was granted land at Falmouth, Nova Scotia where he established a system of tenant farms surrounding his estate which he named "Castle Frederick". In subsequent years he received grants at Maccan, Nappan, Minudie, Tatamagouche and Memramcook. It has been estimated that at one point he controlled 20,000 acres in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

In 1763 he was commissioned by the Lords of the Admiralty to undertake a survey of the coasts and harbours of North America. He carried out these nautical surveys aboard a ship between the years 1763 and 1765. By 1773 his charts and maps were ready for publication. He went to London shortly after to oversee the work of publishing four volumns under the title, The Atlantic Neptune. This work is regarded as one of the most remarkable products of human industry through the arts of printing and engineering. It is now, of course, superseded by more accurate charts but the Neptune remains outstanding from an artistic stand point and individual charts and views from the Neptune are still listed for sale by leading antique bookshops throughout the world. There are many varieties of, The Atlantic Neptune, due to the fact that the plates for this work were issued over a number of years.[38]

The following is an extract from the dedication of The Atlantic Neptune:

"To The King's Most Excellent Majesty

Sir, The approbation of his sovereign has ever been the soldier's first and most valued reward. Happy then may the author think himself, who, after having spent the former part of his life in Your Majesty's Royal Grandfather's service, and, by his exertions on a variety of critical occasions during a war no less glorious than interesting, on the continent of America, obtained His Royal Approbation; and having, at the commencement of the peace of 1763, been called from the more immediate line of his Profession, to survey Coasts and Harbours until then unexplored, and to prepare the present work for the service of the British Navy and Commerce, has the honour to find his services graciously approved, and, favoured with Your Royal Permission, to lay his Performance at Your Majesty's feet for Protection and Patronage..."

J.F.W. DesBarres

In 1784 DesBarres was appointed Lieutenant-Governor of the newly-created government of Cape Breton. Soon after he founded the city of Sydney, Cape Breton and did much to promote coal mining in that area. In 1805 he was named Lieutenant-Governor of Prince Edward Island. Governor DesBarres retired in 1813 at the age of 92. He moved to Halifax, Nova Scotia where he lived to the great age of 103. Shortly prior to his death in 1824 and for sometime after, the matter of ownership of his properties came before the courts. His Acadian tenant farmers claimed title to the lands and refused to pay the rents required under the terms of the original contact. Another complication arose in 1784 when those responsible for the administration of the DesBarres estates failed to register land titles on the properties which were located in that section of Nova Scotia which became part of the newly-created province of New Brunswick.

In the previous chapter on the Acadian French, reference was made to the settlement by Acadian tenant farmers on DesBarres' Menudie estates and to the Acadians who had been employed at Castle Frederick from the early days of the Falmouth township. It is believed that the families of the Acadians who were employed by DesBarres on his nautical surveys lived at Castle Frederick and probably were among those who were later settled at Menudie. In an early census for Falmouth we find there were 10 Acadians still employed at Castle Frederick as late as 1770 which is somewhat surprising when one considers that the war between England and France ended in 1763.[39]

38 Copies of The Atlantic Neptune may be found at the following locations: National Maritime Museum, Greenwich, England, New York Public Library, Yale University, New York Historical Society and the Public Archives of Canada. The DesBarres collection of charts in the Public Archives of Canada is one of the richest DesBarres collections in existence. Complete copies of the Neptune exist in thirteen locations and there are partial copies in six others. A number of the original copper plates used in the printing of the Neptune were recently presented to the Public Archives of Canada by the British Admiralty.

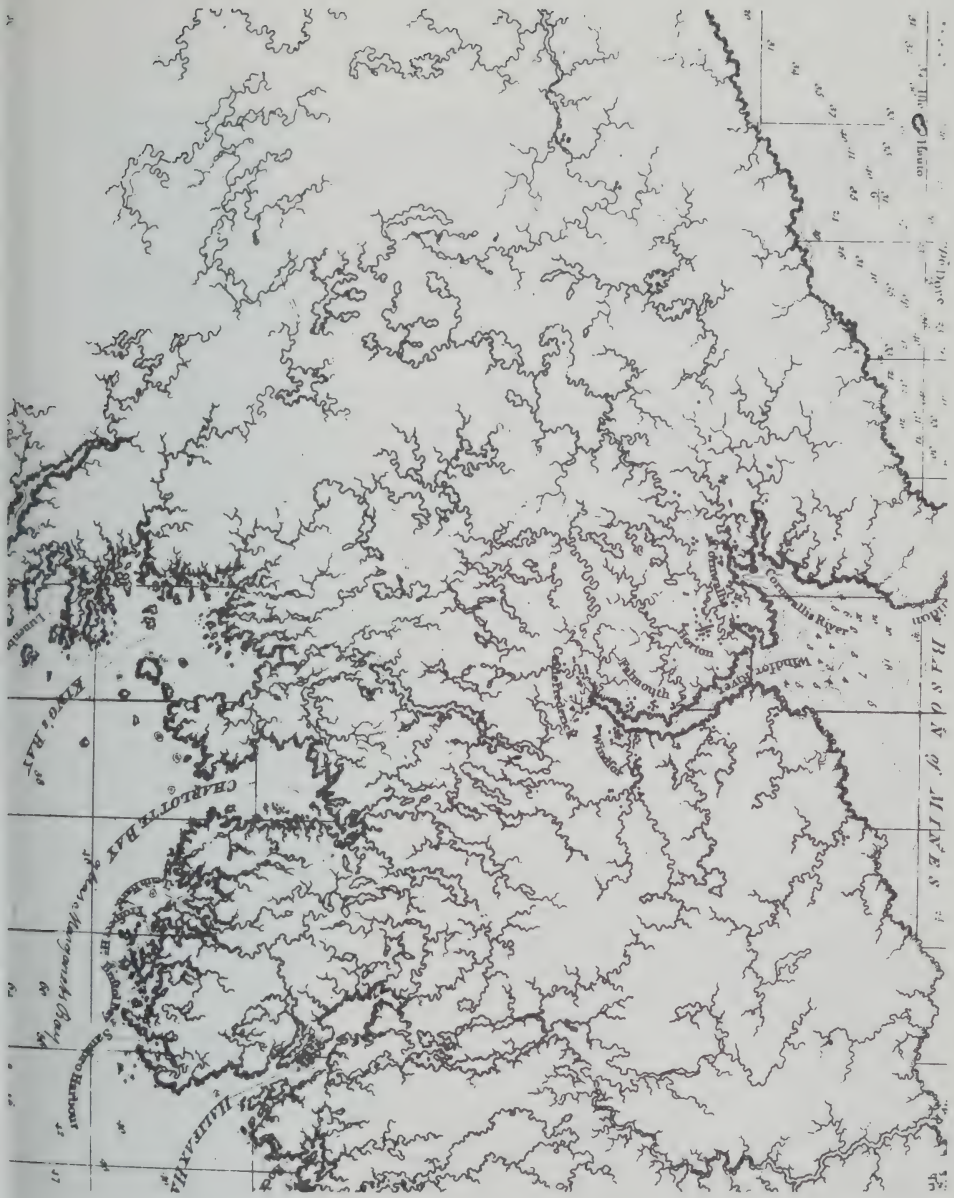

PLATE 7. SECTION OF "A CHART OF NOVA SCOTIA" SHOWING THE LOCATION OF CASTLE FREDERICK AT FALMOUTH, NOVA SCOTIA. J.F.W. DESBARRES, THE ATLANTIC NEPTUNE, VOL. 1, PT. 2, NO. 13. (PUBLIC ARCHIVES OF CANADA).

DesBarres' Falmouth properties at Castle Frederick included some 8,000 acres. He expanded his estate by agreeing to improve lands granted to others (John McKenzie and John Rohr) and by purchasing land from grantees who left the township within the first few years of the settlement.

During the period of the nautical surveys, DesBarres was absent from Castle Frederick for long periods and in 1773 he left Nova Scotia for England where he devoted all his attention to the publication of, The Atlantic Neptune. During these absences, his extensive properties were managed by a clever woman who acted as his agent. Her name was Mary (Polly) Cannon and she made her headquarters at Castle Frederick. On 3 August, 1776 she received DesBarres' Power of Attorney:[40]

> "Know ye that I, Joseph Frederick Wallet DesBarres, Esq., Surveyor of the Coasts and Harbours of North America and Captain in His Majesty's 60th Regiment of Foot now residing in Charlotte Street in London, confiding in the prudence, fidility and good conduct of my trusty friend Mary Cannon of Castle Frederick in the County of Kings, Province of Nova Scotia have appointed and constituted and by these presents do constitute and appoint the said Mary Cannon my true and lawful attorney for me in my behalf to act, transact and perform all and every thing whatsoever relative to my concerns, properties and estates in my trust lying in the Province of Nova Scotia.....

In 1776 DesBarres authorized her to act on his behalf concerning certain properties owned by Lord William Campbell at Windsor, Nova Scotia.[41]

The DesBarres Papers, which are now deposited at the Public Archives of Canada in Ottawa, include many of Mary Cannon's letters and papers relating to the DesBarres properties. One letter written in November 1785 to DesBarres, who was then at Cape Breton, is of particular interest in connection with Falmouth since she wrote that Mr. Peter Shaw's son, "a young man of good character" had requested to serve as an apprentice surveyor at Cape Breton. She also mentioned that there were a number of, "good young people here (Falmouth) who would be glad to join the new settlement under you."[42]

Some indication of the extent of the Castle Frederick estate may be learned from the Return of the State of Falmouth for 1770. The following is the report for Castle Frederick:

	Racial origin		Stock
Number of Men 42	English	14	Horses	16
Number of Boys 5	Scots	21	Oxen	24
Number of Women 13	Irish	24	Cows	30
Number of Girls 33	Americans	7	Young cattle	20
Total 93	German & other for.	17	Sheep	100
Grist Mill 1	Acadians	10	Swine	3
Wheat 290	Religion
Pease 100	Protestant	54
Oats 400	Roman Catholic	39

40 DesBarres Papers, Vol. 18, No. 3429 (Public Archives of Canada).

41 Ibid, No. 3435.

42 Ibid, No. 3327-3334.

The Castle Frederick property was considered for many years to be one of the finest grazing and fruit growing farms in the province. There is some evidence to show that there were large apple orchards on this property, probably dating from the Acadian period. DesBarres is believed to have exported annually over 1600 kegs of cider from this property alone.

The main highway between Halifax and Annapolis crossed over the Avon river near the site of Castle Frederick and there are many legends concerning Governor DesBarres' hospitality to his naval and military guests from Halifax. H.R.H. Prince William, who was stationed with the British Navy at Halifax, is believed to have visited Governor DesBarres at Castle Frederick and Captain Cook, the famous explorer, is also believed to have been a visitor.

In 1796 Governor DesBarres made an agreement with a Windsor nurseryman named Joseph Gray to purchase 30,000 apple trees for planting on his various properties throughout Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. The nursery was situated in Windsor, Nova Scotia on the Gerrish Hall property. The present location at Windsor would be the head of Gray Street at King. The nursery is believed to have extended back as far as the present Fort Edward golf course. In the spring of 1793 the nursery contained a stock of some 200,000 apple trees but Mr. Gray later reported that this number had been reduced, "by my being plundered of a considerable part." DesBarres agreed to transplant 30,000 of the trees at a price of £4 per 1000. He made the stipulation, however, that payment would be made on the basis of, "all of said trees as may be alive the beginning of the second year after being transplanted to said DesBarres' lands." No further record has been recovered concerning this matter but when one considers the locations of DesBarres properties, it seems likely that the Castle Frederick site would be the most suited for the growing of fruit trees.

In recent years descendants of Governor DesBarres have sold part of the Castle Frederick property, however, W.F.D. Bremner, a DesBarres descendant, now occupies a fine farm property at Castle Frederick. The actual site of the Castle Frederick manor house has been disputed but a map prepared by E. Bessie Lockhart in 1911[43] shows the location of the building on the hillside facing the Avon River near the present location of the home of Herbert Coombes.

In the past few years considerable research on DesBarres has been undertaken and it is hoped that this material will soon appear in published form. Dr. Will R. Bird, the well known Nova Scotian author and Dr. G.N.D.H.LL. Evans of McGill University have both carried out research on DesBarres. Dr. Evans' doctoral dissertation on DesBarres is now on deposit at the Sterling Library, Yale University.

CHAPTER V

MOUNT DENSON

"Mount Denson" was the name which Henry Denny Denson, one of the original Falmouth grantees, gave to his mansion house and estate located in the lower section of Falmouth. The term Mount Denson today is used to denote that section of the township of Falmouth which lies between Lower Falmouth and the town of Hantsport.

At the founding of the Falmouth settlement, Henry Denny Denson received a grant of 2000 acres in his own name and an additional 1250 acres on 25 June, 1762 on behalf of Henry Maturin Denson and Lucy Denson. He also took out grant rights (1000 acres) on behalf of Timothy Sanders and Nathaniel Wood. Denson thereby became one of Falmouth's largest land owners.

Henry Denny Denson was probably born in Ireland about 1715. He was married there about 1735 at Foxford, County Mayo, Ireland to Edith _____. One daughter, Elizabeth Denson was born to this marriage and in August 1782 she was living in Ireland and married to George Cartland, Counsellor at Law, St. Stephens Green, Dublin.[44] Henry Denny Denson joined the British Army and served as a Lieutenant in Colonel Gooch's regiment. His name appears in British Army records for 1743 and 1744 when he was shown on half pay.[45] We have no further information concerning Denson until 1760 when he appears in Nova Scotia as a government official at Pisiquid. It is believed that he supervised the building of the stockade and Fort Lawrence on the Falmouth side of the river. In one of the first Falmouth town meetings it was voted that an Acadian building located near his dwelling by the fort, "be appropriated to the use and benefit of the proprietors as long as it shall be needed for to (sic) store the provisions allowed to the proprietors by His Majesty."[46]

Many of the early township meetings were held at Denson's dwelling located in the town plot near Fort Lawrence. It is difficult to determine from the resolutions of the early meetings the part Denson played in the first days of the settlement. His name is seldom mentioned in the proceedings - one exception being his election as First Committeeman to assist in laying out the lands.[47] His position as magistrate and government official could however account for his name not appearing as an active participant at the local township meetings.

At the end of hostilities of the Seven Year's War, Denson, like all other Falmouth settlers, had drawn lots and established himself on his own lands.

It is believed that his mansion house, "Mount Denson" was built about 1772. It was a large stockaded building located on the hill which overlooks the present town of Hantsport.[48] The only trace of this fine dwelling today is the depression of the cellar in an apple orchard located at the top of Holmes Hill at Mount Denson on the main road between Windsor and Hantsport.

In 1775 Denson was appointed Lieutenant-Colonel in Governor Legge's Loyal Nova Scotia Volunteers, a regiment raised at the time of the American Revolution. The following extracts from Denson's correspondence to Governor Legge at Halifax will indicate his feelings towards the loyalties of the New England settlers at Falmouth and the other Minas townships:

"Your Excellency's letter of the 25th instant with the recruiting instructions I received yesterday evening with regard to the honour you propose me of Lieutenant-Colonel to your regiment, I most sincerely thank you and do not only willingly accept thereof but shall on all occasion endeavour to deserve it. The instructions shall be punctually obeyed. I am entirely of the opinion with you in regard to giving some subaltern commissions among these people but we must be pretty sure they are worthy of them.

I have sent to such as I can confide in to come from the lower towns to my house in order to find how their pulse beat. It would be unjust to the service as well as ungrateful to you to keep my opinion from you in anything necessary for you knowledge. The implacable rancour of the people of this country against His Majesty's government is prodigious, consequently there is little probability of one great success amongst them, yet what can be done shall....

The few Irish servants that was here out of place are snapped up by the recruiting parties of Colonel Gorham and Captain McDonald."[49]

"The deserters from your regiment are all at Machias (Maine) and have an armed vessel ready to carry me off when I return to the Country."[50]

"An extreme good surgeon has offered his service as surgeon to your regiment.....My chief dependence is on Dr. Head, Captain Thos. Farrell at Cornwallis and Lieutenent Geo. Hallyburton at Horton all staunch Loyalists as to any of the Dissenters of New England, not one of them in my pinion will accept of a Commission of any term whatever."[51]

48 There is a tradition that some of the doors and window frames of the Denson mansion house were used in the construction of the Shaw-Schurman home at Mount Denson.

49 Denson to Gov. Legge, Falmouth, 29 Dec. 1775, Dartmouth Mss, 1.2.1210 Vol. II, Pt. 1, (Public Archives of Canada).

The quotations concerning deserters at Machias is one of the many indications of Denson's unpopularity. Another document, now on file in the British Museum in London, is more detailed in this respect. The record is in the form of a Petition and Complaint addressed to the Lords of Trade and Plantations and signed by sixty three settlers of Horton, Cornwallis, Newport and Falmouth. The following are some of the complaints against Colonel H.D. Denson:[52]

> Notwithstanding Governor Lawrence's promise re protection by His Majesty's Troops, 100 Farmers were forced from the defence of their habitations and collecting their hay harvest to march a distance of 50 miles by Colonel H.D. Denson to do guard duty. Families were left exposed to the insults of the Indians and upwards of 20 more taken to do guard duty at Fort Edward for 4 or 5 weeks.
> Colonel H.D. Denson being vested with much power and authority by virtue of a great number of commissions conferred on him by the Lt.-Gov., he does by his most arbitrary....hurt, abuse his power among the settlers. That he has acted as Informer, Judge and Receiver in cases of excise. He has ordered thieves to be dismissed from the hands of civil justice and declared he had power so to do by virtue of martial law and never suffered them afterwards to be brought to trial. Though a principal magistrate he does by his immoral swearing, sabbath breaking and other immoralities, contrary to His Majesty's Royal Proclamation and example which is contrary to law, a reproach to authority and a great discouragement to religion and piety among us.

In the 1770 Falmouth census, Henry Denny Denson's household included a total of twenty two persons. It is of interest that sixteen of these were of American origin and were probably negro slaves since at the time of Denson's death there were at least 5 slaves living on the Mount Denson estate. Although Denson's farm operations did not compare with the Castle Frederick farm in the upper section of the township, it was well stocked: 8 horses, 18 oxen, 34 cows, 34 young cattle, 150 sheep and 12 swine. The farm produced 250 bushels of wheat, 10 bushels of flax seed and 40 bushels of oats.

Legends have been passed on to succeeding generations concerning Denson's generous hospitality. The legends tell of the merry sounds of the fiddles and the happy laughter of the guests at the dances and dinners held at "Mount Denson." One story concerning Denson has come down to us through a Falmouth family whose New England ancestor attended one of these festivities. Colonel Denson's nose is alleged to have been exceptionally long and when his guest was passing with a partner in a dance, Colonel Denson gracefully pressed his nose to one side with the remark, "Bear, away brother."

52 Brown Mss, 19069, f. 54. (British Museum, London). Signatures of the following Falmouth residents appear on this document: Ichabod Stoddard, Joseph Wilson, Shubael Dimock, Abraham Marsters, Henry Lyon, John Hicks, John Steele, Abner Hall, Luke Horswell, Johan Schaffner, James Willson, Nehemiah Wood, Wm. Alline, Jonathan Marsters, Andrew Marsters, John Loveless, Jesse Crossman, Cyprian Davison, David Pike, Wm. Wood, Jonathan Davison, Nathaniel Reynolds, Sam. Browne, John Meacham, David Randall.

For many years Colonel Denson suffered from the gout and early in 1780 he was forced to resign his commission as Lieutenant-Colonel in the Loyal Nova Scotia Volunteer Regiment due to his condition of health. He died at Mount Denson on 3 June 1780 and was buried in the Denson family cemetery in an oak grove near the banks of the Avon River and almost directly below the site of his mansion house, "Mount Denson".[53] It was reported that on the third day after his death, a clammy perspiration came out on his forehead and the story concluded with a statement that his coffin was covered with 10 feet of soil mixed with plenty of rocks.

After Colonel Denson's death, his Falmouth properties were managed by a foreman named John Irish (see Irish family). The administrator in the Denson estate was Peter Shey. The probate papers contain detailed accounts of the income and expenses for the period immediately following Denson's death and throw considerable light on the operations of the Denson property. The records show that two famous Nova Scotian lawyers, Haliburton and Uniacke acted for Denson. The Denson library included the following: 7 volumes The Preface of England, Collis Dictionary, Maxwel's Husbandry, Burns Laws (4 volumes), 2 volumes of Heraldy, Treatise of the Law & Customs of Parliament, A New Geographical Grammar, Provincial Laws, Jacobs Law Dictionary, The Practical Farmer, The Complete Horseman, Every Man His Own Lawyer, The Gardeners New Calendar, 20 volumes Swift Works, The Spectator - 7 volumes, The Father - 4 volumes, Select and Remarkable Epitaphs 2 volumes, Storris Works - 3 volumes, The Attorney's Pocket Book - 2 volumes, Gill Blass - 4 volumes, Gazetter, Dictionary of Heraldry, The Law of Evidence, The Law of Errors, The Life of Servitus, Works of Colly Cibber Esq. - 2 volumes, The Law concerning Estates, General Abridgement of the Common Law, Hawkins Pleas of the Crown, McCollins Peerage of England - 7 volumes, French and English Dictionary, An Account Book, Tisset on Health.

The probate records report the sale of Spruce, a Negro man for the sum of £75 and of John for £60. They were sold to a Halifax buyer and the expenses in sending a man to deliver them to Halifax amount to 2/12/6. Sometime later the estate sold a Negro boy named Jube and later a Negro man and woman, Pompey and Phebe were sold for £105. It is of interest that Dr. Head, who was Denson's physician, included in his account an item, "for attending the Negros". The account for 1781 lists an amount of 6 shillings paid to Spruce and John at Christmas, "as was customary for their Master".

The major portion of the Denson estate was claimed by Mrs. Martha Whitfield who was Colonel Denson's housekeeper for twenty years. The land transfer records show several transactions during her residence at Falmouth. On 13 January 1770 Martha Whitfield, widow was shown as a guardian to her daughter Lucy and on that date she exchanged lands in Falmouth (Farm Lot # 7) for land in Nappan, Township of Amherst which had been granted to H.D. Denson.

53 The gravestones in the Denson cemetery have now all been removed but older residents of the area have reported that they existed as late as 1900. The cemetery was located near the Half Way River (Cacaquet) aboiteau and it is possible that the stones were used when the aboiteau was restored in the early 1900's.

On 9 December, 1769 Mrs. Whitfield released lands in Falmouth and stock of cattle which she had leased from H.D. Denson on 2 July, 1764 (Farm Lots No. 1, 2, 6 and part of 8 and 39). On 1 July, 1783 Martha Whitfield leased Farm Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 with Mansion House, buildings and stock at Mount Denson to Joseph Curry. Mrs. Whitfield died at Windsor in 1802. Her probate papers on file in Halifax confirm that she obtained a judgement against the Estate of H.D. Denson for £2,222/4/5. It is believed that she was related to the Deschamps family of Windsor, Nova Scotia.[54]

54 Martha Whitfield was probably related to Elizabeth Fletcher who was the first wife of George Deschamps son of Isaac Deschamps of Windsor, N.S. A Robert Fletcher was living at Mount Denson at the time of Denson's death in 1780.

CHAPTER VI

REV. HENRY ALLINE (1748-1784)

> "Like a flame of fire he swept through the land at a period when there brooded over it a spirit of darkness, of which it is now difficult even to conceive....His work was of permanent character....Henry Alline is the Whitefield of Nova Scotia." - Prof. Benj. Rand (1893)

Henry Alline, the Newlight evangelist, has been called the Apostle of Nova Scotia. He was born at Newport, Rhode Island on 14 June, 1748 and came to Nova Scotia with his parents William and Rebecca (Clark) Alline who received a grant of land at Falmouth when the township was founded in 1760.[55]

As a youth, Alline was strongly influenced by the stern Calvanistic doctrines of the Congregational Church and as he grew to manhood he developed a keen sense of guilt for his sins and was continually haunted by what would happen if he died in his lost condition.

He took an active part in the social life of the settlement and was the leader of the Falmouth young people. In 1766 he was appointed a constable by the Court of Sessions of the Peace and at a later date he was offered a commission in the County Militia. As a leader of the youth of Falmouth he organized dances and other social gatherings but his inner doubts and fears were constantly on his mind as shown in the following quotation from his Life and Journal which was published in Boston in 1806:

> "I now began to be esteemed in young company, who knew nothing of my mind all this while, and this esteem began to be a snare to my soul, for I soon began to be fond of carnal mirth, though I still flattered myself that if I did not get drunk, nor curse, nor swear, there would be no sin in frolicking and carnal mirth, and I thought God would indulge young people with some (what I called simple or civil) recreation."[56]

When he was about twenty-four years of age Alline began to turn away from the, "pleasures of the frolicks". He relates that on one occasion he spoke to the fiddler in French asking him to "desist playing". To oblige Alline the fiddler ended the dance giving an excuse that he was tired.[57]

55 Henry Alline was baptised at the 1st Congregational Church, Newport, R.I. His parents were Bostonians who had removed to Newport, R.I. before taking up Gov. Lawrence's offer of free land in Nova Scotia. The Alline grant included Farm Lot 46 and the site of the Alline homestead was situated near Alline Brook in the vicinity of Aylward's gravelpit. The farm adjoining the Alline lot was owned by the widow MaryPayzant, the mother of the Rev. John Payzant (Henry Alline's brother-in-law). (See Alline family in the Genealogical section).

57 Ibid, p. 16. Alline probably learned to speak French as a child. The Payzant family lived nearby and French was their native language.

On 13 February, 1775, Henry Alline underwent a profound religious conversion which he describes in great detail in his Life and Journal. Following this experience he became convinced that his mission in life was to "preach the Gospel". He was very concerned about his lack of a formal education and made plans to go to New England to further his studies.

> "As for learning, it was true I had read and studied more than was common for one in my station, but my education was but small; what I had of human literature I had acquired of myself without schooling, excepting what I obtained before I was eleven years of age, for I never went to school after I came to Nova Scotia."[58]

Before he set out for New England in October 1775, the vessel which was to take him was seized by American Privateers and he was advised that a passage would not be available until the following spring.

With the encouragement of friends and especially his brother-in-law John Payzant, he began his preaching mission by speaking at a special service on April 18th, 1776.[59] Almost from the beginning of his ministry he was dubbed a "Newlight" and his converts were given that name. The Newlight movement in Nova Scotia traces its beginnings to New England. Professor Armstrong in, The Great Awakening in Nova Scotia states that the New England churches became divided into two factions over the religious revival which began when the English evangelist, the Reverend George Whitefield visited America in 1740. The faction which favoured the revival was named Newlight. In 1742 the General Court of Connecticut took firm measures by passing an "Act for regulating Abuses and corrécting Disorders in Ecclesiastical Affairs". This law required ministers to obtain a license to preach and prevented any minister from preaching in another parish without the consent of the minister of the church of that area. But the Newlights were not easily controlled and one of their number cried, "That law made for restraining such preaching and exhorting was made by the Devil in the lowest pit of Hell".[60] Newlight churches were organized and continued to function especially in Windham and New London counties of Connecticut.

When the New England settlers came to Nova Scotia in 1760 considerable numbers came from Connecticut. At Falmouth, the Connecticut families included: S. Barnaby, John, Jonathan and Cyprian Davison, Shubael Dimock, Abner Hall, Daniel Hovey, David Randall and John Steel. During the early period of the settlement we know that Dissenting preachers held religious services at Falmouth. Shubael Dimock of Mansfield, Connecticut was at Falmouth from the very beginning of the settlement and began preaching.[61]

59 Rev. John Payzant (1749-1834) is said to have been one of Alline's first converts. He was ordained a minister of the Congregational Church and served as minister at the Old Zion Meeting House (New Light) at Liverpool, N.S.

60 Quoted in The Great Awakening in Nova Scotia, p. 10.

Another early preacher was Daniel Hovey, Senior of Horton who was the father of Daniel Junior and Enoch Hovey, grantees at Falmouth, N.S. In 1761 a charge was made against Daniel Hovey Senior at the Kings County Court of Quarter Sessions for, "uttering certain scandalous words and expressions tending to stir up sedition in the minds of His Majesty's subjects". There was also a complaint that he "undertook to preach the Gospel". When questioned by the Court, Mr. Hovey replied that he saw no justice in their proceedings and that he would preach until they "cut out his tongue". Mr. Hovey was taken into custody until sureties could be found. The case was referred to the Council at Halifax which took a different view of the matter. The Council ruled that the actions of the Justices at King's County Court had been "irregular" in the Hovey case. The Council no doubt recalled Governor Lawrence's promise of "full liberty of conscience....to persons of all persuasions".[62]

In 1769 the Reverend Joseph Bennett, the Church of England missionary in the area reported that two Anabaptist ministers had visited the mission, one at Falmouth and the other at Newport.[63] When the Reverend Wm. Ellis succeeded Mr. Bennett in 1775 he found at Falmouth "a house set aside for divine service but it now is in ruins". He also reported that "Fanatical Preachers are starting up every day.....I suppose it is known at home, that the Fanatics are Rebels to a man".[64]

This then was the setting in which Henry Alline began his ministry as a travelling evangelist. A number of congregations asked him to become their pastor but he declined stating that he wished to travel throughout the various sections of the country. But he constantly had difficulty from groups who felt that a preacher should be ordained. In January 1779 discussions took place within the Congregational Church regarding Alline's ordination and there was considerable difficulty since he was unwilling to confine his preaching to one particular area as was customary in the Congregational Church. The problem was however overcome by an agreement that he be ordained "an itinerant or travelling Pastor and Teacher to Preach the Gospel of Jesus Christ and Administer the Ordinances in Christ-Churches whereever the Lord our God in his Providence shall call him there unto.....which is according to the best light and knowledge we have at present."[65] The ordination took place at Falmouth in a large barn on 6 April, 1779. Nine delegates, three from each of the Congregational (Newlight) Churches of Cornwallis, Falmouth and Newport, and the Baptist Church of Horton laid their hands upon Henry Alline's head and issued the ordination certificate. The certificate was signed by Abner Hall, Schoolmaster, Benjamin Kinsman and Isaac Biglow of Cornwallis; Nicholas Pierson, Pastor and Peter Bishop and Benjamin Kinsman, Junior deacons of

Horton; and Daniel Dimock of Newport.[66]

Following his ordination, Alline paid his first visit to New Brunswick. Alline did not stay long in one location. His means of travel was mainly by horseback and tradition says that he always owned a fine horse. In winter he sometimes travelled on snowshoes and would use the coastal schooners to visit the tiny settlements along the South Shore of Nova Scotia. Alline was noted for his ability to move the most apathetic audience and religious authorities refer to him as a "flaming evangelist" of the order of Wesley and Whitefield. In 1781 he completed arrangements for the publication of his first theological work, Two Mites, on some of the most important and much disputed Points of Divinity, which was published at Halifax, Nova Scotia by A. Henry.

In April 1781 an incident occurred at the garrison town of Windsor which demonstrates the degree of hostility which Alline's revival meetings caused. While conducting a meeting at the home of a friend, an Army officer came to Alline and advised him to leave Windsor as his life was in danger. Later an angry group of men approached the house and threatened him but Alline refused to leave and continued the meeting.

During the year 1782 he travelled constantly and preached at Yarmouth, Annapolis, Barrington, Cumberland, Maugerville, Prince Edward Island, Pictou, Truro, Liverpool and made another tour of the Barrington and Yarmouth districts. Although copies have not been recovered, it is believed that a pamphlet containing twenty-two of his hymns were published at Halifax during 1782 and it is believed that these were used at his revival meetings throughout the country.[67]

In 1783 the illness which was to end Alline's life prevented him from travelling for most of the year. He visited the South Shore in the early part of the year and returned to Falmouth in April. His illness became very severe and he realized that he was the victim of consumption. During this period at Falmouth he wrote a number of hymns which were to appear later in his Hymns and Spiritual Songs. He had probably written his 2nd theological work, The Anti-Traditionalist sometime before, since this seventy-four page pamphlet was published in Halifax in 1783.

His condition improved slightly and he decided to fulfill a promise to preach in New England. On 27 August, 1783 he set out from Windsor by vessel on his final journey. Kneeling on the wharf at Windsor, he prayed for his native land asking among other things that Falmouth might never "want for witnesses of the truth". The voyage proved to be long and tedious and he at length asked to be put ashore at Jones River. He visited and preached at many of the New England coastal settlements. He bought a horse and sleigh and reached Northampton, New Hampshire on 22 January 1784 in a very weakened condition. On Sunday 25 January he rode to the Meeting House at Northampton and preached his last sermon (Luke 19:5). On February 1st, 1784, at the home of the Reverend David McClure, Congregational Minister of North-Hill, Northampton, New Hampshire he passed away. His funeral was held from the Congregational Church at Northampton on 3 February. The Reverend Dr. Langdon conducted the service. Pall bearers were neighbouring ministers: Reverend Mr. Noble, St. John's River, N.B.,[68] Reverend David McClure of Northampton, N.H., Reverend Mr. McClintock, Greenland, N.H., Reverend Mr. Buckminster, Portsmouth, N.H., Reverend Mr. Thayer, Hampton, N.H. and Reverend Dr. Langdon, Hampton Falls, N.H. Burial was made near the grave of the Reverend Mr. Gooking, a former pastor of the Congregational Church, North Hampton, N.H.

The original gravestone bore the following inscription:

> "The Reverend Henry Alline > of Falmouth, Nova Scotia in > the midst of his zealous travels > in the cause of Christ, languished > on the way, and cheerfully resigned > his life at North Hampton, 2 Feb.
> 1784 in the 35 year of his age, > whose remains are here interred."

Some years later the following additional words were added by his nephew Joseph Alline of Boston.[69]

> He was a burning and a shining light > and justly esteemed the Apostle of > Nova Scotia.

Alline's ministry has been the subject of severe attacks from many quarters. His informal type of worship, his enthusiasm and his objections to the extreme forms of Calvinism all played their part in building up intense feelings toward him. An example of the antagonism against Alline may be found in, Letters of John Wesley. Wesley writes:

> "(Alline) is a wild absurd man, wiser in his own eyes than seven men that can render a reason and he has done much mischief among his breathern.... Have a care of him for he will do more harm among you than ever he can do good."[70]

But Alline's fervent type of preaching brought those to his meetings who never attended formal religious services. Dr. Levy in his, The Baptists of the Maritime Provinces writes: "despite the opposition that was aroused in many quarters...the net result of his labours was large and permanent" [71]

Although Alline remained a Newlight Congregationalist throughout his ministry, he made "a peculiar contribution towards Baptist beginnings in the Maritimes".[72] His theories on the new birth, regenerate church membership and autonomy for local churches all fit the Baptist order.[73] The basic difference between his Newlight teachings and that of the Baptists concerned his belief that forms of baptism were unimportant. It is therefore not surprising that after Alline's death in 1784, Baptist churches in the area where he had been most active, made important gains and eventually became the third largest religious denomination in Nova Scotia.

Alline's short ministry (1776 to 1784) involved constant travelling under conditions which to our modern age are difficult to imagine. Depite this and also the fact that he did not have any formal education after coming to Nova Scotia at the age of twelve years, he was able to produce a great number of religious writings of which the following have been published: (1) Two Mites, (2) The Anti-Traditionalist, (3) Hymns and Spiritual Songs, (4) Life and Journal and (5) Three Sermons.

In 1781, A. Henry published Two Mites at Halifax and The Anti-Traditionalist appeared in 1783. In these works Alline outlined his doctrinal position. Professor Armstrong in writing of, The Anti-Traditionalist states:

> "Every chapter ends with an outburst of passionate pleading whose rhythmic cadence helps one to understand the tremendous effect of Alline's preaching".[74]

Both of these theological works were reprinted after Alline's death. Two Mites appeared in 1804 as, Two Mites Cast into the Offering of God for the Benefit of Mankind. The Anti-Traditionalist was also reprinted at Dover, New Hampshire in 1797.[75]

Three of Alline's sermons which he delivered during his last journey to the South Shore of Nova Scotia was published by A. Henry of Halifax: They were entitled:

(1) A sermon preached to and at the request of a religious society of young men and engaged for the maintaining and enjoying of religious worship in Liverpool - 19th November, 1782.

(2) A sermon on a Day of Thanksgiving - 21st November, 1782.

(3) A sermon preached on the 19th February, 1783 at Fort Medway.

The last sermon was republished in 1795 at Newburyport, Massachusetts as A Gospel Greeting and at Dover, New Hampshire in 1797 as A Gospel Call.[76]

Alline's Life and Journal was published in 1806. It is a detailed account of his inner life and a chronological summary of his missionary travels throughout the Maritimes and New England. Alline wrote his journal in shorthand and his nephew had the work deciphered and published by Gilbert and Dean at Boston.

Although Alline is believed to have been the most prolific hymn writer of his day,[77] he has received little recognition as a hymn writer. A number of his hymns are believed to have been printed at Halifax but a copy of this edition has not yet been recovered. Editions of the Hymns were printed at Boston in 1784; at Dover, New Hampshire in 1795 and again in 1797, and at Stonington-Port, Connecticut in 1802.[78] Some of Alline's hymns were included in later hymnals but they were usually included anonymously. Four verses of, "Amazing sight, the Saviour Stands" were published in Baptist Hymnal by the American Baptist Publication Society.[79] Falmouth residents will recall that this hymnal was used at the Falmouth Baptist Church until about 1940 when it was replaced by the current hymnal. The complete Alline hymn which was included in the Baptist Hymnal is as follows:

Amazing sight, the Saviour stands
And knocks at every door;
Ten thousand blessings in His hands,
For to supply the poor.

Behold, saith He, I bleed and die,
To bring poor souls to rest;
Hear, sinners, while I'm passing by,
And be forever blest.

Will you despise such bleeding love
And choose the way to hell;
Or in the glorious realms above,
With me forever dwell?

Not to condemn your sinking race
Have I in judgment come,
But to display unbounded grace
And bring lost sinners home.

May I not save your wretched soul
From sin, from death, and hell?
Wounded or sick, I'll make you whole,
And you with me shall dwell.

Say, will you hear my gracious voice,
And have your sins forgiven?
Or will you make a wretched choice,
And bar yourselves from Heaven?

Will you go down to endless night,
And have eternal pain?
Or swell in everlasting light
Where I in glory reign?

Come, answer now before I go,
While I am passing by,
Say, will you marry me, or no,
Say, will you live or die?

The following appeared as Hymn LXXXVIII in the 1797 edition:

Awake, awake ten thousand tongues,
And praise yourmost exalted songs.
Around the great incarnate name!
While heav'nly love your breaths inspire,
Let worlds above in sacred lyre
Resound his everlasting fame.

Ye that have reached the immortal plains,
Rouse, rouse, your most exalted strains
And bend your sceptres round his throne;
Tell how he threw his glory by,
With pity stoop'd below the sky,
And made his love to mortals known.

Tell how he bow'd his glorious head
Down to the regions of the dead,
And felt the pangs of hell and death;
What sorrows did his soul sustain.

Hymn XCVII (Book V)

Sweet are the rays of sacred love!
They call my soul to realms above;
I drop the earth, disdain her charms,
O hand me to my Saviour's arms.

Some rays of love divine I feel,
Cheers all my soul, allures my will,
But, O, for a more speedy flight,
To bear me home to realms of light.

If Christ both made salvation mine,
Let me possess my realm divine,
Those claims transporting let me see,
And ever with my Jesus be.

O happy morn, when all my soul
Is ravish'd with my love, my all!
My heart inflam'd withsacred fire,
Shall ever join seraphic lyre.

Professor Armstrong, who is probably the best authority on Alline, points out that some of Alline's verses are not without literary merit. For example his verses inspired by the Fundy's tide and thunder storms in the Annapolis Valley:[80]

Awake thou bell'wing ocean wide
Rouse all the tenants of your deep:
And let the murmurs of your tide,
Boil up and in His praises leap.

Like angry bulls with rapid force
Spread o'er the hills with muttering voice.

CHAPTER VII

JOE COPEE'S DOG NAMED DUC

An Acadian legend which relates the rescue of a man and wife and his three children by a dog named Duc has come down to us through the writings of the late Reverend W.B. Bezanson.[81]

The legend concerns Duc, a dog owned by Joe Copee, a Micmac Indian who lived at Indian Orchard at the head of the tide on or near the farm now owned by John Devenny of Windsor Forks. The indian had rescued the dog from the ill-fated French fleet of the Duc d'Anville which was forced into Chebucto Harbour (Halifax) in the fall of 1746. The dog was appropriately named Duc and taken back to the Indian camp at the Pisiquid River. Near Joe Copee's camp at the fording place in the river there was a family named Labrador and Duc soon became fast friends with the three children in the family.

The Labrador family lived on a point of land which was almost surrounded by the river. One winter's day the tide rose to an unusual height and the water and ice completely surrounded the Labrador farm. It was soon realized that the point of land was in danger of breaking from the shore and drifting out on the turn of the tide. The inhabitants of the area collected nearby but no one wished to risk taking a canoe into the dangerous tidal waters.

At length, Joe Copee instructed Duc to swim across the icy water to the stranded family. The dog soon returned with the youngest child tied to his back. Duc returned twice more and the two other children were carried across the channel in the same manner. Joe Copee then dispatched Duc with one end of a rope and when the dog arrived on the opposite shore, Paul Labrador tied the rope to a toboggan and his wife was pulled across to safety. In a similar manner Paul Labrador was brought ashore. The news of the rescue of the Labrador family by Joe Copee's dog, Duc, became well known throughout the Acadian country and the legend has been told and retold many times.

CHAPTER VIII

SCHOOLS

Although records for the Acadian period do not confirm that there were schools in the Falmouth area prior to the arrival of the New England settlers, it is very probable that the French Missionaries during the years of the Acadian settlement, i.e., 1685 to the expulsion of 1755, conducted the first classes in the area known today as Falmouth.

At the founding of the Township in 1760, the settlement was provided with a grant of 600 acres for the benefit of schools. Little is known regarding the early schools but it seems likely that one of the grantees, Abner Hall, a land surveyor from Mansfield, Connecticut and the first Township Clerk of Falmouth conducted classes for the children of the Township. Mr. Hall left the Falmouth area about 1772 and moved to Cornwallis where, as we shall see later, he took a leading part in the formation of the New Light Congregational Church of Cornwallis and in the ordination of the Reverend Henry Alline. There were schools established within family groups and it is not surprising that records for such schools have not been preserved.

We do have some information concerning the schools which were organized by the Missionaries of the Church of England. As early as 1765 the first S.P.G. Missionary[82] in the Windsor-Falmouth area reported to his London headquarters that he had not been successful in recruiting, "any person of capacity to undertake the task (of Schoolmaster)"[83] and stated that the principal reason for his difficulty was the amount of the salary. Mr. Bennett reported that a school had been opened at Windsor on 1 January 1767 by a Falmouth gentleman named Samuel Watts. Whether he conducted classes at Falmouth before opening the school at Windsor in not known. There are records of a lease of land in March 1765 from J.F.W. DesBarres and it is possible that he came to the Falmouth area as a teacher for the Castle Frederick settlement.[84] Mr. Watts served as a clerk to Mr. Bennett at Falmouth which I believe would mean that he assisted Mr. Bennett with the catechism classes and in reading certain Church of England services.

On 1 April 1767 William O'Brien was appointed as the first S.P.G. Schoolmaster at Falmouth. His report to the S.P.G. stated that fifty children had attended the school in the summer months and thirty during the winter.[85]

84 Rev. Joseph Bennett in his report to the S.P.G. of 18 Sept. 1767 stated that Samuel Watts had been granted a license to teach at Halifax by Gov. Lawrence. He reported that Watts was, "capable of teaching to read, write and keep accounts, is a good Latin scholar and a perfect master of the French Language". In 1769 Mr. Watts had removed to Halifax where he was offered more than the Schoolmaster's salary at Windsor.

85 Wm. O'Brien to S.P.G., 1 April 1769 - PANS. William O'Brien (1728-1789) son of Timothy O'Brien who was a grantee at Noel, N.S. Wm. O'Brien was founder of the O'Brien family of the Windsor area.

In 1769 George Hallyburton, a brother of William Hallyburton one of the grantees at Newport, N.S., replaced Samuel Watts as teacher at Windsor. In 1770 Mr. Hallyburton reported to the S.P.G. that he had large congregations at both Windsor and Falmouth indicating that he assisted the missionary Mr. Bennett at Falmouth.

Mr. Bennett made an appeal in 1773 for schoolmasters to cover the Falmouth and Newport districts. His report suggested that the residents of the area would provide funds for the support of the teacher over and above the salary paid by the S.P.G. and he also referred to the public lands which had been set aside at Falmouth and Newport for the benefit of schools.

There are two interesting references to the lack of educational facilities at Falmouth during the first years of the settlement. The references are statements of two of Falmouth's most famous preachers: Reverend Henry Alline (1748-1784) and Reverend Edward Manning (1767-1851) both of whom lived in Falmouth during the early period. Alline who arrived with his parents from Newport, R.I. in 1760 mentioned in his Life and Journal[86] that his formal education ended at the age of 11 when he left Rhode Island. The other commentary on schools at Falmouth was made by the Reverend Edward Manning:

"The common schools were generally of an inferior character, and, in many districts there were no schools at all. Teachers were commonly intemperate. The last four teachers I was under were all fond of stimulants. What a curse of youth, to be placed under the care of men who care nothing for their moral or religious interests. Thus miserable were the schools conducted. I have been a sufferer all my days for the want of instruction in my youth and the whole population in rural districts suffered in like manner."[87]

From the very beginning there was a system of trades training. The early probate records show that sons were indentured in a trade. A good example of an agreement covering an apprenticeship training was made in 1821 between Captain John Wilson[88] and a youth named Chandler Coulson:[89]

This Indenture Witnesseth that CHANDLER COULSON of the age of_____ years of the Parish of St. Andrews and James Parkinson, Samuel Watts and Ephraim Willard overseers of the Poor of the said Parish do by these presents with the approbation and consent of Robert Pagan and Donald McLachlan Esquires, Justices of the Peace for the said County of Charlotte put him the said CHANDLER COULSON by his own free will and accord an apprentice to JOHN WILSON of St. Andrews aforesaid Merchant to learn the ART TRADE OR MYSTERY OF A MARINER and after the manner of an apprentice to serve

In 1811 an act was passed by the legislature, "For Encouraging the Establishment of Schools Throughout the Province" and early in November of that year it was decided at a Falmouth Town Meeting that three schools would be built throughout the township: one in Falmouth Village (Upper Falmouth), one at the Neck or Middle District (Falmouth Centre) and another in the Lower District (Mount Denson). These schools were to be mainly supported by the residents of the various school districts and the Province agreed to offer assistance towards the teacher's salary. There was provision for students whose parents were unable to pay the subscription, a certain number in each were required to be taught free of charge. In the Falmouth area the Province's share towards the teacher's salary was £12/10/0 although this amount appears to have been related to the number of teaching days. There were fifteen Districts in Hants County in 1828. In 1830 the number of schools had increased to twenty four and there was a total of two hundred children who were taught free.

The report of the Hants County School Commissioners for 1832 contains a revealing item concerning the early teachers. The Commissioners recommended against the regulation which required teachers to live in their schoolhouses and suggested that if the teachers were permitted to board or live elsewhere it would probably result in the recruitment of young men of "respectable character and exemplary conduct". The Commissioners reported that it had become customary for itinerant strangers to be hired as Schoolmasters and, "most of them of dubious and many of them of notoriously bad character". As we have seen from the Reverend Edward Manning's statement, it was not uncommon for the teaching profession. It would appear that the teaching profession in the early 19th Century differed little from the Reverend Edward Manning's teachers and by tradition we know that the same criticism can be directed towards the teachers at Falmouth up until at least 1870.

Many of the early schoolmasters were well recommended. As an example the following certificate of character is reproduced to indicate the formality associated with an appointment as Schoolmaster at Falmouth in the year 1816:

Falmouth 9 September, 1816.

"We whose names are hereunto subscribed do certify that we are well acquainted with Mr. Peter Shey Junior of this Township and that he is well qualified by morals and learning to exercise the profession of a Schoolmaster. And we do recommend him to his Honour the Administrator of the Province to be licensed accordingly."

Recommended to His Honour the Administrator for a License.

FALMOUTH VILLAGE SCHOOL (UPPER FALMOUTH)

The Falmouth Village School was established in 1811. The records for that year show the appointment of John Smith, John Walker, John Sangster, Chas. Rathburn, Joseph Starratt, Geo. Lyon as School Trustees. In the beginning there appears to have been plans to establish the school on the Windsor side of the river. A petition dated 11 November, 1811 signed by "inhabitants of the Forks": Robert McHeffey, Robert King, Sarah Palmer, James Reden, John Smith, John Walker and John Sangster states that Robert King, Jr. had been hired as the teacher. The last three petitioners lived on the Falmouth side of the river and their names appear in the first list of trustees for the Village School.

The Village school was built by 4 November, 1811. On that date the teacher, Andrew Fuller began classes and the term continued until May 4th, 1812. The Government supplied £12/10/0 for the support of the school during this period.[90] The following year the trustees John Walker, John Smith and Charles Rathburn raised £75 by subscription for the use of the school.

Repairs to the school amounting to 4 were carried out in the year 1821 and an amount of £1/10/0 was spent in 1828.

The School report for 1828 was submitted by William DeBanner, the teacher and signed by the trustees Wm. Sangster, George Lyon and Chas. Inglis. The teacher's salary for this period was £ 40 with the Province being responsible for half this amount. The school opened on 23rd August and ran to December 1st. The term consisted of three months and seven days. The report listed 41"scholars", nine of these were taught free. The students' ages ranged from 5 to 16 years and there were eight students between the ages of 12 and 16 years. The report included a summary of the courses of study. The older students studied "Reading, Writing and Vulgar Fractions". Students between the ages of 5 and 9 years were assigned the "Spelling Book". John Patterson a lad of 10 years was included in the list of students and his course of study was shown as, "Reading the Testament".

91 Peter Shey, son of John and May (Day) Shey of Falmouth, taught school at Windsor between May and Nov. 1820. Listed as a Schoolmaster in Apr. 1835 when his children were baptized at St. George's Falmouth. He was lost at sea. (See Shey Family).

PLATE 9. DAVISON HOME. THIS BUILDING WAS BUILT AS A SCHOOL FOR THE "MIDDLE DISTRICT" OF FALMOUTH IN 1814. IT WAS FORMERLY LOCATED SOME FIFTY FEET TO THE WEST WHERE IT FACED ONE OF FALMOUTH'S EARLY ROADS. THE BUILDING IS NOW THE RESIDENCE OF MRS. FRANK H. DAVISON.

In November of 1831 there were 51 students at the Village School. The list of students included: John, Samuel, Silas and Robert Patterson, Sarah Dill, Elizabeth Trainholm and Daniel, John Patrick and Robert Walker.

William DeBanner was the teacher at the School in 1832 with a total of 54 students. Thirteen of the fifty-four students were shown as "charity scholars". Mr. DeBanner received a salary of £ 20 from the Trustees: Wm. Sangster and Jonathan M. Smith.

In 1833 the School Dyke lot was rented for £ 8/6/6 per year and £ 5 of this amount was alloted to Francis Lawrence who was appointed to superintend the repairs to the school.

Andrew Fuller, the teacher, listed on July 1st, 1833 a total of sixty-nine students as attending school that year. The list included: George and Nancy Bacon, Susan, Robert, Samuel and Mary Patterson, John and William Taylor and Mary Wolf.

Falmouth Centre Schools

Two schools were established in the central section of Falmouth. One of these was described as located in the Middle District and the other in the Neck District. The Middle School District included "all the inhabitants from the Village Dyke so called to Laban Stoddards". The trustees were named at a Township Meeting held on 4th November, 1811: Wm.Shey, Joshua Smith, Peter Shaw, David Shaw, Joseph Dorman and John Elder.

In August of 1814 a Governor's Warrant for £12/10/0 was issued to the trustees of this school: Constant Church Jr., Constant Wilson and Stephen Akin.[92] It would therefore appear that the Middle District school was opened in January of 1814. Unfortunately the names of the early Schoolmasters are not available but John B. Nixon is listed as the Master between 1817-19. It is not clear from the records but it is believed that this school was disbanded shortly after 1819 since it is not referred to in school reports after this date. It seems likely that the students in the Middle District were reallocated to schools at Mount Denson and the school in the Neck District. The location of the Middle District School was on a 6-acre lot near Christopher Armstrong's.

The first reference to the Neck District school appears in the Township Meeting of 5th April, 1813. An exchange of lands between the Township and Clarke Young was arranged and the Horse Pond lot, (6-acre lot, No. 4, Letter E, 5th Div.) became part of the Common Land of Falmouth. This lot was to be used for a "Public Benefit as a watering place for cattle" and part of the lot was reserved for a schoolhouse to accommodate the residents of the Neck District.[93]

92 Governor's Warrant, August 1814, Hants County School Papers - PANS.

93 The location of the Horse Pond lot is adjoining the farm of Henry Sexton. The Horse Pond is still in existence.

In 1814 the following trustees were named for this school: Christopher Armstrong, Peter Shaw, Clarke Young, John Manning, Edward Church and David Shaw. A Governor's Warrant in the amount of £ 12/10/0 was issued to the trustees of the school for the period February, August 1814 which seems to indicate that the school opened in February 1814.[94] The school building was located on or near the present site of Frank Davison's barn. In the beginning the building must have faced the cross road which divides the orchards of Frank Davison and John and Ralph Duncanson since it is believed this was one of the main highways through the 6-acre lots. About 1879 the school building and lot were sold and the building moved to its present site where it has been used since that time as the Davison homestead.

Three of the students were listed as "charity scholars". The sum of £ 25 was subscribed by the residents of the district for the support of the school.

95 Llewellyn J. Evans came to N.S. from Cormaerthen, South Wales. He married 10 Feb. 1825 Matilda Payzant dau. of Elias B. Payzant (1776-1863). Matilda Payzant's name appears as a student in his school list for May 1st, 1822. He was active in the formation of the Baptist Meeting House at Falmouth in 1830. He moved to Halifax at a later date.

The official report of the school for the period ending December 1st, 1828 was submitted by the teacher James O'Rourke and signed by trustees John Elder, William Shaw and Nathan Taylor. A total of thirty-eight students attended the school. Four of these were shown as "taught gratis". The students ranged between 5 and 17 years of age and there were 11 in the 12 to 17 age group. Mr. O'Rourke's salary for the five month term between 21st June to 1st December 1828 was a cash payment of £ 50. The Province paid half of this amount.

The school apparently had a small library since an amount of £ 2/10/0 was used in 1839 to purchase books for the "School Library". Unfortunately the titles of the books were not included in the records.

In April of 1858 Jonathan Shey purchased part of the School lot. This lot extended from the lower end of the Horse Pond to the road directly across from the present Falmouth Baptist Church.

The school on the "Horse Pond Lot" (Davidson Homestead 1964) served until 1880 or 1881 as the Falmouth Centre School. In 1879 plans were completed for the sale of the school building and the remaining portion of the Horse Pond Lot.

FALMOUTH CENTRE SCHOOL

The property on the North West corner of the Dyke Road and the Back Road, adjoining the Edward Porter farm, was purchased from Johnson A. Elderkin on 13th August, 1880. The school which was built on this lot served the Falmouth Centre district between the years 1881 and 1955 as a primary and secondary school up to and including Grade VIII. Falmouth students wishing to continue into High School were obliged to attend the Academy at Windsor, N.S. On 1st September, 1958 the school building and the property were deeded to the trustees of the Falmouth Community Hall. The building now serves as a community social centre.

FALMOUTH CENTRE SCHOOL

(West Hants Municipal School District No. 10)

This school was opened in September 1956. The property was purchased in 1955 from Alvah Wile (John L. Sexton property).

As early as 1952 the need for additional school facilities was discussed at the annual school meeting. A number of proposals were made before the final plan was adopted and there was considerable controversy throughout the district in connection with the expenditure of approximately $88,000 for the land and the erection of the school building.

This new school serves as a consolidated school for Falmouth Centre, Falmouth Valley and the Village School at Upper Falmouth.

The following were active on committees in connection with plans for the new consolidated school: Loren Smith, Frank Marriott, Gordon Crossley, Bruce O'Brien, Jack Aylward, Harry Eldridge and Earle Loomer.

FALMOUTH CENTRE SCHOOL, OFFICIAL OPENING

O CANADA

INVOCATION, Mr. Howard Taylor

INTRODUCTION OF SPECIAL GUESTS

INTRODUCTION OF GUEST SPEAKER, Mr. Harold Nason, Chief Inspector.

DEDICATION - (Read responsively, Audience standing.)

Chairman - "This school is built for the training of youth of this community for citizenship in a land where freedom is cherished and truth is sought."
Audience - "We dedicate this school to the cause of freedom and of truth."
Chairman - "In our schools the infants of today are trained to a society that we hope will supass our own in understanding of each other and the world about us."
Audience - "We dedicate this school to the pursuit of knowledge and fuller understanding."
Chairman - "In this building the children of today and tomorrow may acquire habits and attitudes of tolerance, goodwill and service to their fellow men that will keep the world at peace."

Audience - "We dedicate this school to the guidance of children into lives of service and goodwill toward all men."
Chairman - "Wholesome views of life are needed to establish homes where children may be secure and develop their full life potential. Our own preparation for parenthood has determined, in large measure the kind of homes our children have. School may help those who follow to do better than we have done."
Audience - "We dedicate this school to the healthy maturing of mind and body."
Chairman - "This is a day of mass production, mass movements, and compelling social theories. We live in communities as part of this society, yet every one of us is a distinct personality. We resemble each other but every human being is an unique and different individual. Education must recognize this truth."
Audience - "We dedicate this school to train our little ones to think clearly, decide wisely and develop their individual personality to the full."
Chairman - "This school is an institution that holds the future in its care. Here children gather day by day and year by year to learn the lessons that will shape the course of history."
Audience - "We dedicate this school to pass on to each succeeding generation of children the best that we know and the best that is yet to be known."

RECEIVING OF THE KEYS AND OFFICIAL OPENING, by Judson F. Shaw, Chairman of Municipal School Board.

MOUNT DENSON SCHOOL

The first reference to this school in Public Records is found in the minutes of the Falmouth Township Meeting of November 4th, 1811 when it was decided to build a school in the lower section of Falmouth. At that time Mount Denson was known as the Lower District and the school in this district was built to accommodate the "inhabitants from Francis Johnston's to the Horton Line". It is not known when the school was built or where it was located but on April 2nd, 1821 an expenditure of £4 was approved for repairs to the school at the Lower District. William Shey was named a trustee in place of John Dickie who had retired and George Lyon was named to replace Charles Rathburn deceased. An additional amount of £3/10/0 was approved in 1825 and paid to John Dickie and Joseph Johnston for benefit of the school.

The Mount Denson school was moved sometime in 1830. An amount of £5 was allocated from the School land rents to enable the residents to "remove and repair their School House" to a site near "Watmough Brook". The history, Hantsport on Avon,[96] refers to the early schools in the Hantsport area and states that the first school was located at the home of Robert Davison on Holmes' Hill near the Bishopville Road. The school was apparently taught by a Mrs. Randall. The second school where Mr. DeBanner taught was burned and another building was used as a combination church, school and hall. This building was later made into a dwelling house and moved near the Railway Station in the Town of Hantsport. An early school is said to have been located on the Bishopville Road near the present residence of Lewis H. Coldwell.

David Shaw the teacher at the School in 1831 listed the names of twenty-five scholars. The list included: Charles, William, James and Simeon Curry, Thos. Fitch, Edgar Davison, Churchill Davison, Sarah Fox, Eliza Graham, Lucy Fox, Eliza Ann and Caroline Loomer, Sarah Smith and Patience and Mary Earl.

On June 4th, 1832 David Shaw was the teacher and in December 1832 Mark Rathburn had taken over the position. The school report for June 1833 shows Mark Rathburn as teacher with a total of twenty-six students. Only two were unable to pay the subscription. The ages of the students ranged between five and thirteen years.

FALMOUTH VALLEY SCHOOL (Back Road)

The Falmouth Valley School was built by the residents of the Back Road about 1825. The rents from the school lands for the years 1823 and 1824 had been reserved for that purpose and the school was to accommodate a School District extending from Nathaniel Curry's to James Fox's. In 1838 £3 were allocated for repairs to the school. At this time the school was referred to as the Lime Rocks School which apparently was the name for the area.[97]

97 The name "Lime Rocks" is used today to refer to the wooded area between the H.O. Duncanson and W.J. Aylward farms. Considerable out cropping of plaster rock occurs throughout this area.

In 1833 the teacher of this school was Mark Rathburn and he listed a total of thirty-four students. Only three were unable to pay the subscription.

CHAPTER IX

CHRONOLOGY - PISIQUID AND FALMOUTH DISTRICT

1604	Minas Basin and the Pisiquid River visited by the Father of New France, Samuel de Champlain.
1632	Three-hundred settlers from France establish a colony at Port-Royal on the Bay of Fundy.
1685	Acadian French settlers establish homes along the shores of the Pisiquid River and at Mines (Grand-Pre).
1698	Acadian parish of L'Assomption founded at Pisiquid by a Jesuit missionary named Louis de Thury.
1710	A great fire destroyed the entire forest between the Gaspereau and the Pisiquid Rivers.
1713	Acadie (Nova Scotia) became British territory under the terms of the Treaty of Utrecht.
1714	The French census returns for 1714 identified the Pisiquid district for the first time and reported a total of 337 persons in that district.
1722	The Bishop of Quebec divided the Pisiquid district into two parishes - one on the east side of the river - L'Assomption and the other on the west side (Saint-Famille) (Falmouth side).
1749	Founding of Halifax, Nova Scotia by English colonists.
1750	Captain Gorham's skirmish with Indians at Dugat's (Old Acadian) Bridge at Saint Croix. Gorham's Rangers were volunteer troops from Massachusetts and New Hampshire. They were stationed at Fort Edward at different times between 1750 and 1761. Governor Cornwallis at Halifax sent Swiss visitors to Pisiquid to view the country in order to encourage the Swiss to settle in Nova Scotia.
6 Sept. 1755	Proclamation of the Expulsion of the Acadians from their ancestral lands announced to Acadians of the Pisiquid district at a special gathering held at Fort Edward (Windsor, N.S.).
6 May 1756	Louis Payzant, Huguenot settler at Mahone Bay, Lunenburg County, N.S. was massacred by Indians. His wife and family were carried off to Quebec and held until the fall of that city.
10 Aug. 1756	Beginning of the Seven Years War between England and France.
16 Aug. 1756	War declared at Pisiquid.
23 Sept. 1756	Open hostility of French and Indians towards British forces and settlements. Acadian Church and the priest's dwelling burned at Foret village on the Falmouth side of the river.
12 Oct. 1758	Governor Lawrence's proclamation of free lands in Nova Scotia published in the Boston Gazette.
21 Jul. 1759	First Falmouth grant became ineffective due to delay in the arrival of settlers for the Minas Townships.
1759	Fall of the City of Quebec.
Nov. 1759	A violent hurricane caused the Fundy tides to rise 6 to 10 feet higher than usual. Many of the Acadian dykes were washed away and great damage was done to the marsh lands.
May 1760	The first New England settlers arrive in the Pisiquid district.
9 June 1760	First Township meeting held at Newport, Nova Scotia.
10 June 1760	First Township meeting held at Falmouth, Nova Scotia.
June 1761	10 acres laid out for a Grist Mill and Dam.
21 Jul. 1761	The official date of the Falmouth Township Grant.
28 Jul. 1761	Wignal Cole commissioned a Captain-Lieutenant in the King's County Militia.

9 Jan. 1762	Chief Surveyor's report on Falmouth: 80 families settled with a total of 350 persons. The inhabitants have imported large numbers of cattle and have cut hay sufficient for supporting them but a great drought during the past summer has "blasted most of their corn."
18 May 1762	Sessions of the Peace issued regulations concerning "bake burning" of fallow land. This rule was necessary to protect the woodlands from fires. At the same time a regulation was issued against "stone horses" going at large.
31 May 1762	Henry D. Denson commissioned a Lieutenant-Colonel in the King's County Militia.
17 Aug. 1762	A resident of the county was convicted of petty larceny and given "39 stripes" by the County Constables.
1763	End of the Seven Years War.
May 1763	Malachy Caigan of Cornwallis opened a tavern at Falmouth.
Feb. 1764	Two Pounds for livestock were built near the Town Plot and one at the Village on Farm Lot 65 near the County Road. The brand for the Falmouth Township was "F".
1764	Windsor set off as a separate township. Influential politicians and military personnel of Halifax were granted lands in the Fort Edward district but their lands were mainly operated by tenant farmers who had come to Nova Scotia with the Ulster-Irish migration.
23 Mar. 1765	Falmouth residents signed a petition addressed to Governor Montague Wilmot requesting that the Acadians at Fort Edward be permitted to "remain with us the ensuing summer and to continue to receive the allowance of provisions". The request was granted and the Acadians remained in the county until 1768.
6 June 1765	Jacob Brown of Falmouth granted a license to operate a ferry across the Avon River. The ferry had previously been granted to the late James Wilson. Samuel Woodworth granted a tavern license for his House of Public Entertainment at Half Way River (Mount Denson-Hantsport).
1766	Good harvests in all the Minas Townships.
Oct. 1766	George Faesch appointed Justice of the Peace.
Oct. 1767	John Jasper Driliot charged with "feloniously stealing a ewe lamb from the common flock at Falmouth valued at 10 shillings - against the peace of our Lord the King, his Crown and Dignity". The lamb was owned by the Reverend Joseph Bennett. William Sental was operating the tavern at Falmouth.
1768	A bridge was proposed for the eastern most fork of the Avon River.
About 1770	Captain James Cook, the navigator, visited Governor DesBarres at Castle Frederick (Upper Falmouth).
1772	The official partition of the Township of Falmouth was made by the Supreme Court. The Township plan is believed to have been drawn up in accordance with this partition.
26 May 1772	Falmouth residents assessed for £ 7/10 shillings for the services of Edward Yorke as representative for Falmouth at the Legislative Assembly at Halifax.
1775	A Light Infantry Company was formed at Falmouth, Newport and Windsor.

Apr. 1791	Ferrymen Charles Stewart, John Johnstone and Jonathan Wilson were presented at court for not paying proper attention to their duties in operating the ferry across the Avon River. Their boats were not kept in proper order.
Sept. 1792	County constables were reprimanded for not visiting Public Houses on the Sabbath Day as required by the law. Lawrence Hutchinson, Innkeeper at Falmouth, was presented at court for keeping a disorderly house.
Apr. 1795	There were complaints made at the Sessions of the Peace that stones were laid below the usual fording place across the eastern channel of the Avon River.
Apr. 1796	There were complaints about the ferry service between Windsor and Falmouth. More boats were required to handle the traffic.
26 May 1798	Bishop Charles Inglis' diary reports: "Set out for Windsor. The Horton Mountain excessively bad. Was four hours in reaching Falmouth. Crossed at low water after wasting 2 and 1/2 hours. Dined and lodged at Mr. Benjamin DeWolf's.
20 Sept. 1798	Christopher Armstrong of Falmouth was the adjutant of the Hants County Militia.
Oct. 1800	John Sangster granted a license to keep a House of Entertainment for the accommodation of travellers near the Sangster Bridge at Upper Falmouth.
Sept. 1801	Marbel Wood applied for a tavern license at Falmouth near the bridge but his request was refused.
Oct. 1802	The Sessions of the Peace declared a bounty of 10 shillings on bears.
Apr. 1804	Stephen Yorke was ordered to open up one of the back streets of Falmouth which had been illegally closed. John Sangster's tavern license was renewed.
Apr. 1804	Jonathan Wilson granted a free tavern license for services rendered the public in ferrying magistrates, jurors and constables over the river.

Apr. 1807	An allowance of £5 was passed for the causeway from the low to high water mark at the landing place at Falmouth. Notices were posted in various taverns concerning, "due observation of the Lord's day...that the parties may not plead ignorance upon conviction." A petition was made at the Sessions of the Peace by Robert Ferguson and James Robertson for permission for a group to meet during the summer months as a congregation was NOT granted by the Court.
Dec. 1807	Lieutenants Christopher Armstrong and John Manning escorted fifty men of the Hants County Militia to Halifax.
Jan. 1808	Lieutenant John Manning and Sergeant John Elder escorted detatchments of the 1st Battalion Hants County Militia for service at Halifax.
1809	Reverend Theodore Harding conducted religious services at Falmouth Baptist Church. So great were the crowds attending "Father Harding's" services, people were obliged to enter the Church by the windows.
7 Apr. 1810	Joshua Smith appointed caretaker of the Church at forty shillings per year. His duties: to keep the house locked, window shutters shut, house swept and to insure that the benches are not carried away. An allowance of £2 was made towards repairs to the river bank at the ford, near Burnham's.
1 Apr. 1811	Francis Johnston agreed to care for John McCormich, "a poor man now upon the town" at fifteen shillings per week.
4 Nov. 1811	Three schools were established at Falmouth under the School Act of 1811.
Apr. 1812	James Bacon was granted a Tavern License. John Sangster's Tavern License was renewed.
9 Nov. 1812	Cattle pounds were built at the following locations: The Village, Peter Shaw's, John Akin's and at Joseph Johnston's (Mount Denson).
1815	The Congregational Meeting House was built near the present site of the Baptist parsonage.
18 June 1815	Battle of Waterloo.
1815	Many shipments of plaster rock made from the Falmouth Landing point (Landing Hill and Young's Wharf). Schooners carried the plaster to ports in New England.
1 Nov. 1815	The purchase of a Pall for the use of the township was authorized at a Falmouth Town Meeting. Christopher Armstrong was appointed to take charge of the pall.
5 Apr. 1819	Gould Northup completed a plan of the township. He was paid £3/10 shillings for his work. He later received £1/10 shillings for exploring and establishing a road between the 1st and 2nd Division Farm lots commonly called the Back Road.
1820	The following Falmouth residents contributed to the Hants County Bible Society: Jacob Burnham, Benjamin Davison, John Elder, James Harvey, John Irish and Joseph Irish.
1 Nov. 1820	An Island of Upland on the southern side of Windmill Creek was put up for sale at a public auction at Constant Wilson's tavern. Later records show this land being sold to William Shaw for the sum of £50 (1827).
1 Apr. 1822	Constant Church agreed to maintain John Sheppard, "a pauper" for 3 shillings and 2 pence per week.

1823 Constant Wilson was authorized to build a large boat or scow for conveying horses over the Avon River between Falmouth and Windsor. An allowance of £6 was approved.
The Mill Dam on the south branch of the Avon River was ordered to be moved since it caused injury to the "fishery".

Apr. 1823 Falmouth residents petitioned the legislature against the removal of the Court House from Windsor.

3 Apr. 1826 Constant Wilson's free license was discontinued.
High tides in the preceeding year damaged the School dyke. Nathaniel Davison was allowed £4 out of the School lot rent to compensate for the damage.

1827 John Smith, Edward Church and Stephen Akin were appointed trustees for the Glebe lands until the appointment of a Church of England clergyman at Falmouth.

12 May 1827 Richard Cunningham of Saulsbrook Farm, Windsor, Nova Scotia shipped 72 barrels of apples to Saint John, N.B. via the "Three Sisters" - 20 barrels were sold at 10 shillings and 44 barrels at 9 shillings.

1828 A Falmouth resident was presented at court for disposing of his land by lottery.

1830 Jonathan Smith and Patrick Nowland were presented at court for disorderly behaviour on 24 May 1829, "at the house of Mr. Harvie, it being the Lord's Day".
The jury at the Sessions of the Peace recommended that the number of taverns in the county be limited to:

4 at Falmouth
3 in the Town of Windsor
7 on the Windsor Road to the County line.

The recommendation was NOT confirmed by the court.
At a Town meeting it was voted that "the keeping of paupers be let at Public auction to the lowest bidder".

1831 John Armstrong was named collector of poor rates and he was authorized to receive 7-1/2% for collecting these rates.
During the year a Baptist "Meeting House" was built on the site of the present Falmouth Baptist Church. This building was later replaced by the present structure. The original church was moved to the adjoining property and is now used by Ralph Duncanson as an apple service building.

1832 A charge of 10 shillings was made against the estate of John Fraser for the pasture of one yoke of oxen for a period of nine weeks.

1833 Jacob Burnham was paid fifteen shillings for the use of a room, fire and candles for holding the Town Meetings.
At the Sessions of the Peace a discussion took place on the subject of tavern licenses. It was recommended that Tavern licenses be granted only "when necessary" and that shop licenses be discontinued. It was felt that the great number of taverns were harmful to the public.
"That degraded portion of our population are very frequently so far under the influence of liquor as to be disgusting and an intolerable nuisance of so notorious a nature that during the warm weather these poor creatures are exposed in the public streets in situations and postures that are shocking to humanity and decency....."

1834 The owners of the Stage Coach service between Windsor and Halifax announced that four horses would be used in the future on the Windsor-Halifax route. The Stage left Windsor on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 9 o'clock and left Halifax on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Fare: 15 shillings. If two fares were paid in advance a rebate of 1 shilling was made on each fare. Agents: Benjamin L. DeWolf, Windsor and Benjamin Wier, Halifax.

Mondays and Tuesdays in every week during the run of fish in rivers were declared days for fishing with square or scoop nets. On these days seins were prohibited in the rivers. Gaspereau or Alewife fishery areas on the south and west branches of the Avon River: (1) Near the falls of the river, (2) Creek at Redden's to the Falls, (3) Fording place to the Upper end of the Big Island in the West Branch of the River.

1835 Shop license granted to Lewis Payzant. John Sangter's shop license was renewed.

1836 "Clifton", the home of Thomas Chandler Haliburton, was built on a hill commanding a fine view of the Avon River and the Falmouth landscape on the opposite side of the river.

19 Sept. 1836 A representative of Horton Institution (Acadia College) preached at Falmouth and spoke on the urgent need for funds by the new institution. The meeting was very poorly attended and the agent published the following letter in the Christian Messenger of 17 February 1837:

"The people of Falmouth are my neighbours, and I love them - having constituted many of them into a Christian Church and having long watched over their spiritual interests with deep anxiety, I cannot, I never shall, fail to feel a deep interest in their welfare, still I am sorry that, on this occasion, they betrayed such cowardice as is altogether unworthy of their general character. Although they had public notice of my intentions, with every facility for a numerous attendance, but a mere handful made their appearance and I suspect the reason was they were afraid I might make too successful an appeal to their purses if they were present, and that their safety consisted in remaining at home. I can, however assure them, that if they refuse to meet me on common ground, I shall pay them the compliment of calling at their respective houses. Some of those who were present subscribed liberally and cheerfully and at the head of the list is Deacon C. Young who always stands at his post. The inhabitants of Falmouth are in many respects equal to the best of my neighbours, but it is not uncharitable to say that on the subject of Christian benevolence they are not sufficiently enlightened. Men, who have large farms, with abundance of dyked marsh stocked with scores of cattle - men who live in fine houses, with rich furniture and who load their tables with dishes, appropriate almost nothing to religious purposes. I am persuaded that if the dear people had a faithful pastor who would teach them useful lessons on the science of benevolence and call for assistance every month in the year to aid in some benevolent enterprise, they would soon be an excellent church, and a prosperous community. 'The earth would yield her increase and God would bless them'...."

1837 The new bridge over the Avon River connecting Windsor and Falmouth was completed.
Bounties: Bears - 10 shillings
Wildcats - 5 shillings
Loup-cerviers - 5 shillings

1838 Tavern licenses were granted to James Sangster, John T. Armstrong and Thomas Manning.

1849 The port area separated from the Township of Falmouth and adopted the name Hantsport.

4 Nov. 1850 The proprietors road running from Joseph Curry's farm to the west branch of the Avon River was opened at Falmouth. This road is now known as the Base Line Road.

1 Nov. 1852 At a Town meeting it was resolved that a vote of thanks be extended to John Manning for his long service as chairman. Mr. Manning's name appears regularly between the years 1810 and 1852 as the moderator or chairman of the Township Meetings.

1854 The trustees of the Hantsport Baptist Meeting House were incorporated by Cap. 76 of the Statutes of Nova Scotia.

22 Nov. 1854 Petit Jury list for Falmouth shows the following occupations:

Blacksmith	1	Millwright	2
Boat builders	1	Mill owners	2
Carpenters	2	Seamen	7
Farmers	15	Shoemaker	1
Innkeeper	1	Shipwright	1

16 Nov. 1857 William Hall of Avonport, N.S. became the First Nova Scotian and the first man of colour to win the "Victoria Cross." (See Genealogical Section).

1 Nov. 1858 Stephen Davison retained the school land during the life time of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Wolf.

7 Jul. 1859 The frame of the Falmouth Methodist Church was raised.

5 Nov. 1860 The Town Clerk was authorized to "cut down" the gate on the road leading to the "Grave Yard in the Town Plot."
Sir Charles G.D. Roberts, Professor of English at King's College, Windsor, N.S. was a frequent visitor at Falmouth.
Windsor and district were honoured by the visit of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. The royal party made a stop at Mount Denson in order to view "Blomidon" from the top of Holmes' Hill.

4 Nov. 1861 A new Township plan was prepared by Mr. Moss of Halifax. George Burnham, Wm. Harvey and Elkanah Young were appointed to examine the plan.
William Shaw and Lewis W. Hill reported to the Town Meeting concerning the township's claims on "Goodness Point" near Mr. Young's and the "Town Landing" (Landing Hill) in possession of Jonathan M. Smith. It was considered that since these were not laid out on the Town Plan the public could not claim them.

17 Aug. 1862 Juniper Grove Methodist Church was dedicated at Falmouth by the Reverend Andrew Gray. (Falmouth United Church).

3 Nov. 1862 10 shillings paid to Michael Gray for digging the grave for "Burbage".

2 Nov. 1863 John W. Young purchased the Parade Ground in the Town Plot for the sum of £ 50.

1867 Strong anti-confederation feeling in Hants County. The election was won by the anti-confederation candidate.

2 Nov. 1868 Thomas Akin was authorized to send Thomas Wise to the City Hospital in Halifax for medical treatment.

1 Nov. 1869 Elisha Michener was paid £ 12 out of the Parade Ground rents for repair to the cemetery fence at the Westlyn Chapel at Mount Denson.

1869 The Saxby Gale caused great damage at Falmouth due to the level of the tides.

25 Dec. 1869 Mr. and Mrs. S.P. Schurman of Mount Denson proceeded on their honeymoon on the first train to pass over the new railway line.

4 Apr. 1870 A petition for the sale of the School lands was sent to the legislature. School lands were sold at public auction on 19 April to Nathaniel E. Davison for £ 455.

1870 The old Baptist Meeting House was moved to the property now owned by Ralph Duncanson.

6 Nov. 1871 An amount was paid to Dr. Fraser for medical treatments to Thomas Wise and an Indian woman named Mrs. Jedore.

10 Dec. 1871 The official opening of the new Falmouth Baptist Church.

1872 Dr. Margeson paid an amount for attending "The Indians".

30 June 1873 The annual report of the Department of Marine and Fisheries for 1873 shows the following statistics for the Port of Windsor, Nova Scotia:

24 Apr. 1875 Daniel and Amy Harvey left Falmouth for Iowa.

1876 It was agreed at a Town Meeting that the original Grant Plans of the Township remain in the care of the Town Clerk. The Old Congregational Meeting House was appropriated by the Township for a Town Hall.

27 Apr. 1879 Reverend C.J. Brenton was admitted to Priest's orders at the Bishop's Chapel, Halifax, N.S. Mr. Brenton was at St. George's, Falmouth in 1879.

1880 The Municipality of West Hants was established. George Akins and James Hanson were elected as Councillors for Falmouth.

1 May 1880 Coal was discovered on Elias Payzant's Falmouth property.

Aug. 1892 The covered toll bridge between Windsor and Falmouth was destroyed by fire, The Bridge Company was incorporated in 1834. The fire started on the Falmouth side and the bridge toppled and fell into the river. It floated down river with the tide, "a spectacular sight of floating fire."

1895 The Town of Hantsport was formally incorporated.

19 Oct. 1896 The date of the Great Windsor Fire. This fire broke out in a "rum den" on Water Street. It almost completely wiped out the town of Windsor. Many of the homeless were taken to nearby towns and villages. About three hundred of Windsor's homeless were carried to Falmouth in horse wagons which Falmouth farmers brought to the Avon Bridge to assist the victims.

21 Oct. 1896 During the year 1895, 204 vessels arrived at the Port of Windsor with a total tonnage of 83,507 tons. .Ships registered at Windsor comprised 184 vessels whose aggregate tonnage was 130,798. This figure did not include several vessels owned by Windsor residents and registered at other ports. Exports from Windsor to the United States in 1895 amounted to $148,024 of which $127,841 consisted of gypsum; $1,295 of calcined plaster; $15,083 lumber; $2,200 of emigrants goods and $1,295 of other articles.

1902 Matthew Sexton paid $65 for rent of the School Dyke.

1904 The S.P. Benjamin Lumber Company represented by S.P. Benjamin appeared before the Municipal Council concerning lighting on the Avon Bridge. He claimed that he had supplied lighting for his boats and requested that the Municipality share the costs. The electric light installed at F.H. Manning's store at Falmouth was mentioned and it was recommended that another light was required near the crossing at Shand's Mill.

1906 There was a discussion at Council regarding the sale of Pilcher's beer at Aberdeen Beach (Mount Denson). An analysis of the beer confirmed that it had an alcohol content of 2%. There were complaints made against the inspector under the Canadian Temperance Act since it was claimed that hard cider was being sold openly at Hantsport with a much higher alcohol percentage.

19 Sept. 1906 Several cases of diphtheria were reported at Upper Falmouth.

1907 The Municipal Council discussed the dispute over ownership of the Falmouth Town Pond. The persons who claimed ownership had refused access to the Pond area. It was reported that, "hard hearts yielded to permit the young people to use the pond for skating."

David Umlah was paid a bounty for killing a bear.

1907 The Hants, Kings and Annapolis Counties Exhibition was held at Windsor, N.S. on October 9, 10 and 11th. Prizes were offered in a wide variety of farm products. William O'Brien of Windsor Forks was the Exhibition President and the following Falmouth residents were active in the various Exhibition departments: Fruit Growing Class: W.J. Aylward, Wm. Sangster, Chas. A. Dill, W.E. Brown; Roots and Vegetable Class: Chas. A. Dill; Poultry: Robert Dill and S.P. Schurman; Domestic Dept.: Mrs. Wm. Sangster. 1909 Dr. C.H. Morris spoke at the Municipal Council and urged that restrictions on automobiles be removed. Under the regulations of 10 July 1908, it was prohibited to use and operate any motor vehicle upon any of the public highways of West Hants on Tuesdays, Saturdays and Sundays after 7 a.m. and before 11 p.m. Dr. Morris asked for permission to use his auto in cases of emergency in order to render aid with the least possible delay.

1910 The Town Pond dispute was again raised at Council. Henry Cochran had erected a fence on the Town Pond Road thereby preventing ice from being taken away from the Pond. Mr. Cochran claimed that his wife had a deed to the Town lands. The road was later opened on the advise of the Council's solicitor.

10 Jan. 1910 There was a Small Pox scare at Falmouth and the Lower Falmouth school was closed for a period of one week.

1911 There were complaints over the plank walk between the Avon Bridge and the Falmouth Railway crossing. It was claimed that the road was too narrow since there was barely enough space for two teams to pass.

1911 A new road between Upper Falmouth and New Ross was proposed by twenty-two residents of Falmouth. The new road would shorten the distance between Windsor and New Ross by 10 miles. The principal reason for the new road was to provide a shorter route for the shipment of ores from mines in the area and in particular, the N.S. Manganese Company and a proposed tin mine. Councillors Aylward and Davison proposed that the Council expropriate the necessary lands for building the road.

1912 The proposed New Ross road was located with Government assistance. The following took part in the survey: Engineer - Wm. Salt, Axeman - Fred Boyd Jr., Commissioner - S.P. Schurman. The proposed road was to run from the junction of W.R. Patterson's Mill road with the main road leading from George Peach's along W.R. Patterson's log road to lands of the S.P. Benjamin Company to the County line - a distance of at least 5-1/4 miles.

4 June 1913 The Boston Opera Company presented "Faust" at the Windsor Opera House. Tickets were $1.50 to 50¢. The Prima Donna Contralto was Mlle. Ernestine Gauthier, Baritone - M. Frederick Huddy, Tenore - M. Marlo Casselli and the Primo Tenore was M. Giovanni Gatti.

1914 The Windsor Electric Light Company was granted permission to erect electric power poles along the road from the Avon Bridge to Manning's Corner. Two lights were installed on this road and the Municipality agreed to assume the costs.

1915 The Hants County Temperance Alliance complained that liquor for persons in Windsor was being delivered at Falmouth "from whence it was then delivered."

George Peach was allowed a bounty for a bear caught by trap.

1916 Irving Lyon killed in Action in France.

Stanley Lockhart of the Canadian Army reported wounded for the fourth time.

William Akin commissioned a Lieutenant in the Canadian Army at Courcelette, France.

Major E.J. Brooks (Baptist Clergyman) killed in action in France.

July 1916 Walter J. Aylward was placed in charge of the men employed in restoring the Half Way River aboiteau at Hantsport.

26 Sept. 1916 Thomas Avery, husband of Annie Lyon of Upper Falmouth, died in action during the Battle of the Somme, France.

13 Jan. 1917 A quantity of liquor belonging to a Falmouth resident was seized at the Falmouth Railway Station. The case was heard before Magistrate Curry who refused to carry on with the case. The N.S. Temperance Act inspector then asked James Farquhar to hear the case but he declined due to, "not feeling well." The inspector was obliged to return the liquor to Falmouth.

1917 Walter J. Aylward of Falmouth was named Warden of the Municipality of West Hants.

E.H. Sangster of Falmouth won prizes for apples at the New York Horticultural Exhibition. The winning varieties were: Spy, Yellow Bellflower and Ben Davis.

May 1917 Falmouth Shipping and Transportation Company formed. The officers: E.E. Armstrong, A.P. Clark, T.A. Mosher, John Sexton, F.W. Dimock and T.B. Akin.

Paul Lawrence and Herb Deal purchased Fort cars.

6 Dec. 1917 Halifax Explosion - the explosion of a French munitions ship in Halifax Harbour resulted in the death of 2000 residents. Of these, twenty-eight were from Hants County.

7 July 1918 Stanley Wm. Lockhart, son of Clifford H. Lockhart of Upper Falmouth died on Active Service with the 112th Battalion of the Canadian Army in England.

Feb. 1919 Electric lights were installed in the Falmouth Methodist Church.

Jan. 1919 A case of Small Pox was reported at Falmouth.

5 June 1922 A fire on the Manganese Road at Upper Falmouth burned over 2 acres of standing timber.

18 Sept. 1922 A fire on the property of the Parrsboro Lumber Company burned over 300 acres of "old choppings." There was no damage to wood lots.

1922 Mr. J.R. Mosher, the inspector under the N.S. Temperance Act, reported to the Municipal Council that strenuous efforts had been made during the year in "rounding up moonshiners." He reported that in former years he had dealt with cases of the sale of "genuine whisky and the like", but at the present he reported the problem was with, "home brew, moonshine whisky and all sorts of brews."

1924 Sixteen of the leading apple shippers of Falmouth petitioned the Municipal Council for a larger loading space at the Falmouth Railway Station. It was reported the the frontage occupied by the Fruit Warehouses owned by private parties was not sufficient to permit the loading of more than one car at a time. It was reported that John Sexton, one of the leading shippers of farm produce, had a four car shipment which would have been preferable if it could have been done at the same time. The petitioners requested space for at least six freight cars and the proposed area was between the Railway Station at the railroad crossing. The following Falmouth residents signed the petition: John Sexton, Brenton Sexton, Inglis C. Smith, Walter J. Aylward, Thomas B. Akin, B.S. Davison, E.B. Church, Burpee Shaw, P.W. Shaw, Ralph Duncanson, Church & Illsley, E.C. Church, Fred Smith, Wm. Patterson, John I. Wilson, James Baker.

1929 Alline Hall built by the Falmouth Baptist Church as a Church Vestry.

1930 There were complaints at the Council concerning bears. Farmers were obliged to sell their sheep due to this menace. In 1928, ten bears had been killed in West Hants and in 1929 another seven were killed.

1931 Apple Spray Circles were fromed at Falmouth and Mount Denson and a system of orchard inspection was adopted.

1933 A large school of Black Fish became stranded on the mud flats in the upper section of the Avon River. The authorities took immediate action to have the fish buried. There is a local legend concerning the occurance of Black Fish in the Avon River. The legend says that these whale like fish come into the river at intervals of fifty years and that the last such occurance was in the 1880's when the fish were hauled ashore and buried in a field at Mount Denson. Older residents of Falmouth have told of the appearance of the Black Fish and of a serious epidemic which followed the appearance of the fish and caused the death of several Falmouth residents. Black Fish are mammals and belong to the Whale family. For some unknown reason they appear to commit mass suicide by entering the tidal rivers and being left ashore when the tides recede.

1941	John I. Wilson of Falmouth named Warden for the Municipality of West Hants.
27 March 1941	Miss E. Bessie Lockhart, Baptist Missionary to India, arrived home at Falmouth. She travelled from Calcutta to Portland, Oregon on board a Dutch cargo ship.
28 Oct. 1841	Leon Curry, Royal Candian Engineers took part in the expedition to Spitzbergen.
18 Feb. 1942	Thomas Edward Church son of Edward B. Church, formerly of Falmouth, died in Action while serving with the U.S. Marines at Guadacanal, Solomon Islands, South Pacific.
18 Apr. 1942	Orrin Justin Rourke, son of Mr. & Mrs. Harry Anderson Rourke, formerly of Falmouth, died on Active Service with the Princess Louise Fusiliers, Canadian Army England. Burial Brookwood Military Cemetery, Brookwood, England.
1943	Flying Officer Francis Lawrence son of Mr. & Mrs. Paul Lawrence of Upper Falmouth, N.S. died on Active Service with the Royal Canadian Air Force.
23 Apr. 1943	Captain Blaine Garnet Sexton, son of N. Blaine Sexton, formerly of Falmouth, died on Active Service during the Tunisian Campaign. Served in the British Army.
1950	W. Victor Aylward of Curry's Corner, formerly of Falmouth was named Warden of the Municipality of West Hants.

CHAPTER X

THE PARISH CHURCH OF ST. GEORGE

The early Anglican records of Nova Scotia show that the Reverend Dr. John Breynton, Rector of St. Paul's Halifax visited the Falmouth area in the early summer of 1760. The service which he held during this visit marked the first recorded celebration of the Anglican liturgy in the district known today as Falmouth. Although the majority of the settlers in the new township were "Dissenters" from the Church of England, Dr. Breynton reported that many attended the service.

After his visit to the new townships Dr. Breynton made an urgent appeal for missionaries.[98] The following year Dr. Breynton made another visit to Falmouth and in 1762, his assistant, the Reverend Thomas Wood, paid two visits to the new township.

For a clear understanding of the early history of the Anglican Church at Falmouth it is important to recall that the Falmouth area was included in a Church of England mission which comprised the Townships of Cornwallis, Falmouth, Horton, Newport and Windsor, and for the first five years the missionary sent out by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts covered the entire area. Some appreciation of the hardships which the first missionary, the Reverend Joseph Bennett endured can be pictured when one considers the conditions of the roads which were little more than trails through the woods. His method of travel was on horse back and it is recorded that his monthly schedule required him to cover over 200 miles. In addition to the roads or trails there were several tidal rivers[99] which were particularly hazardous during the winter months.

The Reverend Joseph Bennett arrived in the area late in 1762. He made his headquarters at Fort Edward (Windsor) and shortly after reported to the Society in London that there were 278 persons living in the area around Fort Edward. He reported that there were 146 children. There is some difficulty in connection with his statistics but it seems likely that the total of 278 included the families living in the area known today as Falmouth, Mount Denson, Hantsport and Windsor. Mr. Bennett continued to serve the entire mission until 1766 when he was appointed to officiate at Windsor and Falmouth. A report of his efforts to establish schools will be included in a later section - see Schools.

Mr. Bennett's reports to his London headquarters have been preserved and they provide many interesting details of his ministry. His efforts to establish schools can be seen from the records of the appointments of S. P. G. Schoolmasters at Falmouth and the surrounding area. William O'Brien was appointed as the first Schoolmaster at Falmouth on April 1st, 1767. Samuel Watts and George Hallyburton both were schoolmasters at Windsor between 1767 and 1769.

99 Some of the larger rivers in the mission were: the Avon, Gaspereau, Kennetcook and St. Croix.

As the only resident clergyman during the early part of the settlement, he must have performed the early baptisms, marriages and burial services. It is regretted that these records have not been recovered. His report to the S.P.G. in June of 1770 is of particular interest since it classifies the residents of Falmouth as to religious denominations. The list included: Church of England - 11, Congregationalists - 8, Presbyterians - 9, Baptists - 3, Quaker (Baptist) - 1, and Quakers - 4. Although Mr. Bennett does not show in his report, we know from the official census records for 1770 that there were forty-three Roman Catholics at Falmouth at that time. Thirty-nine of these were listed in the household of J.F.W. DesBarres and four were shown in George Faesch's household. In 1775 Mr. Bennett's Notitia Parochialis showed that there were 11 communicants, 6 christenings, 4 marriages and 1 burial at Falmouth. He also reported that "three quarters of the inhabitants of Falmouth come constantly to Church."

It is not clear from the records where Mr. Bennett resided during the early period of his ministry. His first reports are dated at Fort Edward (Windsor) but there is some evidence to show that he lived on the Falmouth side of the river. He owned stock in the common flock at Falmouth[100] and it seems likely that he settled on the 400 acre glebe which was reserved for the Church of England at Falmouth at the founding of the township in 1760. In 1765 his signature appears on the petition of the inhabitants of Kings County in connection with the Acadian labourers. By 1766 he reported to the S.P.G. that his glebes were of "no service to me as I have no money to buy stock or hire labourers. No one wants to rent as they have lots of land." Up until 1766 Mr. Bennett officiated throughout the entire mission but in that year he was appointed for Windsor and Falmouth. While he served the Cornwallis and Horton district it seems likely that he lived at Falmouth. By doing so he could cover the major sections of his mission without the necessity of fording the Avon River.

During his ministry Mr. Bennett frequently met ministers of other denominations who visited or established temporary residence within the mission. In 1766 he referred to the Congregationalist minister at Cornwallis, Mr. Phelps as, "a very worthy good man divested of the prejudices often harboured by men bred in New England."[101] In 1767 he reported, "There is a Dissenting Minister who officiates alternately at Windsor and Falmouth but how long he may remain I cannot say. I cultivate a good understanding with him. I do not find that he is a bigott, he is an Irishman educated in Glasgow."[102]

The Reverend William Ellis was named to replace Mr. Bennett in 1775. Mr. Ellis' initial report showed that religion was at a very low ebb in the Windsor-

100 In Oct. 1767 one of the cases before the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace involved one John Jasper Driliot who was accused of "feloniously stealing, take and carry away from the common flock in the Town of Falmouth one Ewe lamb, the property of the Rev. Joseph Bennett of the value of 10 shillings against the peace of the said Lord the King his Crown and Dignity."

Falmouth district. Previous to his arrival services were only held at irregular intervals. He soon established regular services throughout his mission. At Falmouth he was obliged to hold services in the tavern kitchen since the church building had become unserviceable. Efforts to have it repaired had failed due to the workmen all being employed in the "melancholy work of fortifying the country."[103] Mr. Ellis' services were well attended and in addition to attending Divine Service, he reported that the "dissenters" sent their children to Sunday evening classes in the catechism. By 1779 he was still reporting, "they attend Divine Service very regularly and behave well even in these times when no pains are spared to reduce them both from their religion and allegiance."[104]

The first reference to a new Church at Falmouth is found in Mr. Ellis' report to the S.P.G. on 30 August, 1777. He reported that since the outbreak of the American Revolutionary War the people had become very reluctant to subscribe to the church building fund. On 10 November 1783 on a motion in the legislature by R.J. Uniacke, £ 100 was voted to erect a place of religious worship at Falmouth.[105] By 1786 the new church had been completed and Mr. Ellis described it in his report to London as "a handsome structure." This building was located on a site near the present Church of St. George at Upper Falmouth and stood until 1904 when it was demolished to make way for the present church building.

The Reverend Mr. Ellis continued his ministry at Windsor, Falmouth and Newport until 1792 when the Reverend Wm. Cochran, President of King's College was appointed to the churches at Falmouth and Newport. Mr. Ellis continued at Windsor.

Mr. Ellis was a man of considerable wealth. He owned a home at Windsor and purchased one of the best farms in the Windsor area in May of 1788.[106] He received half pay as Chaplain of a regiment raised at the time of the rebellion and was deputy chaplain for troops in the Windsor Garrison. In addition, as missionary he received a yearly salary of £ 110 from the government and the S.P.G.

From the very beginning of his ministry in the Windsor-Falmouth area he had problems with his congregations. He was unable to adjust to a situation where the majority of his congregation consisted of New England dissenters. In September 1776 he reported to the S.P.G. that "the people laugh at baptism, the sign of the cross especially.....it has been the custom to omit the sign to the Dissenters, but I have not been so complacent." It must be admitted that his ministry coincided with the period of the American Revolutionary War, when the loyalties of the New England settlers were seriously questioned by the government authorities at Halifax. For Mr. Ellis however there appears to have been doubt as to the allegiance of the settlers from New England for he describes them as "Furious Fanatics" and rebels to a man.[107] A reading of the many reports and documents associated with Mr. Ellis' ministry raises the question as to whether a more understanding clergyman could have won the support of the New England dissenters. A serious breach existed between Mr. Ellis and his parishioners during the formative years of the townships and it is interesting to speculate that had he been more compromising the Anglican Church might have become the leading religious body in Hants County.

The Reverend William Cochran, President of King's College was appointed in 1792 to officiate at Falmouth. He continued until 1795 when he was succeeded by the Reverend Edward Chapman Willoughby. Before coming to the Falmouth area Mr. Willoughby was the S.P.G. missionary in Cumberland and Westmorland counties. Little is known of his ministry at Falmouth in spite of the fact that he received a grant of 600 acres at Falmouth on July 22nd, 1803 as the first established minister of the Church of England settled in Falmouth. It is not known whether he lived at Falmouth but the records show that he sold his Falmouth lands between 1803 and 1811.[108] After 1808 Mr. Willoughby confined his ministry to the Windsor area and the Reverend Dr. Wm. Cochran was reappointed to the Falmouth Church for the period 1809 to 1811.

During this period a dispute arose over the Glebe land at Falmouth. When Mr. Willoughby had resigned at Falmouth, he retained the Falmouth Glebe while he continued to officiate at Windsor. This unusual practice is explained as due to his "infirmities and pecuniary distress." The whole subject of the Falmouth Glebe was referred to the S.P.G. in London and it was decided that £ 20 per year would be allowed Dr. Cochran as compensation for not having the benefit of the Falmouth Glebe. But the matter was not settled so easily. When Mr. Willoughby left the Diocese in 1811, his successor, the Reverend W.C. King, Rector of Windsor, N.S. made a formal claim to the Falmouth Glebe on the ground that Mr. Willoughby had retained the Glebe while he served as the S.P.G. missionary at Windsor and while Dr. Cochran had officiated at Falmouth. The matter was referred to the governor, Sir John C. Sherbrooke who rejected Mr. King's claim to the Falmouth Glebe.

Falmouth had been erected a Parish as early as 1811 but the legality of the formal procedures were questioned and the Governor in Council in January 1814 created the Parish of St. George at Falmouth.[109] On 13 January 1814 Bishop Charles Inglis in a letter to His Excellency Sir John C. Sherbrooke asked for the Governor's mandate for the induction of the Reverend Dr. Cochran into the Parishand Church of St. George.

CHAPTER XI

FALMOUTH CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

(New Light Meeting House)

Many of the New England settlers who founded the Township of Falmouth in 1760 were Congregationalists. Little is known concerning their religious services but it seems likely that ministers from New England visited the area and held services. It is known that there was a Congregational minister at Cornwallis Township. The Reverend Beniah Phelps, a graduate of Yale, was ordained in 1765 by the South Hartford Association in Connecticut for the Congregational Church at Cornwallis. During the American Revolution he was accused of being "an uncompromising Whig" and he returned to New England together with other Congregational ministers in Nova Scotia. The Church of England missionary, Reverend J. Bennett, in 1766 referred to Mr. Phelps as follows: he is "a very worthy good man divested of the prejudices often harboured by men bred in New England."

The first reference to a Congregational Church at Falmouth was in 1779 when nine delegates from the New Light Congregationalist Churches of Cornwallis, Falmouth and Newport met at Falmouth to conduct the ordination of Henry Alline, the New Light evangelist. It is not known whether an actual church building existed at this time since the records state that Alline's ordination took place at Falmouth in a large barn. In 1815, however, the New Light Meeting House which is now the residence of William Illsley was built near the site of the present Falmouth Baptist parsonage. Unfortunately the records for this church have not been recovered and therefore little is known concerning the history of this church.

In 1876 the church building was appropriated by the township as a Town Hall. The next record shows that in 1888 the building was owned by a Congregational minister by the name of the Reverend Jacob W. Cox of Kingsport, Nova Scotia. He and his wife Esther deeded the property to James Woodrow of St. John, New Brunswick, who was shown in the deed as the Treasurer of the Congregational Union of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. The deed includes a statement that, "the trustees of the Congregationalists of Falmouth are all long since dead and a large portion of said congregation dispersed."

About 1890 the old Meeting House was moved from its original location on the lot to the present site of the Baptist parsonage and after remodelling became the residence of the Reverend Joseph Cox, a retired Anglican clergyman at Falmouth. On 15 November, 1810 the property was sold to the trustees of the Falmouth Baptist Church by Alice M. Temple, widow of Senator Temple and daughter of the Reverend Joseph Cox. The deed shows the following description of the lot:

> "S by the Old Horton Road, N by land of the Old New Light Meeting House, E by a road or way leading N from said Old Horton Road to said Meeting House and W by a road known as the Gabriel Road or Green Road and being the same lands deeded by Alice Akins and Maria Akins to Emma Florence Hallett of Truro on 23 January 1894."

The building then became the Baptist parsonage and was used in this capacity until it was moved in 1922 to make room for the present Baptist parsonage which was built on this site. The old building and former New Light Meeting House was moved from the Ben Curry Hill location to its present site near the Falmouth Baptist Church where it now serves as the residence of William Illsley.

CHAPTER XII

FALMOUTH BAPTIST CHURCH

There have been Baptists at Falmouth from the first days of the settlement. In 1770, of the thirty-six families at Falmouth, three were Baptists and one family was listed as Quaker-Baptist. One of the Falmouth grantees, Shubael Dimock (1708-1781) was a Baptist lay preacher and he held services at Falmouth and Newport from the earliest period.[110]

In 1769 the Reverend Joseph Bennett, the first Church of England missionary to the area, reported to the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in London that two "Anabaptist ministers" had visited the district - one at Falmouth and the other at Newport.[111] These ministers were the Reverend James and John Sutton from New England and they have been credited with the conversion of the evangelist Henry Alline who was ordained to the ministry by the New Light Congregationalist Church of Falmouth.

Little is known concerning the Baptists of Falmouth during the period 1770 to 1830. We know that a Baptist Church was founded in Windsor in 1819 and the following residents are listed as founding members of that church: Grace Davison, Samuel Elder, John and Jane Fox, Alline and Ann Young.[112] Ten years later on 19 December 1829, twenty-one members of the Windsor Baptist Church organized a church at Falmouth. A council of ministers convened for the purpose and on 13 January 1830, the Falmouth Baptist Church was formally constituted. "Brother Robert Dickie" was ordained as the first minister. In addition to the customary articles of faith and practice, the Falmouth Church added the following:[113]

> "abstinence from spirituous liquors as well as from selling, giving or disposing of the same in any way, except as a medicine when necessary."

In the spring of 1830 the following statement regarding the new Church at Falmouth was made at the Nova Scotia Baptist Association:[114]

> "As many errors have prevailed in this district, it is earnestly to be desired that the new formed church may prove a rich blessing both as the pillar and ground of the truth, and as holding forth a bright example of unfeigned humility, prudence and love."

110 Shubael Dimock's son Daniel Dimock (1736-1804) was a grantee at Newport Township and was baptized during the visit of the Sutton brothers. He was later ordained a Baptist minister. The Rev. Daniel Dimock's son, Rev. Joseph Dimock (1768-1846) was the first native Nova Scotian from a Baptist home to become a Baptist minister in Nova Scotia.

A remarkable record concerning the building of the "Baptist Meeting House" at Falmouth has been preserved and is now part of the Shaw Papers at the Public Archives in Halifax.[115] The document gives a detailed account of the arrangements in connection with the building of the first Falmouth Baptist Church. Of particular interest is the fact that subscriptions were solicited from the public at large. The text of the unpublished subscription paper is as follows:

> "We the inhabitants of the Middle District of the Township of Falmouth, County of Hants at present destitute of a convenient place for the worship of Almighty God do propose to the public at large, the friends of religion and every individual feeling himself interested in the promotion of the Gospel of the Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, the erection of a Meeting House for the use and benefit of the Baptists of the particular order and to be under their direction and control, the above proposed Meeting House to be built between John Elder Esq. and Elisha Porter's in the said Middle District.
> 1st We therefore call on the friends and public our humble request for their assistance by way of a subscription each subscriber paying only the sum assessed to his respective name.
> 2nd Each person subscribing forty shillings and upward will have the privilege of paying one half in produce (vizt.) merchantable wheat at 7/0, corn 6/0, oats 2/0 per bushel and stock at cash price.
> 3rd It will be necessary to collect the one half the amount of the subscription on or before the 25th day of March 1831 for the benefit of the contractor or contractors who may be employed by Trustees hereafter nominated.
> 4th The remainder of the sum subscribed to be paid on or before the 12th day of November 1831 when it is expected the building will be completed.
> 5th Be it further understood that three judicious persons will be chosen from amongst the subscribers, (the majority to be of the order for whose benefit the house is to be built) to receive title of land, to superintend, to conduct with propriety the expenditure and carry into effect with every advantage the erecting of the above proposed Meeting House to appoint a collector for the purpose of collecting all the respective sums subscribed and to continue in office as Trustees."

At a Meeting held at Mr. Wm. Shaw's on Thursday the 6th day of January 1831 by the subscribers of the New Baptist Meeting House, it was resolved that the dimensions of the House would be as follows: 34 ft. long, 28 ft. wide, 12 ft. post, 6 ft. gallery at one end, oval ceiling and at the same time and place the following persons were unanimously chosen trustees: Alline Young, Elias Payzant and William Shaw.

The trustees had intended to build the new church on the land now occupied by Ralph Duncanson's residence but were unable to purchase the property. The new building was built sometime in 1831 on the present site of the Baptist Church. On 2nd April 1831 the land was purchased from Jonathan Shey for the sum of £4. The property consisted of 1/2 acre and is described in the deed as follows:

> "part of a 6-acre lot, No. 1, Letter E, 5th Div. beginning on the South East angle of that part of the lot situated on the western side of the main road and extending North East along the road."

This building served the Baptist community of Lower Falmouth for a period of forty years. In 1871 plans were made to build a larger church and on December 9th of that year a final conference meeting was held in the old building which was now located directly across the road from it's original site.[116] On Sunday 10 December 1871 the new church building, which is still in use, was officially opened.

116 The frame of this building is still in existence as an apple service building on the farm of Ralph Duncanson. It is now located some 400 feet from it's original location.

There is considerable confusion over the early Baptist churches at Falmouth. This has mainly been due to the fact that the original Falmouth Baptist Church consisted of two separate units: one in the lower section of the township in the area known today as Mount Denson and Hantsport and the other in the section known as Lower Falmouth. It will be recalled that the entire area west of the Avon River was known by the name Falmouth (the name Hantsport did not come into use until 1849) and both units of the Baptist church were organized under the name of the Falmouth Baptist Church. This form of organization continued until 23 October 1843 when twenty members of the 1st Falmouth Baptist Church (Hantsport) formed the Calvinistic Baptist Church of Falmouth which was to become known as the 2nd Falmouth Baptist Church.[117] The Calvinistic Baptist Church took over the church built in 1831. The terminology of the 1st and 2nd Falmouth Baptist Churches continued until 1856 when the name of the 1st Falmouth Baptist Church was changed to the Hantsport Baptist[118] Church and the 2nd Falmouth Baptist Church became known as the Falmouth Baptist Church. Throughout the early period there appears to have been a close relationship between the two Falmouth churches and the Baptist church at Windsor.

Missionary Aid Society

Some reference must be made to the Falmouth Baptist Woman's Missionary Aid Society which was organized on 12 July 1870 as the Falmouth Mission Circle by Miss Hanna Maria Norris (1842-1919), a Baptist Missionary to Burma. The founding members were: Mrs. Wm. Church, Miss L. Harding, Mrs. Harding, Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. Messenger, Mrs. Henry Pineo and Mrs. Andrew Shaw. The names of the Presidents during the first twenty-five years of the society: Mrs. Andrew Shaw, Mrs. Harding, Mrs. W. Church and Mrs. Joseph Murray.

A list of members of the Falmouth Mission Circle during the early part of the 1900's includes the following names:

Baptist Parsonage

The first reference to a parsonage at Falmouth is found in 1886 when the trustees of the Baptist Church (Joel Payzant, Andrew Shaw and Charles E. Young) purchased a property and homestead at Falmouth from Maria Taylor, widow of John E. Taylor. This property was sold on 24 June 1911 to James Baker. The present parsonage lot is of historic interest since a New Light Congregationalist Church was built on this location in 1815. The property was sold by the Congregationalist Union of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick to Alice and Maria Akin on 26 July 1892 and the trustees of the Falmouth Baptist Church purchased the property on 15 November 1910 from Alice M. Temple, widow of Senator Thomas Temple.

In 1943 a history of the Falmouth Baptist Church was prepared by Mr. Ralph Loomer in connection with a special anniversary service and with Mr. Loomer's permission his history will be included in this chapter.

Summary of some important events in the History of the Falmouth Baptist Church

19 Dec. 1829	Twenty-one members of the Windsor Baptist Church formed a Baptist Church at Falmouth.

FOREWORD

In the preparation of this historical sketch, I am indebted to our Senior Deacon, George Payzant, who from his abundance of reminiscences stored up in his unusually keen memory for historical detail, has given some of the material that is here presented. I am also indebted to my sister Alice Loomer, for a thorough-going review of the first records, and also to Mrs. Frances Harvey who co-operated in typing the finished product, and to others who have from time to time contributed events and happenings in our church, which because of my youth, and for other reasons, I was not aware.

One hundred and thirteen years ago, number of members were dismissed from the Windsor Baptist Church to form the first Baptist Church of Falmouth. For thirteen years, this work was carried on and prospered, spreading over a field extending from the eastern end of Kings County to Castle Frederick. As part of the work of the first church, a house of worship had been erected in Falmouth Centre. The fine building is still in existence and is Ralph Duncanson's service building. The story of this building is that one Christmas day, Elias Payzant said to his boys, "We cannot celebrate the birth of our Lord in a better way today than to go to the woods to get some timber to build a meeting house," and with this initiative, the first house of worship used by our church was built.

On the 25th day of October in the year 1843, The Calvinistic Baptist Church of Falmouth was organized with twenty original members dismissed from this first church. Amongst the charter members of our church, three names are still well-known in the community. The first on the list is the name of Peter Payzant and his wife, Catherine; William Church and his wife, Mary D.; David G. Shaw, who later became Rev. David G. Shaw, and his wife, Mary. These three names have persisted on the church roll ever since. Amongst others who have descendants now living in Falmouth are Elizabeth Leighton, whose descendants now bear the name of Lyon; Mrs. Sara Gabriel and her daughter, Mary, who are amongst the writer,s ancestry. Organization was started with the advice and assistance of Rev. Benjamin Vaughan, Pastor of the First Baptist Church, Falmouth; Rev. Silas T. Rand, of Windsor, and Rev. Geo. Dimock, of Newport. Rev. Geo. Dimock presided at the organization meeting and the preacher of the day was Elder Silas T. Rand (who is noted as being the Baptist Missionary to the MicMac Indians). On this day, his sermon was preached from the text found in 1st Peter 2:4-5: "To whom coming, as unto a living stone, disallowed indeed of men, but chosen of God, and precious. Ye also, as lively stones, are built up a spiritual house, an holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God by Jesus Christ.

The first years of the Falmouth Church were not encouraging. Members were lost by death and dismissal, with no additions from any source until by 1854, on the death of Peter Payzant, but seven members remained on the Church roll. This last loss was a severe blow because the faithful Deacon Peter Payzant had kept the spark of life from being entirely extinguished. In spite of all these discouragements, in 1854 the church had the courage and foresight to engage as Pastor, Rev. William Burton. He entered immediately upon his pastoral duties. The following year, a number of new members were received by letter, and the names of Young, Hanson, and Bacon, appear in the records. In the year 1856, the name of Messenger is found, and also in this year the candidate for baptism was Lucy P., wife of Andrew Shaw, who himself was received by letter from a Baptist Church in New York. David G. Shaw was licensed to go forth and proclaim the truth as it is in Jesus. The year 1857 saw the first stirring revival of faith in the Falmouth Church, when in December of that year, the growing membership received further inspiration under the preaching of Rev. Adam D. Thompson. He visited the community on an agency for Acadia College and remained to assist Pastor Burton in a campaign which resulted in the addition by baptism of twenty-one members. This brought the total membership by the fifteenth year of our church history to forty-three, more than double that which it had started with fifteen years before, and six times what it had been two years previously. Amongst the first converts of the revival under Adam Thompson were three men of mature middle age: William Shaw, father of our late beloved Deacon Burpee Shaw; Joel Payzant, whose son George, is our Senior Deacon, and Lewis S. Payzant. All became faithful servants of Christ in this church. Lewis Payzant indeed became a new man in Christ and his later life of devotion and true Christian experience, was a living witness of the power of the gospel to reclaim fallen men. He later moved to Halifax and was the founder of the firm, Payzant and King. At this same time, the names of Etter and Lawrence appear, and Andrew Shaw and Charles Bacon were set apart to the office of Deacons. The church of forty-three members in this year sent for Home Missions seven pounds and eleven shillings.

Rev. William Burton concluded his first pastorate in Falmouth in the year 1860, having seen the church make a five-fold increase from a membership of less than ten to a total of fifty-two. There was a Sabbath School in these early days of seventy regular attendants. A further note regarding the School is found in the records giving the closing service of the Sunday School which is of sufficient interest to quote in full: "Commenced May 13th continued twenty-six Sundays in succession. Officers and Superintendent, 5 males and 6 female teachers. Number of Boys attending, thirty-four, learning 8,101 verses; number of girls attending, fifty-one, learning 5 735 verses, total attendance of eighty-five, and total number of verses learned 13,836. The whole number connected with the school, ninety-seven." It is interesting to note that in these early days, Sunday School was carried on from Spring until late Fall and was closed for the Winter months. A regular monthly feature of the church in these days, was the conference which met on Saturday afternoon and was attended regularly by at least half of the membership. It is noted during these years that there were indications that members sometimes found it easier to obey the other commandments than the one that says: "Love thy Neighbor." and now and again the Saturday afternoon conference would be taken up with the problem of how to promote Christian harmony amongst members who had had misunderstanding.

The year 1862 found our church agitated with plans for building a new house of worship. Evidence of this agitation is recorded in the resignation of at least four of the trustees and appointment of four others in their place. However, during the following nine years, with a deed for a site safely in their hands, the idea persisted. At the close of 1863, William Burton again became pastor, which position he filled until his death in 1867. His ministry ended with a revival in Falmouth Village when at least fifteen more were added by baptism.

Conference meeting Saturday, December 9, 1871, was the last meeting in the old meeting house. A feeling of solemnity and earnestness was experienced throughout the meeting brethren and sisters referring to it and the following day, December 10, 1871, marked the opening service in the new and beautiful house of worship, when Rev. Dr. Clay preached the dedication sermon from the text, "Except the Lord build the house, they labour in vain that build it."

Another new meeting house had been opened in Falmouth Village on Christmas Day, 1870, one year previous to the opening of the enw church. Four years later, the first attempt was made for these churches, and Waterville to engage a minister of their own. Previous to this time, the minister had served the Falmouth church in addition to Hantsport and Mount Denson churches. However, it was two years before Rev. J. A. McLean became the pastor with a salary of $500.00 and a house. An interesting item of conferences during this period was a heated discussion as to whether women should be permitted to attend during business meetings. The brethren quoted considerable Scripture against their speaking. Sister M. Young asserting her right to speak, was put down promptly by the chairman. However, without commenting on the wisdom or lack of wisdom of such conclusion the women were finally allowed to attend and to speak on matters of a spiritual nature.

The course of our history has not always run smoothly and shortly after this time, a storm of dissension and illwill broke over the Falmouth Village section of the church, evidently through some unkind words or possibly unwise attitude, of the pastor. However, through discussion and because of the christian spirit of the Deacons, notably Deacon Bacon, a split was prevented. The minutes say: "One brother saw that he was laboring under a false impression, and like a man and a Christian, he acknowledged all and that the best of feeling prevailed as far as he was concerned. A beautiful spirit began to prevail and kind entreaties made and the spirit of Christ entered in many hearts." The document calling for a division of the church was taken away and as it was getting into the evening, a hymn was sung "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" and prayer offered by two brethren, the most kindly feeling we think was in our hearts." Arrangements were made to visit the erstwhile dissenting brother and the Pastor McLean remained for several months thereafter, during which time two or three new members were added to the church.

In 1881 Rev. Jos. Murray accepted a call to become Pastor of the church and during the next seventeen years he served three separate terms as Pastor. Mr. Murray's pastorate was a season of advance for the church, during which time he baptised over forty new members. Mr. Murray, although not a brilliant preacher, was nevertheless a most faithful and competent pastor. During his pastorate, a lot of land was secured in Mortonville and a house of worship erected there to serve this lumbering community.

The following are minutes of a typical conference meeting of the year 1897: "Friday evening. Our regular conference of the church. Goodly number present. Our pastor in the chair. Those present, Bro. B. Shaw, W. O. Taylor, Chas. Thomas, Jr., Leslie Loomer, Handly Loomer, Charlie Payzant, Chas. Taylor, Harry Payzant, Will Lawrence, Sr., Eugene Lawrence, Sisters Phoebe Kennedy, Minnie Kennedy, Mrs. Murray, Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Joe Davison, Mrs. Annie Church from Boston, Flossie Payzant, Ida Taylor, Mrs. Ezra Gilroy, Leamington, Cumb. Co.. Aggie McLaughlin, Lolie Taylor, Francis Church, Edith Pineo, Jennie Lawrence, Bertha Lawrence, Julia Loomer. Very fine meeting indeed, not any business transacted."

The following year, 1898, Jos. Murray concluded his ministry with the Falmouth church to accept a call to Shelburne. The next pastor was Rev. H. S. Baker, who, in spite of having been smitten with blindness while travelling in one of his father's ships in Indian waters, persisted in preaching the gospel. The year of his pastorate is especially memorable because the first annual roll call was held on December 29th. At this service Pastor Baker presided. Scripture was read by Deacon Burpee Shaw; Deacon George Payzant read Church Articles of Faith and Practice; Deacon W. O. Taylor read the Church Covenant. Forty-four responded to their names, some being by letter.

That the Church was not lacking in missionary zeal is evidenced by the continuing mention of mission contributions. That the Home Mission work was a matter of real concern is evidenced by a motion passed by the church in the year of the century to subscribe mony to Mr. Crandall who was laboring in the eastern end of the County near Walton. This same year, the final payment on debt incurred in the building of the Mortonville meeting house was paid. Harry Payzant was licensed to preach. All this was an indication of the contribution this church was making.

In the year 1900, Simeon Spidle was pastor for one year. He was followed by Rev. S. H. Cornwall, under whose leadership improvements were made to the church by the installation of a furnace and the present organ which is used was purchased. The next pastor was Rev. J. C. Spurr, who came to us in June 1904, and his pastorate continued for four years.

In 1904 the church accepted the basis of union between regular Baptists and Free Baptists and the following year we became known as the Falmouth United Baptist Church.

Mr. Cornwall and Mr. Spurr in their pastorates each received seventeen into church membership by baptism and others by letter. In the closing days of the latter's ministry, a process of growth of the church had begun which was continued and hastened under the leadership of Rev. L. J. Tingley who baptised twenty-eight in one year and during the following summer, Rev. Frank Rideout baptised eight.

Rev. Ernest J. Brooks became pastor of the church in September of 1910 and continued this office with the increasing esteem of the church and community until he resigned in 1914 to enter the Canadian Army. In the closing paragaph of his resignation, the original of which is preserved in the church records, he leaves a message of blessing to all his people as he wrote, "May God guide you and lead you out into greater activities and greater consecration, and may you all realize that as we tread the stern road of duty, our master, Jesus Christ, is indeed with us—all the days." Many of us remember Mr. Brooks for his friendly good humor, his outstanding preaching and Christ an personality of rare charm. During the period of Mr. Brooks' ministry, the present parsonage property was bought. This property has a notable history in the religious life of Falmouth for on it was built the New-light meeting house. Henry Alline's followers were named Newlights, a name given them in derision by the churches of his time. This house of worship was originally located on the eastern corner of the property. After it was no longer used as a house of worship between fifty and sixty years ago, it was moved to the position of the present parsonage and made over into a dwelling. Previously the parsonage had been the house now occupied by the Baker family, which was sold to James Baker when the church offered it at public auction. After making some needed repairs to the rebuilt meeting house, Mr. and Mrs. Brooks made their home there until they left for England in 1915. Another item of interest is that during this period, as a result of agitation that began in the year 1899, a fund was started towards building a vestry for Sunday School work and some money was raised towards it.

A Young People's Union had been organized during the last decade of the 19th century but had been discontinued and now the Christian Endeavour, an inter-denominational Young People's movement was active. Also a Teachers' training course added strength to the Sunday School work. For a number of Sundays in the spring of 1915, our church was closed and no public worship services were held, according to the records, because it was found to be difficult to raise money to pay supplies. At the end of this period, a call was extended to Rev. J. C. Hardy, a returned missionary, to be pastor of the church. It was during Mr. Hardy's pastorate that a B. Y. P. U. was again organized with Mrs. Hardy as the first President, and Leslie Loomer as its first vice-president. The Roll call this year held on March 22nd made a record for responses, when one hundred and twelve members responded out of a total membership resident and non-resident, of one hundred and seventy.

On September 22nd, 1916, we were shocked and saddened by the news of Major Brooks' death, killed on Sept. 15th, in Action, during the advance on Courcellette. Although he joined the Army as a Lieutenant, his advance was rapid and at the time of his death he held the rank of Major.

During the next few years there was a period of gradual growth and development under the ministry of J. B. Hogan, Arthur Jefferies. During this period, too, Judson Shaw and Jas. Baker were appointed deacons so that the Board of Deacons in 1916 was Burpee Shaw, Geo. Payzant, John Lyon, Judson Shaw and Jas. Baker. John Mott was pastor of the church for a year, 1921-1922. It was during this pastorate that the church finally came to the decision to build a new parsonage and the old parsonage (the rebuilt newlight meeting house) was moved down the hill and over the flat and now serves as the house of William Illsley. In its place in the year 1922, the fine modern parsonage which our present minister now occupies, was built. This building proved to be an undertaking of no small size for the church because the cost was higher than originally estimated, but the debt was steadily reduced through the untiring efforts of the members, especially the Sewing Circle. The debt was steadily reduced during the pastorates of John Meisner and L. B. Wright. The mortgage was finally burned on March 15, 1928, less than seven years after the building was erected.

The year 1927 was one in which our church suffered the loss of four very prominent members: Deacon Burpee Shaw, who had been Deacon for thirty-seven years and Sunday School Superintendent for over twenty years, died in February; and in the same year, Sister Mrs. E. C. Church and the Clerk, J. D. Stevens; Sister Phoebe Kennedy, were all removed from the membership roll by the Grim Reaper.

On January 1st, 1928, Rev. J. H. Copeland became pastor of our church. Mr. Copeland's pastorate is memorable amongst other things, for the building of the vestry known as Alline Hall. During this year, we saw the outcome of the vision of 1899 when it was moved that we agitate towards building a vestry. Although for a few years some of our membership were far from enthusiastic about this building, yet during the years since, it has proved a most useful building for Sunday School, Young People's meetings and social gatherings of our church. The debt was finally paid against this building in 1936 and the building was finished in stucco the following year. Since that time, any friction or misunderstanding over its having been built, has been overcome and it is proving its worth to the work of our church and is a fitting memorial to the life and labour of Henry Alline. Mr. Copeland concluded his pastorate with us in February of 1930. During Mr. Copeland's pastorate, H. O. Duncanson became Deacon of the church. Silas Taylor, Geo. Lawrence and Handley Loomer were made Deacons a few years later.

Licentiate Heston Flanagan next became our pastor and after being with us for a year was ordained to the Christian ministry in September, 1931. During the fall of this year, eleven were admitted to the church. by Baptism and a few others by letter, making a worthy increase in our membership. Mr. Flanagan concluded his ministry in the fall of 1932 and Licentiate G. O. Wright became the pastor in June, 1933, and he too, was ordained to the Christian ministry while here. Under his leadership much progress was made both in membership and financially. The pastorates of Mr. McClare and our present pastor, Rev. R. S. Meadows, are almost too recent and too well-known to all to require treatment, not that they have been uneventful but we are too close to them in point of time to treat them with any degree of historical judgment.

In this rather inadequate and perhaps inaccurate sketch of the history of the Falmouth Baptist Church, we have attempted to trace the development through times of light and shadow of the church whose hundredth anniversary we celebrate this year. Each generation of members, like ourselve, had their failings and shortcomings, but through its history has run the theme of the saving grace of Jesus Christ. Many lives have been richer and better because of the message and influence of this church. Many have been kept from lives of folly and many others who have fallen, have been saved from a life of sin to lives of useful service, through the power of God, and the work of the Holy Spirit. The whole community has benefited through the efforts of succeeding generations of Christians that have lived and worshipped as the Falmouth Baptist Church. May we as the heirs to much that is rich in the past, carry the torch into our second century as an organized church with even greater advances, in sacrifice and personal consecration to the Master whom we serve. "Knowing that we also as lively stones are built up a spiritual house an holy priesthood to offer up spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God by Jesus Christ."

CHAPTER XIII

FALMOUTH UNITED CHURCH

(Juniper Grove United Church of Canada)

The first Methodists came to Hants County with the Yorkshire migration of 1773. The leader of the Methodists in the Windsor area was John Smith. When the well known Methodist preacher, William Black visited Windsor in 1782, he found well organized meetings for prayer and Christian fellowship.[119] During the late 1830's there were extensive Methodist revivals in Hants and Kings Countries which resulted in the formation of a new circuit at Falmouth and Hantsport. There was a Weslyn Methodist Chapel at Mount Denson as early as 1835 and it is believed that prayer meetings were held in private homes at Lower Falmouth.

In January 1859 the Weslyn Methodist Society of Falmouth appointed a committee to "erect a suitable building in which to celebrate Divine Worship." The following were named to the committee: Reverend Charles Stewart, Pastor of the Windsor Circuit, Benjamin Curry, Constant Church, Thomas Church, George Burnham and William Burnham.

The corner stone of the new Church was laid with an appropriate ceremony on 16 June 1859 and on the 7 July the frame of the building was raised. The cost of the building including both materials and labour was £ 247/15/2. The rate of pay for labour was 5 shillings per day. The land on which the church was built was donated by Benjamin Curry[120] and his wife Phoebe Young. The deed included the following provision:

> "That no Doctrines shall be taught in the said building.....contrary to the Doctrine contained in four volumes of sermons and certain notes on the New Testament published by the Reverend John Wesley, formerly of Lincoln College, Oxford, England."

The building was dedicated to the Service of God on 17 August 1862 by the Reverend Andrew Gray and named the Juniper Grove Methodist Church. The Church came under the jurisdiction of the Conference of Eastern British America and the Falmouth-Hantsport circuit.

From the very beginning there were regulations concerning the sale and rent of the pews. The wall pews were sold at £ 5 and the centre pews at £ 4. There was an annual rental charge of 5 shillings which was used to cover the costs of light and heat.

A bazaar was held in September 1859 which raised an amount of £ 114/12/2. In September 1875 a Tea Meeting was held to raise funds for the painting of the Church and the records show that an amount of $148.12 was realized. A Mr. Taylor was later paid the sum of $75 for painting the Church. On 15 September 120 Benjamin Curry (1802-1873) lived on the Ben Curry Hill property opposite the present Baptist parsonage in the house now occupied by Everett Porter.

PLATE 16. FALMOUTH UNITED CHURCH. THIS CHURCH WAS BUILT IN 1859 AND WAS KNOWN AS THE JUNIPER GROVE METHODIST CHURCH UNTIL CHURCH UNION IN 1925.

1877 the trustees decided to purchase an organ for use in the Church. In 1912 the interior walls of the Church were beautifully decorated by stencil work, including the Lord's Prayer on the front wall. Electric lights were first installed in the Church in February 1919. The 75th anniversary of the Church was observed in 1934 and the interior was again completely re-decorated and a vestibule or porch was added to the front entrance. These improvements were financed from a legacy of $1000 left to the trustees under the terms of the will of the late C.E. Young. In 1949 a new furnace and oil burner were installed. In 1951 and 1952 other renovations were undertaken and a new and modern lighting system was installed and financed by the Ladies' Aid. In 1954 a major addition, 25 ft. x 31 ft. was constructed at the rear of the Church building to provide a basement auditorium, kitchen facilities, choir-loft and choir room. In the same year, new modern pews, a gift of the late F.H. Manning were installed. On May 8, 1955 during the pastorate of Reverend Neil A. MacLeod the Church was re-dedicated to, "The Glory of God."

The centennial anniversary of the Falmouth United Church was celebrated on October 11th and 14th, 1962. The guest speaker for the occasion was the Very Reverend C.M. Nicholson, B.A., D.D., LL.D., Principal of Pine Hill Divinity Hall, Halifax, Past Moderator of The General Council of the United Church of Canada.

CHAPTER XIV

COMMUNITY HALLS

About 1908 the Falmouth Village Hall was built at Upper Falmouth. Mr. Inglis C. Smith and his wife Maude Sangster donated the land to the trustees of the Community Hall on 13 January 1908 with the understanding that the hall was to be used for, "social, religious, moral and political purposes by the inhabitants of Falmouth Village and its vicinity." The trustees were Robert Benedict, Frank Eldridge and Aubrey J. Smith. The deed made provision for vacancies in the office of trustee and the Church wardens and vestry of St. George's Church were appointed to fill such vacancies. An extract from the deed reads:

> "This conveyance is given upon the condition that whereas the said lands hereinafter described have been given by the said Inglis C. Smith to the said trustees free of charge for the purposes aforesaid, therefore the deed is given subject to the condition that should the said building now standing on the said land be destroyed, removed or otherwise become unfit or cease to be used as a hall for the purposes aforesaid, and the said lands are no longer required for the purpose of a public hall as aforesaid then the said land shall revert to and become the property of the said Inglis C. Smith his heirs and assigns."

Shortly after the hall was opened a song was written by one of Upper Falmouth's young swains:

Upper Falmouth
by Alan P. Bremner

There's a place called Upper Falmouth
  You can find it on the map
Stretching out from Mr. Thomas' to Charlie Lockhart's gap;
  And the pious neighbours say
That the folks are rather gay
  And there won't be many saved in Upper Falmouth.

Chorus:

Callou! Callou! We don't care what we do
  Our actions and our elements are charming
We don't care what we eat
  As long as we get our whisky neat
We're a saving sort of folk in Upper Falmouth.

At Windsor's famous fire it is said they filled a churn
  With Mr. Keith's good whiskey ere they'd see the liquor burn
And who ever got a taste said t'was far too good to waste
  They're a saving sort of folk in Upper Falmouth.

Our good and pious neighbours talk about the "village roughs"
  In a most uncalled for manner
Which to me seems rather tough
  They've no need abroad to roam,
They've got some "Roughs at home,"
  So, at least, it seems to us in Upper Falmouth.

These good and pious gossips, they are troubled oftentimes
About the doings of the villagers,
And their outlandish shines
About their sewing circle ructions
And their dances with subscriptions
Faith, they say, the Devil's home in Upper Falmouth.

Now for all these pious gossips,
There'll be news and talk galore,
For we're going to have a bigger shine, then 'ere we had before,
We're going to build a "Hall"
Big enough to hold us all,
Where we'll "whoop her up" till morn in Upper Falmouth.

Young's Community Hall - Lower Falmouth

A community hall was established at Lower Falmouth on 4 August 1920 when Colin R. Taylor, Albert Armstrong and William E. Brown were deeded land and a hall at Falmouth. The hall had been built about 1900 by William P. Lawrence who had rented the building to various groups for community functions. The location of the hall was at the north side of the Green Lane Road and on the western corner of lands owned by Charles E. Young directly across the Green Lane from the Taylor-Burgess homestead. The building became known as Young's Hall and it was used continuously by the Falmouth community until the purchase of the Old Falmouth Centre School on September 1, 1958. Young's Hall was dismantled in 1960 marking the end to a structure which had witnessed many of Falmouth's memorable social events.

Falmouth Community Hall

When the new school building was built on Gabriel Road, the old school building was sold to the trustees of the Falmouth Community Hall. The deed given by the Municipality of the District of West Hants was dated 1 September 1958. The building was then remodelled for use as a community centre and is now used by a number of organizations.

CHAPTER XV

THE DAKEYNE FARM AT MOUNT DENSON

The Dakeyne Farm at Mount Denson was organized in 1913 by the Dakeyne Street Lads Club, 2nd Nottingham Company of the Boys Brigade of Nottingham, England. It was a plan to train English boys as farmers.

The guiding spirit in the project was Captain Oliver Watts Hind, an English solicitor of Nottingham who was able to obtain the sponsorship of Mr. John L. Player of the Player Cigarette Company of London, England.

On 18 September 1912 Captain Hind visited the area and made an agreement with Hugh Hannah of Falmouth for the purchase of a Mount Denson property for the sum of $11,800. The following year on 16 January 1913, Hugh and Ellen Hannah deeded the Dakeyne property to John L. Player who later deeded the farm to The Boys Brigade Incorporated of 34 Paternoster Row, London, England.

A considerable number of young men came to the Mount Denson farm under the plan and many of them settled in Nova Scotia. Some are living in the Windsor-Mount Denson area and have become leading citizens.

The Dakeyne Farm project operated for approximately fifteen years. Some of the farm managers were local men: Charles Lockhart, Arthur Smith, John I. Smith, Roy Grant, Gunner Neilson and a Mr. Skem.

The Dakeyne farm was purchased by the late John I. Wilson and it is now owned and operated by one of his sons.

CHAPTER XVI

SHIPS AT FALMOUTH

Many of the New England settlers at Falmouth arrived in the new township in their own sailing ships. We know that the following early settlers were captains and owned small schooners in the first days of the settlement: Joseph Northup, Abel Michener, Henry Lyon, Thomas Young, Edward Yorke, Jonathan Marsters and Ichabod Stoddard.

During the early period the lack of roads meant that most of the contracts with other settlements would be by ship and these conditions continued for a considerable time. The early township records do not show the registrations of new vessels and we therefore do not know whether ships were built in the area. There is, however, a legend that Captain Thomas Young (1735-1833) built a vessel at Falmouth in 1780. The building site is believed to be about two miles from the Avon River on land then owned by Lewis Payzant (the Alline Bridge area). The event was an occasion for considerable discussion in Falmouth and the inhabitants referred to the vessel as the "Ark." When the time for launching came, Captain Young was able to have the ship hauled to the salt water with the help of forty oxen. The Young family continued to be active in the shipping industry for many years. There is a record of the launching of another Young ship at Falmouth in 1812. The "Ann" was registered at the Port of Halifax as a schooner of forty-seven tons. This ship was probably used in the plaster trade which was a fairly well developed industry at this period. Plaster was quarried in the Windsor-Falmouth area and shipped to New England ports. The principal loading wharves were located at Falmouth at the foot of Landing Hill (the river extended almost to this point at that period) and at the Young property (this property is now known as the Elisha Church farm and there now is a large gravel pit on the site of the original wharf).[121]

The extent of the shipping industry in the Windsor-Falmouth area in 1830 may be shown by the fact that there were forty-one vessels owned in the region at that time. The genealogical listings of Falmouth, Mount Denson and Hantsport families will also demonstrate the importance of the shipping industry since "sea-going" was one of the most popular professions in many of the early families.

No attempt will be made here to report on the extensive shipping industry which developed at Hantsport and throughout Hants County but it is hoped that further research will be undertaken in the near future so that the story of the "Ships of the Avon" may be told.

A list of some of the sailing ships owned by residents of Falmouth, Mount Denson and Hantsport has been compiled from various sources and it is hoped that this listing will stimulate others to collect information concerning the Hants County[122] ships.

121 There is evidence of old plaster quarries at Falmouth on the Hanson, Shaw and Duncanson farms and on the Dakeyne Farm at Mount Denson.

* Legend concerning Jeremiah Northup

A legend has been passed down concerning Jeremiah Northup who represented Falmouth in the Legislative Assembly at Halifax. Mr. Northup is said to have been extremely proud of the fact that his farm at Falmouth produced sufficient wool and flax to provide homespun clothing for his family and farm staff. It was customary for Mr. Northup to wear his homespun when he attended the Legislative Assembly and on one occasion he wore his Falmouth suit to a social function at Government House. The Governor of the Province is said to have been offended by Mr. Northup's failure to dress in the proper evening fashion and in conversation with him is said, "Mr. Northup, I presume you are one of the smartest men from your district." Mr. Northup's reply to the Governor was, "No Your Excellency, I am only the best dressed one."

THE AKIN FAMILY

The founder of the Akin family at Falmouth, N.S. was Thomas Akin (1702-1775) son of Capt. John Akin (1663-1746) & Mary Briggs of Portsmouth, R.I. and Dartmouth, Mass. Thomas Akin (1702-1775) and one of his sons, Stephen Akin 1739-1827) were grantees at Falmouth at the founding of the township in 1760.

Capt. John Akin (1663-1746) of Portsmouth, R.I. and Dartmouth, Mass., was the first Town Clerk of Dartmouth, Mass. He was a Captain in Col. Benjamin Church's Company of Militia and served in King Philip's war. Capt. John Akin is believed to have emigrated to America with his parents sometime before 1675. It is believed that he was the son of the Mary Akin who received 200 acrea in 1675 from the proprietors of Narragansett County (Rhode Island). The early members of the Akin family belonged to the Society of Friends (Quakers) and this is believed to have been the reason for their emigration from Scotland. Capt. John Akin and his sons were ardent supporters of the Revolutionary Party. Two of his sons, James and Elihu lost considerable property including a "vessel on the stocks" at the burning of Bedford, Mass.

i Dr. Thomas[5] Beamish Akins b. 1 Feb. 1809 at Liverpool, N.S.; d. 6 May 1891 - burial Section K, St. John's Fairville Cem. (Halifax, N.S.); raised in household of his grandfather Thomas Beamish of Halifax; admitted as a Barrister at Law of the Prov. of N.S. May 1831; received the Honourary Degree of Doctor of Civil Laws from the University of Kings College, Windsor, N.S. in 1865 and sometime later was elected one of the Governors of that University; Appt. Commissioner of Public Records of Nova Scotia under a resolution of the Legislature bearing date of 1857; elected a member of the Hist. Society of Quebec also a corresponding member of the Hist. Society of Maryland and of New Brunswick, a member of the Hist. Assoc. of America; member of the Historical Society of Nova Scotia; elected president of that society in 1882; Vice-president of the Hist. Soc. of N.S. 1889-1890; Extract from an article on Dr. Akins which appeared in Vol. VII, 1891 of the N.S. Hist. Society:

"He studied law with the late Beamish Murdoch, and was called to the bar in 1831. His practice, which was principally that of a solicitor, was a fairly lucrative one, and was marked by the same ability, prudence and uprightness that distinguished him in all the relations of life. At an early age, happily, he became interested in our provincial history. When only a lad he assisted Haliburton in the collection of materials for his History of Nova Scotia, and in his middle age he furnished a large portion of the materials for Murdoch's more elaborate work on the same subject. As early as 1857 he was recognized as the best authority in the province on matters pertaining to our provincial history, and was selected by the government of that date to be Commissioner of Public Records for the Province.

This appointment which Dr. Akins continued to hold until his death, was made in pursuance of the following resolution, which was moved by Hon. Joseph Howe, seconded by Hon. J.W. Johnston, and adopted by the House on the 30th day of Apr. 1857: "That His Excellency the Governor be respectfully requested to cause the ancient records and documents illustrative of the history and progress of society in this province to be examined, preserved and arranged, either for reference or publication, as the Legislature may hereafter determine, and that this House will make provision for this service". ...

"Perhaps the finest and fullest private collection extant of works relating to British North America has been bequeathed by Dr. Akins to this Society, on condition that suitable and secure accommodation be provided for it, and that it be kept apart from the other effects of the Society. All his miscellaneous books and pamphlets he has willed to the Library of King's College. These include a collection of rare and old volumes, so important that, before it was impaired by his previous donations to the last-named library, it contained more specimens of the 15th century than the entire exhibit made some years ago by the Claxton Society at Montreal.

His memory was a store-house, not only of historic and antiquarian lore, but also of charming miscellaneous anecdotes. He was a kind friend, a genial companion, a doer of unobtrusive charities, a lover of truth, and a most thorough gentleman. 'Shunning, almost abhorring, popular notice or applause,' writes an editor who knew him well, 'he did for Nova Scotia a work that well entitles him to rank with her most illustrious sons'. Thinking only of 'the lightning of the deed' and caring nothing for 'the thunders of applause that follow at its heels, that men call fame' his name will live deservedly and honorable in the annals of his country, long after many apparently greater names are wholly forgotten"

He built a summer home at Falmouth, N.S. on the original Akin grant and spent the summer months in this fine country home. This building is still in existence and has only recently been remodeled. It is owned (1963) by Arthur Akin. His Halifax home was on Brunswick St. and is located a short distance from St. George's (Round) Church. Dr. Akins died on 6th May 1891 at Halifax, N.S. He was buried on the 9th in the cemetery at St. John's Fairville his funeral being attended by many of the most distinguished citizens of the Province. On the day after his death a resolution regretting his loss and acknowledging his services was adopted unanimously by the House of Assembly.

THE ARMSTRONG FAMILY

The first members of the Armstrong family appear to have settled at Falmouth, N.S. in 1790. The names of Christopher Armstrong Sr. and Christopher Armstrong Jr. appear in the Falmouth Assessment records for 1791 and 1792. Deed records show that the early members of the family operated the Grist Mill located on Farm Lot 99. There is a tradition in the Armstrong family that Christopher Armstrong Sr.'s family came to Nova Scotia from Scotland in 1777 and resided at Sheffield Mills and Annapolis Royal before moving to Falmouth, N.S. The tradition tells us that the first Christopher's wife was Christine Murphy, sister of Margaret (Murphy) Cunard, mother of Sir Samuel Cunard. The first Armstrong family is believed to have included seven sons: John, Robert, Dr. William who lived at St. Kitts, West Indies, Thomas, Charles, James and Christopher Jr., the founder of the Falmouth branch of the family.

THE AYLWARD FAMILY

b. Ireland 1794; d. 22 Feb.1850 Falmouth, N.S.; m. 1 May 1828 - St. Geo's Rec. Mary Ann Kelly (1800-1887) dau. of John and Hannah (Handley) Kelly; Hannah Kelly b. 1768 and d. 21 Jan. 1843 G.R.F.C.C.; Mary Anne Kelly and her sister Elizabeth purchased the Aylward farm at the top of Alline Hill at Falmouth, N.S. on 6 Jul. 1826 from John Walker; Elizabeth later sold her portion to Walter Aylward; Walter Aylward emigrated to Nova Scotia in the early 1800's from Ireland and worked for some time on "Greenwood Farm" Falmouth, owned by John Elder: listed in the 1838 census for Falmouth as a head of a family of: Total 7, 1 male under 6, 1 male under 14;
there is a tradition in the Aylward family that the place of origin in Ireland was the Vale of Avoca and this seems to be confirmed by the fact that Capt. Thomas Aylward (1829-1903) named one of his ships the "Avoca"; the authority on Irish surnames, Edw. MacLysaght in his "Irish Families", Dublin, Hodges Figgis & Co. Ltd., 1957, shows the Aylward family as of Norman origin and the family is shown as located at Waterford, Ireland; the surname Aylward appears in Nova Scotian records in a variety of spellings: Elwood, Aylewood, Elward; the Gravestone records however all use the "Aylward" form; a brother of Walter Aylward, James Robert Aylward settled at Onslow, N.S. and it is believed that he came to N.S. via Newfoundland; on 21 Sept. 1828 James Robert was a deacon of the Baptist Church at Five Islands, N.S.; he married Mary Polly of Onslow, N.S.; in May 1809 "James Aylewood" of Parrsborough applied for a bounty for grain under an Act to encourage the raising of Bread Corn on New Land; his will dated 4 Dec. 1829 was probated at Kentville, N.S. - he is shown as of "Five Islands in Parrsborough in Kings County, N.S." his family included: 1. John, 2. James, 3. Edward, 4. William, 5. Thomas(1822-1915), 6. Eleanor, 7. Agnes, 8. Rebecca, 9. Margaret and 10. Keziah. (Data on James Robert Aylward's family from King County Records and from Dr. B.Z. Aylward of Dawson Creek, B.C. (1962).

THE CHURCH FAMILY

The founder of the Falmouth branch of the Church Family was Edward[4] Church (John[3], Joseph[2], Richard[1]) who was born at Little Compton, R.I. on 22 Feb. 1706. He died at Falmouth, N.S. on 1 Jan. 1761. Edward was a grantee at Falmouth and at Newport, N.S. at the founding of these Pre-Loyalist townships in 1760. He was the son of John Church (1666-1756) and the great grandson of Richard Church (1608-1668) who came to Boston from England in 1630 and later settled at Plymouth, Mass. where he married Elizabeth Warren (1616-1670). Elizabeth Warren was the dau. of Richard Warren (1580-1628), one of the "Mayflower" passengers.

Two of Edward Church's sons Constant Church (1730-1820) and William Church (1740-) were also grantees at Falmouth, N.S. Constant's grant is dated 21 Jul. 1761 and William's grant is dated 19 Feb. 1768. Another son Edward Church (1745-1801) appears to have settled at Newport or in the Windsor district, this son probably took over his father's Newport grant.

The Church family of Annapolis, N.S. was founded by Jonathan[4] Church (Isaac[3], Caleb[2], Richard[1]). He was baptized at Watertown, Mass. on 11 May 1721. He and his wife Thankful Bullard sailed from Boston on board the Sloop "Charming Molly" on 17 May 1760 for Annapolis, N.S. to take up his Crown grant in the new township of Annapolis, N.S. His name appears in the Annapolis Grant of 30 Oct. 1765. Jonathan's family included: 1. May (1735-1736), 2. Anna (1737-1811), 3. Lydia, 4. Abigail and 5. Rebecca.

The Lunenburg County, Nova Scotia branch of the Church family was founded by the Loyalist Charles Church (1740-). He was the son of Charles[4] Church (Charles[3], Nathaniel[2], Richard[1]) of Fall River, Mass. Unlike other Church families of New England, Charles aligned himself with the Tories during the Revolution and this resulted in his properties being confiscated. He is reputed to have appealed to General Washington claiming unjust treatment "to a man who had not fired a shot against the Americans". "On which side would you have fought if you had been there?" Washington is supposed to have asked. "I am British to the backbone and would have fought for my King," was Church's answer. In 1783 Charles Church set out from New York with his family of 11 and 3 servants for Shelburne, N.S. where he received a grant from the Crown. Sometime later he moved to Dover, N.S. and carried on a fishing business. He died there and was buried on an Island which is known to this day as Church's Island.

His family include:

i John b. 1764 m. Sarah Church dau. of Seth (cousin): he lived for sometime at Newport, N.S. and then returned to live at Fall River, Mass.

ii Patience b. 1769 returned to U.S. and m. Wm. Kelly.

THE CURRY FAMILY

Additional research will be required before the various members of the Curry family can be identified with the immigrant ancestor, JOSEPH CURRY. There is a tradition in the family that Joseph Curry came to Nova Scotia with one of the Highland Regiments. A.W.H. Eaton has suggested in his article, "The Settling of Colchester County" Section II, 1912 of the Transactions of the Royal Society of Canada, that the place of origin of the family was Ireland and that the family came to Nova Scotia at the same time as other well known Irish families: Cunningham, Cochran, Crowe, Elder, Jenkins, Lockhart etc. The early records for Horton, Rawdon, Windsor and Falmouth show Joseph Curry's land transfers in these areas and it is believed that further research will confirm this settler to be the ancestor of the various branches of the Curry family of Hants County.

JOSEPH[1] CURRY

b. d. c. 1801; probate records d/13 Nov. 1801 Windsor, N.S.; land transfer records show that he bought size land on 23 Apr. 1779 which had been drawn by J. Rogers - land located in Horton, N.S.; again in 1779 "Joseph Curry of Horton, Yoeman" bought 50 acres-southward half of Farm Lot 4 D 2nd Div. - this land being west and adjoining the road leading to Falmouth; 1 Jul. 1783 he made an agreement with Martha Whitfield re lease of Farm lots in Mount Denson - this land being her interest in the estate of Henry Denson; 28 Nov. 1787 Joseph and his wife Margaret sold 1/2 part of 2nd Div. Farm Lot #4 D lying west and adjoining the road to Falmouth to James Duncanson, blacksmith of Horton, N.S.: 16 Apr. 1798 purchased lots 10 & 14 at Rawdon, N.S.; this property was valued at £150 when it was sold by Joseph Curry's estate to Geo. Thompson, butcher of Halifax, N.S.; m. Margaret_____.

THE DAVISON FAMILY

The Davison family of Falmouth, N.S. was founded by John[4] Davison (1708-1799) son of Thomas[3] Davison (1668-1724) and Hannah Tracey of Preston, Conn. John[4] Davison was a grantee at Falmouth, N.S. at the founding of the Township in 1760. Thomas[3] Davison (1668-1724) son of Daniel Davison (1630-1693) and Margaret Low of Ipswich, Mass. owned extensive lands at Preston, Conn. and "held, at various times, nearly every office in the gift of his Townsmen". Nicholas[1] Davison, the immigrant ancestor to America was born in 1611 at Lynn, England. He came to America about 1630 and returned to England shortly afterwards. He returned to America in 1656 on the "Speedwell".

There were other Davison grantees at Falmouth but they moved to other sections of the province shortly after receiving their grants. Jonathan, Cyprian, Samuel Davison and Mrs. Keziah (Davison) Randall were part of the family of Jonathan Davison (1697-1751/52) of Preston, Conn. and all received grants at Falmouth. Jonathan probably moved to Cumberland County, N.S.; Cyprian settled in Kings County, N.S. and Keziah Davison, wife of David Randall, grantee at Falmouth also settled in Kings County, N.S.

Data on the New England family will be included in this summary in an attempt to clarify the relationship between the various members of the Davison family.

THE HOLMES FAMILY

The Holmes family trace their descent from John[1] Holmes who came to Plymouth, Mass. aboard the "Ann" in 1623 together with Elian Holmes, John Faunce and Richard Church. They were among the 1500 political prisoners who were transported to the American colony. The History of Yorkshire states that previous to the year 1612, there had been 14 generations of the Holmes family in that section of the country. JOHN[1] HOLMES, the founder of the family as described below was married in 1632 at Plymouth, Mass. to Mercy Faunce dau. of John Faunce. Their son Nathaniel[2] Holmes married Mercy Faunce dau. of John Faunce 2nd, 1st cousin. The family of Nathaniel and Mercy consisted of: John[3], Mercy[3], Patience[3] and Melateah[3]. John[3] Holmes was born 1682 and married 1st in 1709 Sarah Church and 2nd in 1711 to Mercy Ford. John[3] Holmes and Mercy Ford had a son named Peleg[4] Holmes born 1715 who married Abigail and removed with his family to Chebouque, Yarmouth, Co., N.S. in 1762. Peleg's will is dated 12 Dec. 1795.

THE LUNN FAMILY

There is a tradition that two Lunn brothers founded the family in Nova Scotia. Members of the family report that the father of the two brothers was an officer in the British Army. The founder of the Falmouth branch of the family appears to be JAMES LUNN who is listed in the 1838 census as a Blacksmith at Falmouth. James Lunn is believed to be the father of Richard Lunn who also is listed in the 1838 census. It is hoped that further research will be undertaken to establish the origin of the early members of this family.

THE MANCHESTER FAMILY

grantee at Falmouth, N.S. 21 Jul. 1761, 250 acres, Farm Lot No. 39 (half lot) - the other half of the Lot was granted to Benoni Sweet; Manchester and Sweet sold their Falmouth lands to Henry D. Denson on 30 Aug. 1765; although it could not be confirmed, it is believed that Edward the Falmouth grantee married 21 Apr. 1782 Esther Church dau. of Edward and Mary (Southworth) Church of Little Compton, R.I. and Falmouth, N.S.; Edward Manchester was probably the son of Archer and Elizabeth (Gifford) Manchester of Dartmouth and Little Compton, R.I.; it appears that Edward Manchester returned to New England shortly after 1765.

N.B. The Vital Rec. of Rhode Island shows the marriage of Edward Manchester on 4 Feb. 1720 at Little Compton, R.I. to Anna Williston by Thomas Church, Justice. The family included: Arthur b. 22 Jan. 1723 Little Compton, R.I., John b. 6 Mar. 1724, Ruth b. 30 Jul. 1726, Zebedee b. 18 Jan. 1729, Joseph b. 9 Jan. 1730, Thomas b. 28 Nov. 1732 and William b. 1734.

Mrs. Barbara Gray - St. Paul's Halifax Records; received a grant of 500 acres at Falmouth, N.S. 8 June 1763 - Farm Lot 42; purchased Thos. and Nathan Hovey's rights at Falmouth - (Farm Lot 41); will dated at Halifax, N.S. 15 Dec. 1762; codicil 1764; executors Michael Franklin & Benj. LeCompte or Joseph Pernette; bequeathed Falmouth lands to John Gray,wife's son by her former husband; will refers to his mother Mary Mourin who married Thos. Mourin after father's death, half sisters Margaret and Mary Mourin, Owen Carrol cousin, his wife and children, Catherine Melea, his aunt and her dau. Margaret Melea and his cousin Peter Manning; to Peter Manning he bequeathed "my silver Tankard marked M.W. in a cypher and some kitchen furniture" and "the bed mattress and all the furniture thereunto"; he bequeathed his lands to this wife, "upon the express condition that she permit my cousin Peter Manning or his wife or any other of my relations that may arrive from Ireland to use, occupy, and possess rent free until he the said Peter Manning, she or they or any of them....can be placed in the country within the province of Nova Scotia upon any farm or farms to be purchased and that provided for them by my executors"; he stipulated that after his wife's death that title to his lands would go to his heirs at law provided that "such doth consent and content themselves to live, and reside within the Province of Nova Scotia after the expiration of six years after the decease of my said wife"; John Burbridge, Terence Fitzpatrick of Halifax and "my good friend William Howard Smith" also come in for property; his apprentice John Ivey is mentioned and Robert Jew, "my servant shall be kept at school and maintained by my wife Barbara Manning until he arrives at the age of fourteen years and then to be bound an apprentice to such trade as she shall think proper for him"; 17 Dec. 1781 O.W. Schwartz of Halifax and Catherine Carroll, widow of Falmouth hold mortgage to Jeremiah Northup's 6-acre Lots 2,3,4,5,6,7,8,9,10 4th Div. Letter D "payment to be made to Nancy Manning if above dead; dau. of Peter Manning or to children of Peter Manning"; 4 Apr. 1782 Walter, Joseph & Benjamin Manning, sons of Peter Manning benefit from sale of Terence Fitzpatrick land's at Falmouth.

THE MANNING FAMILY

REV. EDWARD[2] MANNING (Peter[1])

b. 1767 Ireland; d. 12 Jan. 1851 Cornwallis, N.S.; son of Peter & Nancy (Carrol) Manning who came to Nova Scotia from Ireland and settled at Falmouth, N.S. before 1770; m. 25 June 1801 Rebecca Skinner dau. of Chas. Skinner and Sarah Osborn - she d. 5 Apr. 1857 AE 76 - both buried at the Canard Cemetery, Canard, N.S.; Rev. Edward was converted in 1789 under the ministry of the Rev. John Payzant; as a youth of 10 years he heard the evanglist Rev. Henry Alline preach at Falmouth; a detailed account of his conversion is included in his personal papers on file at Acadia University; ordained over the Congregational Church of Cornwallis in 1795; became associated with the Baptists and was baptized by immersion by the Rev. T.H. Chipman at Annapolis in 1798; ordained as a Baptist minister in 1808 and organized a new Church at Cornwallis in 1809 (1st Cornwallis Baptist Church); Saunders in the "History of the Baptists" refers to Father Manning, "one of the most powerful, practical and wise leaders in the founding and establishing of the Baptist denomination in Nova Scotia"; another writer speaks of him as follows:

"Mr. Manning's pastorate with the First Cornwallis Church continued from its organization to the time of his death; but his sphere of labour and influence was not limited to that congregation. His evangelistic fervor led him to make frequent tours through Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, and in company with other leaders he journeyed far, travelling by boat, upon horseback, on snowshoes, visiting towns and villages and country districts, founding many of what are now our strongest churches.

On one occasion he made a tour in the valley of the St. John river, preaching in various centres, and a great revival began. The authorities were not favorable to evangelical preaching, and had decreed that no one should be permitted to preach without a license from the Lt.-Gov. Mr. Manning felt that his call was from a higher authority, and did not seek a license. As his work prospered, some of the leaders in the dominant Church party called for his arrest, and applied to Judge Allen, who lived a little above Fredericton, for the necessary warrant. The judge replied: "I will first hear him for myself". Unknown to the preacher, the judge came to the service and stood outside the door. After the opening exercises the preacher announced his text, "Behold, the judge standeth before the door" and preached a sermon so earnest and powerful that Judge Allen was greatly impressed and said: "God forbid that I should lay violent hands upon that young man; I wish there were more like him". The worker was thus unmolested and the work brought rich results. As long as strength permitted he carried on evangelistic work and many districts were enriched by his ministry. He is said to have been the first Baptist to preach the gospel in Charlotte County, New Brunswick".

"In appearance Mr. Manning was a man of good physique, more than six feet three inches in height; in earlier years slight, but later was well proportioned. His large head, with high broad forehead, indicated great brain power. Broad-minded, strongly intellectual, with a keen insight and wide experience, he was a natural leader among men; and his deep spiritual earnestness and zeal made him a most successful preacher and evangelist. Of him, Dr. Bill, in his "History of the Baptists", says, "Some have asked, where was the great secret of Father Manning's wondrous power"? If one who knew him most intimately in his private life and public ministrations for more than 40 years may be permitted to answer, I would say that that potent influence was not the result of any one phase of his character, but of the combination of all the properties of his body, soul and spirit, in the life-long labour to glorify God in the elevation and salvation of man. This was the grand motive power of his life. Its mighty pulsations were felt stirring him to constant action. His meat and his drink was to do the will of God".

Gravestone inscription, Canard Cemetery, Canard, N.S.:

Rev. Edward Manning
Died Jan. 12, 1851, Age 85.

For 61 years Mr. Manning was devoted to the Ministry of the Gospel, and for more than half a century pastor of the Baptist Church in the Township. He was among the earliest evangelical Ministers of these Provinces. His memory will long live in the affections of those who enjoyed his ministry. For he was a good man and full of the Holy Ghost and of faith, and many people were added unto the Lord.

THE MARTIN FAMILY

ROBERT MARTIN

The Martin name appears in Falmouth records in 1780 when Robert Martin purchased land from C. Dewey; it has not been confirmed whether this branch of the Martin family belongs to the family founded by Brotherton Martin, the grantee at Horton Township; a number of Irish families settled in Nova Scotia at that time and it is possible that Robert Martin was part of that migration; 1 Mar. 1781 purchased land from Jeremiah Northup; listed in 1795 assessment roll; the name of John Martin also appears on this roll; m. Elizabeth (probably Northup) she was probably the dau. of Immanuel Northup of N. Kingston, R.I. and sister of Jeremiah Northup, the Falmouth grantee; a Mrs. Martin died at Falmouth on 14 Jul. 1783 - St. Paul's Records, Halifax, N.S.; Mrs. Martin mentioned in Capt. Joseph Northup's will which appears to confirm her relationship with the Northup family.
Children:

i Anne Martin b. 1779; d. 1863; m. 3 Jan. 1798 Elias B. Payzant (1778-1870) son of Lewis (See Payzant Family).

+ ii Joseph Northup b. 12 Mar. 1788; d. Nov. 1847; m. 4 Mar. 1813 Abigail Davison (1789-1878) census of 1838 shows Joseph Northup Martin as head of a family of 7.

iii John m. 27 Dec. 1821 St. George's Falmouth, N.S. Rebecca Anne Welsh of Falmouth, N.S.

iv Jane m. 1 Oct. 1816 John McLaurin of Falmouth, N.S. - St. George's Records.

THE PAYZANT FAMILY
(Paisant)

LOUIS PHILLIP PAYZANT or PAISANT (1698-1756) who was born at Caen, France was the founder of the Payzant family of Nova Scotia. He was the son of Antoine Paisant (1660-1727) and Susanne Le Coq of the district of St. Pierre, Caen, Normandy. (1) Louis Payzant was one of the French Huguenots who left Normandy shortly after the revocation of the Edict of Nantes and settled in the Jersey Islands. On 20 Jan. 1738 he married his 2nd wife Marie Anne Noget at St. Helier, Jersey. (2) Sometime before July 1753 Louis and his family arrived at Halifax,Nova Scotia with other Foreign Protestant immigrants and settled on an Island in Mahone Bay, Lunenburg County, N.S. where he established a trading post. On the evening of 8 May 1756, a party of Indians arrived at the Payzant home and massacred Louis Payzant, a woman servant and child and scalped a boy named Rous who had acted as guide to the Indian party. Mrs. Payzant and her children were carried off and taken overland a distance of approximately 900 miles to the city of Quebec where they were held until the fall of that city in 1759.

There is a legend in the Payzant family that Marie Payzant was a sister of General Montcalm, the Commander of the French forces at Quebec. Numerous articles have appeared in newspapers concerning the Payzant massacre but no evidence has yet been produced to confirm Marie's Montcalm lineage. (3) It is now believed that the Indian party raided the Payzant home in order to obtain trading supplies. The reason for the capture of Mrs. Payzant and her family has never been learned but it seems reasonable to assume that the Indians could expect a generous ransom from French officials at Quebec for the surrender of this French speaking family.

Little is known concerning the family during their period at Quebec. Marie Payzant's daughter Lizette was born and baptized there in December 1756 and it is believed that the son, John Payzant (1749-1834) was educated there by Quebec Jesuits. There is a tradition in the family that Marie Payzant returned from Quebec to Nova Scotia on horseback. Shortly after her return she received a 500 acre grant at Falmouth, Nova Scotia from the Crown. The official grant was dated 21 July 1761 and consisted of Farm Lot 47 (158 acres), one 6-acre Lot (No. 1B, 2nd Div.), and one dyke Lot No. 3E, in the Great Falmouth Marsh (10 acres) and 100 acres in the condemned Lots. Following Marie Payzant's death Farm Lot 47 descended to her son Rev. John Payzant who sold the land in 1802 to his brother Lewis Payzant.

THE SHAW FAMILY

The Shaw family of Tiverton, Little Compton and Portsmouth, Rhode Island was founded by ANTHONY SHAW (1628-1705), son of John Shaw who was born at Ovended near Halifax, Yorkshire, England and who settled at Salem, Mass. about 1627. Anthony Shaw married 8 Apr. 1653 Alice Stonard dau. of John and Margaret Stonard at Boston, Mass. The Portsmouth, R.I. Town Meetings show that Anthony Shaw was admitted a Freeman on 16 Oct. 1669. He had a family of six including a son Israel who was born about 1660 and died in 1710. Israel's wife was_____Tallman daughter of Peter Tallman. His 2nd wife was Joan Briggs. Israel Shaw (1660-1710) had a family of thirteen children of whom two at least were associated with the migration to Nova Scotia in the 1700's. One son Peter, born 6 Oct. 1704 was a grantee at Falmouth in 1760 and Anthony an older son born 29 Jan. 1694 was the father of three sons: Arnold, Bejamin and John who also settled in Nova Scotia. Arnold Shaw and his brother John drew lots at Newport, N.S. on 20 June 1761. Arnold became the founder of the Shaw family of Newport, N.S. John Shaw returned to Rhode Island where he died while serving as a soldier in the Revolutionary War.

The founder of the Shaw family of FALMOUTH, MOUNT DENSON and WINDSOR FORKS, NOVA SCOTIA was PETER SHAW (1704-1775) of Little Compton, Rhode Island. He was the 5th son of Israel Shaw (1660-1680) and grandson of Anthony Shaw (1628-1705) who was the ancestor of the Shaw families of Tiverton, Portsmouth and Little Compton, R.I.

Peter Shaw (1704-1775) was the grantee at Falmouth, N.S. at the founding of the township in 1760. His grant of 500 acres from the Crown is dated 21 July 1761. It is believed that Peter Shaw brought his eldest daughter Mary and his 3rd son David Shaw (1745-1777) to Falmouth in 1760. Peter Shaw's 1st son Antipus Shaw is believed to have settled at Amherst, N.S. and his 2nd son Peter Shaw (1738-1795) appears to have arrived at Falmouth shortly before receiving a 250 acre grant on 19 Feb. 1768. Peter Shaw Jr. returned to Little Compton, R.I. where in 1775 he inherited his father's Little Compton, R.I. property. Peter Shaw (1704-1775), the grantee at Falmouth, N.S. returned to New England sometime before his death in 1775. His will on file at Little Compton, R.I. is dated 24 Oct. 1774 and a deed of gift to his son David Shaw (1745-1777) for all his Falmouth property is dated 28 Oct. 1774.

The Shaw family of Newport, N.S. trace their descent to ARNOLD SHAW (1732-). He is listed as a grantee of the Township of Newport, N.S. in 1761 together with his brother John Shaw (1736-). John Shaw returned to New England and is listed as a veteran of the Revolutionary Forces.

The Shaw family of Hantsport and Lockartville are descended from Benjamin^{5} Shaw (1763-1810) (Benj.^{4}, Anthony^{3}, Israel^{2}, Anthony^{1}) who settled at Falmouth, N.S. in the late 1700's where he married Lucy Akin on 11 Aug. 1790.

"bounded on the north by the farm of Simeon Loomer easterly by river and southerly by farms of Stephen and John Akin"; will probated at Windsor, N.S. 27 Sept. 1854 - no references to sons or daughters; an article entitled "Old Time Reminiscences" appeared in a 1911 Windsor newspaper and included the following: The writer remembers well when Col. Wm. Shey owned and occupied the above mentioned property, together with the buildings which were kept up in fine shape. Juba Caesar was a coloured slave brought here by old Mr. Shey and at his death came into possession of Col. Shey. Juba was a faithful servant, and when he died Col. Shey had his remains placed in the family lot. The writer has often been told by his parents and grandparents of Juba. He had a gift of relating the reminiscences of his life and one special topic was how very kind Massa Shey had been to him. One of his presents to him was a flock of sheep and Juba said "in dem dar sheeps war big money, and all dat Massa Shey axed for keeping dem dar sheeps was de wool and de lambs."

THE SHEY FAMILY - NO 2

The second Shey family of Falmouth, N.S. is believed to have been founded by LEWIS CATEAU or SHEY. There is a local legend concerning the change in the family name from Cateau to Shey. The legend states that Lewis Cateau appeared at a "Corn husking" wearing a coat which had been given to him by his employer Peter Shey. Those assembled jokingly referred to him as Mr. Shey and from that date he was known by the name Shey. This incident appears to be confirmed by the fact that the 1871 Falmouth census shows the racial origin of this branch of the Shey family as French.

THE TRENHOLM FAMILY

MATTHEW[2] TRENHOLM (Robert[1])

It is believed that Matthew Trenholm emigrated with his father Robert and other relatives to Nova Scotia together with the Yorkshire contingent in 1772; land records show that Robert Trenholm leased 40 acres on 20 Sept. 1774 at Windsor, N.S. including a marsh lot Letter A 3rd Div.; 1 Mar. 1784 this land "leased to the late Robert Trenholm" was occupied by Matthew Trenholm and at this time was sold to John Clarke; 26 Jan. 1784 Matthew Trenholm was granted a Farm Lot 48 on the Kennetcook River (this was part of the 30,000 acre grant to Wm. Hallyburton and others - 1784); 10 Oct. 1785 Matthew Trenholm bought 300 acres on the Halifax-Windsor Road from James Lockhart, Innholder, Windsor, N.S.; he was listed as a Falmouth resident in 1795; there is some evidence that Matthew Trenholm came to Falmouth as a tenant farmer on DesBarres' Castle Frederick estate; m. 1st Catherine Miller; m. 2nd Sarah Northup about 1793/4.

THE WALKER FAMILY

It is believed that the Walker family settled at Falmouth in the early 1780's. There is some evidence that the family was part of the Loyalist migration, probably part of the John Walker family of Worcester, Mass. Capt. John Walker served in the army at Louisburg, Quebec and Havana. He served under Col. Joseph Goreham in the Royal Fencible American Regiment. His father's will probated at Worcester on 26 May 1760 refers to four sons: Adam, Robert, John, Joseph and three daus. Isabella, Mary and Nancy.

THE WATMOUGH FAMILY

CAPT. EDMUND WATMOUGH

probably a British army officer who settled in Rhode Island; rank in Gorham's Corps of Rangers is dated 25 Sept. 1761 but another account shows him as a Capt. in the Earl of Dumlanrig's Regt.; probably the Capt. Watmore referred to as commander of Fort Edward (Pisiquid) in Charles Morris' letter to Gov. Charles Lawrence d/Pisiquid June, 1st 1760. The letter also refers to "Watmore's" wish to "serve the settlements and would be glad to share in some of those Lands for his children if any Vacancy should remain or be forfeited". Grantee at Falmouth 1761, 21 July 1761, 500 acres; his sons Edward and James Horatio grants on 19 Feb. 1768 and together they owned Farm Lots Nos. 9, 10, 11 and part of 8; m. 30 Jan. 1748/9 at Newport, R.I. Ellis who was commissioned 19 Feb. 1844 Surgeon General of the Mass. troops at Louisburg; Dr. Ellis was later a grantee at Horton, N.S.; Maria's mother was May Willard dau. of Daniel and Mary (Mills) and widow of a West Indian Planter named Cuyler. Eaton's "Rhode Island Settlers in Nova Scotia" published in the 1915 edition of Americiana includes a short sketch on Capt. Watmough and refers to a marriage between Miss Rebecca Watmough and Capt. Benjamin Wickham of Newport, Rhode Island. The wedding took place at St. Paul's Church, London and Dr. Eaton suggests that Rebecca Watmough may have been a sister to Capt. Edmund Watmough. Dr. Eaton quotes from Updike's History of the Narragansett Church with notes by Rev. Daniel Goodwin, D.D.; 11 Sept. 1765 Capt.-Lt. Edm. Watmough was residing in Lunenburg and deeded his Falmouth lands to his sons James H. and Edw. E. Watmough.

Permission has been granted by the Brunswick Press to include the following quotation from Grace Helen Mowat's "Diverting History of a Loyalist Town", Brunswick Press, Publishers, Fredericton, N.B. Canada.

"Much activity centred in Chamcook, where Mr. John Wilson had started many thriving mills. It was a perfect hive of industry, with saw mills, grist mills, a paper mill (the first in Canada) and shipbuilding on a most extensive scale. Squire Wilson, as they called him, lived in a large stone house, set in a lovely beech wood. He wanted Chamcook to be as much like an English village as possible, and his house to be like an English manor, surrounded by a deer park. He stocked the beech wood with deer, but one of them inconsiderately gored a women, and the deer became unpopular; but the park remained.

The house was a charming place, and there the Squire and his lady dispensed a royal hospitality. Memories of those old Chamcook parties still linger in story and legend. The Squire's lady, always sweet and placid and a perfect hostess, played for the dances with much dash and spirit; as she played she sang, The Campbells are Coming or Old Dan Tucker. They danced the lancers in those days, the polka and mazurka, and always ended with Sir Roger. Very stately couples, the gentlemen with their high stock collars and tightly buttoned coats; the ladies with full skirts and sloping shoulders, hair in ringlets, three little curls on either side of high, white foreheads. There would be officers there, too, in scarlet and gold braid.

It is told of the Squire, that one day while riding through the country, he stopped at the 'Old Exchange' for a drink and the landlord's pretty little wife brought out to him a mug of beer, for which he rewarded her with a kiss, as any good old Squire would be expected to do under similar circumstances. Next morning, while the Wilson family were having breakfast with their guests, an irate landlord, with a large horsewhip, thundered into the room. He turned to Mrs. Wilson and announced "Madam, I have come here to tell you that your husband kissed my wife." The placid lady was quite unruffled and said soothingly, "Then you come here and kiss me and we will call it square." The outraged husband was pacified, though he did not avail himself of the invitation.

Among the members of the Squire's household was a little orphan girl named Lucy Sprague. Mrs. Wilson had brought her up from childhood, and the mantle of her mistress seems in a measure to have descended to her. In later life we hear of her keeping house in St. Andrews for Mr. Wilson's brother, Edward, in a pretty little red brick cottage on the hill, with honeysuckle beside the door. She outlived this old gentleman, who left her the house and for many years she kept boarders there, in fact, Miss Sprague's boarding house is still remembered. Her vivacious wit, her old furniture, her bountiful table, and her unlimited fund of old stories, made her house a delightful place at which to stay. She lived to a great age and always spoke of the Wilson family with unfailing love and respect.

Squire Wilson built the beautiful little stone church at Chamcook, which added greatly to the English effect.

The Squire's enterprises seem to have been extremely properous. He had a number of vessels sailing the seas, carrying the product of his mills to many distant ports. The Lady of the Lake, the Silver Waves, the Pilgrim, and many others were known as the ships of Squire Wilson.

"The Pilgrim was wrecked and this tragedy afterwards figured in a famous libel suit between Mr. Spearman of the Custom House and the Squire; the contention being that the Pilgrim was wrecked for the insurance."

WILLIAM[2] YORKE (James[1])

b. 20 Jan. 1742 Westerly, R.I. son of James and Elizabeth Yorke of Westerly, R.I.; grantee at Falmouth, N.S. 500 acres (Farm Lot 85) this lot was sold on 21 Oct. 1765 to William Shey; William Yorke probably returned to New England since by 1764 he had not improved his lands and the report for that year states that he had not been in Nova Scotia since 1760. There was a James Yorke listed as a grantee at Newport, N.S. but it is not known whether he was a member of this branch of the Yorke family.

THE YOUNG FAMILY

CAPT. THOMAS[1] YOUNG

b. 1735 Salem, Mass.; d. 18 Mar. 1833 GR Fal. Cen. Cem.; Capt. Young and his widowed mother moved to Nova Scotia in the late 1700's and settled at Newport, N.S.; he later moved to Falmouth; there is a tradition in the Young family that the immigrant ancestor was a member of the Covenanters who was forced to leave Scotland due to persecution - he is believed to have settled in Massachusetts; there is some evidence that Capt. Thomas Young built a 70 ton vessel at Falmouth at a site now known as the Alline Bridge dyke; this vessel was built and rigged nearly two miles from the Avon River on property owned by Lewis Payzant; Falmouth residents referred to the vessel as the "Arc"; it was hauled to the salt water (Avon River) with the aid of forty or more yoke of oxen; m. CHAPTER IX

CHRONOLOGY - PISIQUID AND FALMOUTH DISTRICT

line 24 21 May 1764 The First Agricultural Public Fair held at Fort Edward in Windsor, N.S.
1765 The system of New England Township Government modified by Statute. The British and Virginian Court of Quarter Sessions composed of Justices of the Peace appointed by the Governor-in-Council was adopted. This Court had administrative as well as judicial functions. It enabled the central government control over the townships by appointing all township officers. The Grand Jury could nominate persons for the various offices but after 1765 the appointments were made at the Court of Quarter Sessions.

29 Aug. 1779 Joseph Northup of Falmouth purchased a male slave named Mintur from John Palmer of Windsor for £100.
Page 69 line 35 delete 2 July 1781 and substitute 17 June 1781 and add The Governor and Council set off the Township of Windsor, Falmouth and Newport and lands contiguous into a County to be known as Hants. The name is derived from the County of South Hampshire, and abbreviated to Hants. Reasons for creation of the separate county which had been part of Kings County, were the inconvenience in crossing the Avon River and the distance to be travelled to transact County business at Horton (Wolfville area).
2 Feb. 1784 Rev. Henry Alline of Falmouth, N.S. died at North Hampton, N.H. The inscription on his gravestone included, "He was a burning and shining light and justly esteemed the Apostle of Nova Scotia".
Page 70 1789 Influenza epidemic in North America.
12 Aug. 1802 George Stewart of Parrsborough sold Falmouth Farm lot 45 near William Alline's bridge to Benjamin DeWolf Sr. of Windsor (Hants County Reg. Book 6/544).
Page 71 1 March 1819 John Sheppard, a tanner married at Falmouth at age 91 Miss Hood, aged 21 years (Acad. Rec.).
Page 74 line 30 15 Apr. 1861 By Statute 24 Victoria, Chapter 51 Hants County was divided in two Districts called East and West Hants. West Hants included the Townships of Falmouth, Windsor and Newport and that part of Kempt "which lies to the west of a straight line running northerly from the township line dividing Newport and Douglas to the Walton Bridge over Petite River; thence by Petite River down stream to the Bay Shore". East Hants included all the remaining portions of Hants County.
Page 75 line 29 1 Feb. 1859 William N. Hall's citation gazetted in London, England, "Lieutenant (now Commander) Young, late gunnery officer of H.M.S. Shannon and Abel Seaman William Hall 'Captain of the Foretop' of that vessel, were recommended by the late Captain Peel, for the Victoria Cross, for their gallant conduct at a 24-pounder on the 16th of November 1857".
Page 75 line 39 By the County Incorporation Act of 1879 the old system of local government by Quarter Sessions as used in Britain and Virginia was changed. In the Court of Quarter Sessions the sheriff, an appointee of the Crown, was the executive officer. Under the new system sessional districts would have a municipal council consisting of a warden and councillors with the warden chosen by the councillors. The main object of the legislation was to enable the municipal district to raise taxes to build and repair roads and bridges.

Yarmouth the trailer was taken aboard the Boston boat and the party made the final plans for their Florida trip from Boston. Silas Taylor has written his account of their experiences during the trip which included frequent contacts with the various police forces along the way since their means of travel was unusual for the 1920's. They arrived at Daytona Beach on Christmas Day in time for a swim in the Atlantic. Silas Taylor found employment with an Orange packing firm, P.E. Keene and Co. at Eustis, Florida. Jack Aylward, Carl Church and Max Manning all worked at St. Augustine, Fla. on a new bridge project. Carl Church remained in the United States but the others eventually returned to their homes at Falmouth.

Page 80 17 Sept. 1935 Memorial unveiled at the corner of King and Gerrish Streets in Windsor in commemoration of the 170th anniversary of the First Fair at Windsor, N.S.

5 Nov. 1938 Falmouth Fruit Company Ltd. won the Agents General Challenge Cup for the exhibitor in the Canadian competition in the Imperial Fruit Show, Bristol, England. The cup was first presented in 1924 by the Agents General of Ontario, British Columbia and Nova Scotia then resident in England and to be awarded to the Canadian exhibitor receiving the greatest number of points on his prize winning exhibits. The Falmouth award cup was donated to the Public Archives of Nova Scotia (Art.53.8).

THE GOLAR FAMILY

The Golar Families of Kings and Hants Counties may be descended from Mundy Golar, whose son William was born on board a ship in 1812. This would suggest that the family arrived in Nova Scotia aboard a British ship during the war of 1812 with other Black families offered freedom from slavery in the Southern States.

THE GRAY FAMILY

line 9 Martha or Patty Gray's date of death should read 24 March 1874; she was probably the wife of Charles Gray who is listed as one of the Black refugees from the Chesapeake Bay states; these refugees were brought to Halifax by British vessels as a result of the War of 1812; hundreds of the slave people made their way to the British vessels and the promise of freedom; the list of "Blacks recently brought from the U.S.A. and settled on the Windsor Road" is on file in the Public Archives of Nova Scotia (Refugee Negroes 1813-1816 - PANS Vol. 420, doc. 133).

the revised data on this family is mainly from census and death records further research is necessary since there were Black residents named Gray in the Windsor-Falmouth area as early as 1784 which may indicate that a Gray family accompained one of the Loyalist families to Nova Scotia after the close of the American Revolution.

CHARLES GRAY, listed as one of the Black refugees from the U.S. settled on the Windsor Road between 1813 and 1816; the death of Martha or Patty Gray, b. c1770 in the U.S. is recorded for 24 March 1874 at Falmouth, N.S.; she was living in the household of Benjamin Gray when the 1871 Falmouth census was taken; she was shown as a widow of African descent; Charles and Martha are assumed to be the parents of the following members of the Gray family listed as heads of families in the 1871 Falmouth census:

i Charles, b. c 1819; m. Ellen or Hannah____, b. c1841; Children: 1. James, b. c 1856, 2. Annie, b. c 1860, 3. Mary, b. c 1860 4. Henry, b. c1865, 5. John, b. c1870, 6. Harriett.

ii Benjamin, b. c1826 N.S.; d. 9 Jan. 1899; m. Sarah____b. c1838; farmer at Falmouth; he was a leader in the Afr. Baptist Ch. which was located at Sleepy Hollow; the church building now forms part of the former home of the late Frank Golar; Childrer 1. Rachel, b. c1858, 2. Harry, b. c1865, 3. Wise, b. 2 Dec. 1860, d. 27 Mar 1937; she was probably the dau. of Alonzo Wise (1850-1924) of Falmouth, N.S.; m. Eva M. States (1881-18 Jan. 1967) dau. of Job and Rebecca(Eddison) States; Terrance J. Gray lived on the Bog Road near the Halfway River at Falmouth, N.S.; he is mentioned as a workman in the Shaw Brickyards at Avonport, N.S. in L.E. Shaw's My Life in the Brick Industry, 1955, p. 9,

"The tallest and ablest of them all was Ted Gray. He was colored, six feet four inches tall - a giant - the only man I have ever known who could pick up three bricks in each hand. The best most of us could do was two. When Ted really went to work he could out-distance any and all. Had he been so minded he would in my opinion have been a match for Joe Louis."

THE LAWRENCE FAMILY

The following letter dated Nov. 6th, 1900 at Amherst written by James King to his daughter Jane has been supplied by Allan B. Robertson of Hantsport, N.S. and is reproduced in part since it refers to the founder of the Lawrence Family of Falmouth, N.S.

"Henry Lawrence was born in the city of Malden (this Malden was a city on the eastern side of the city of London and is now part of the City of London, Eng.) His father's name was Henry. His mother's name was Mary Townby. He had two brothers James and John or Jonathan. James came to America and settled in Cherryfield, Maine, where several of his descendants reside at present. John or Jonathan came to American and settled in the state of New York where several of his descendants are at present.

Henry enlisted in the 54th Regiment as a British Soldier, was at the Island of Martinique and Guadeloupe from there he went with his regiment to Ireland, thence to Quebec, thence to Fort Cumberland. This would be during the 1760's. He was a brick layer by trade and built the Powder Magazine and a Bomb proof that would protect 500 soldiers in time of need...About 1772 he with several others got their discharge, then he was married to Judell ?Watson of the old Watson family of Fort Lawrence, Parson Eggleston being the clergyman. His first child was born at Fort Cumberland and was named Margaret. From there the family moved to Eastport Maine the second child was born there. He was named Francis. From there the family moved to Falmouth, Hants County, Nova Scotia. There they moved across the Avon River to the Windsor side where the old couple died having a large family.

James Reden married Margaret and settled there, raised a large family of which my mother was the eldest. Her name was Anne or Nancy.

Great grandfather Robert King came from Cumberland, Eng., and brought his family with him, my grandfather being 16 at that time . They sailed near Fort Edward in Windsor, Hants County, N.S. There were several children all settling near there.

My grandfather Robert King married a Miss Cochran. She had a number of children and died early in life. My father being the eldest his name was Robert. About 1820 he married Nancy Reden who died on the 8th of Dec. 1831, having William, James, Ann and Jane.

My father then went to Bay DeVerte, Westmorland Col, N.B. about 12 miles from Fort Cumberland. Here he married a widow woman by the name of Nancy Farrow. They had two children, the eldest Elizabeth died young, the other Robert is living in Bathany, Missouri..."

(Mr. James C. Lovelace states that he has documented the Loveless-Lovelace genealogy back to 1367 at Canterbury, Kent. The surname first appears as Luvlaz in 1145 at Nottingham in the Court of Assizes. He states that the Bodleian Library at Oxford University claims that the name is of Norman French origin from the expression "l' oeuvre-laisse", a military function similar to that of the present day adjutant.)

Additional information on the Lunn family

The obituary of James Lunn appeared in the Hants Journal of 19 April 1916. It stated that he died "recently at the age of 90 at New Salem, Cumberland County, N.S. He was of Sturdy stock and with two brothers of Falmouth settled in the lumber region many years ago before Salem was inhabited. He was survived by a wife and several children and numerous grandchildren. Burial was in the family Burial Ground at the back of the farm.

The following poem which appeared in the Teleguide of 1 Aug. 1982 is included here with the permission of the author, Margaret Beatrice (Lunn) Wade of Ashaway, Rhode Island.

MY NOVA SCOTIA HOME

As a little girl I wandered
In my Nova Scotia home;
In the glebe and in the orchards
Apples galore on the ground.

I would gather up my dress
As an apron it would be;
Fill it full of apples
All kinds of variety...

There were Gravensteins so lovely
Oh! so juicy and so sweet;
Made for pleasure eating
For a little girl so sweet.

I would sit down and eat them
Oh! so crisp and juicy sweet;
In that Nova Scotia climate
Made by God so discreet.

EZEKIEL MARSTERS (Abraham, Abraham, Abraham, Nath.)

bp. 10 Mar. 1758; d. 1839; m. Alice Athurd (Atherton?) Ezekiel did not purchase property until 1795 and it is possible that he was a seafaring man; the 1817 Newport census has two Ezekiel Marsters: Ezekiel as above and Ezekiel Jr. son of John; Ezekiel Jr. m. Lydia Mosher who was listed in the 1817 census as head of a household of eight; Ezekiel Sr. son of Abraham, the subject of this paragraph was listed as head of a household with two shown as of Irish descent (perhaps Alice Athurd and the eldest child); the family consisted of seven in the 1770 census; on 7 Mar. 1795 Ezekiel Sr. bought400 acres in Newport Township from John Bentley (Hants Co. Reg. Book 6/117); on 14 Nov. 1797 Ezekiel and his wife Alice sold property to Allen Mosher of Newport(Hants Co. Reg. Book 6/280); this property was located well up the Herbert River on 27 Dec. 1801 Ezekiel bought 200 acres in Newport from Joseph Bradshaw (HCR Book 8/180); this property was on the Kennetcook River and is the location of a burial ground later used by the family of Dr. Samuel Dennison and now owned by Albert Smith of Burlington; the burial ground is mentioned in Ezekial's will of 1839; the will identifies four daughters.

The following statement of Mr. Wm. Rourke of Falmouth appeared in a pamphlet entitled Nova Scotia Canada published by Hon. W.J. Roche, Minister of the Interior, Ottawa, 1912.

"I value my farm to-day at $10,000. Fourteen years ago, I bought my property for $2,000, when it was quite undeveloped, though it included a small immature orchard. I have developed the farm by my own labour without the expense of any more money, and to-day it produces an average of $2,500 a year for apples alone, and has done so for the last eight years. I have twenty acres under orchard; the balance of the farm being woodland and under cultivation with ordinary farm produce."

Page 377 line 23 Mrs Matilda (Phinney) Sangster's statement on apple production at Falmouth, N.S. was included in a pamphlet entitled Nova Scotia Canada published by Hon. W.J. Roche, Minister of the Interior, Ottawa, 1912. Mrs Sangster had won the Bronze Banksian Medal at the Royal Horticultural Show in London, England for her exhibits of fruit.

"In 1884 we set out 350 trees of different varieties on the poorest piece of land on the farm (not knowing any better). We cultivated and raised different kinds of small fruits, potatoes and other vegetables, each year receiving about $500 returns from the sale of the small fruits and vegetables. Seven years after planting the trees we sold $150 worth of apples, and each year giving a little large returns until the year 1896 we sold 470 bbls., realizing $650, and since 1901 we have sold from $800 to $1,000 worth of apples each year. We have always made it a practice to put back 10% of the amount received for the sale of apples, that is, if we sold the apples for $800, we would put on the following year $80 worth of fertilizers. Since 1900 the trees being so large we have not raised any crop, such as strawberries, among them. The 350 trees were set 15ft. by 30 ft., covering nearly four acres of land. We have never kept any record of the labour, as we have considered that was the farmer's buriness to cultivate the soil. We find that raising orchard pays better than any other kind of farming, and any person can make from 15 to 20 per cent on money invested. A great many people think they cannot afford to plant an orchard, for it takes so long for the trees to give any return. They do not realize that the trees after ten years given more than 30% of money invested, and then with a little care they will get a permanent income for a great many years."

THE SALT FAMILY

WILLIAM J.SALT

settled at Falmouth, N.S. 18 May 1898 from England with his wife and family; he had purchased land"north of the Mill Road" in Upper Falmouth and part of lot 81 in the 2nd Div. adjoining the Lyon Mill road on 16 Sept. 1896 from William and Matilda Sangster (Hants County Reg. Book 92-609) he and his wife Emily sold their Falmouth properties on 12 March 1919 to William G. Lane of Wolfville, N.S. (Hants County Reg. Book 126/777); there were seven children in this family including Mabel who married 26 Sept. 1905 Aubrey Stoddard, son of George Rufus Stoddard and Annie Merilla Porter of Falmouth, N.S.; Aubrey and Mabel Stoddard moved to Booth Bay, Maine; a letter by W.J. Salt, "A Well Satisfied Settler" appeared in a publication issued by Hon. W.J. Roche, Minister of the Interior, Ottawa, 1912.

"I began to think seriously of coming to Nova Scotia through reading pamphlets obtained from the Government Emigration Department at London, principally the British Farmer delegate's reports. I landed here on May 18th, 1998, and had about $300 on arriving at Falmouth, Hants County. I rented the place I am now on and hired out among the neighbouring farmers when opportunity offered at $1.00 a day. Now when I work out I get from $1.50 to $2.00 a day. Besides running my farm I engage at times in lumber and land surveying.

My farm contains 310 acres. The land was rough and the buildings in poor condition when I bought. I have paid for the farm in full, have rebuilt the house, and have money out at interest. There are lots of improvements to do yet, however. The neighbourhood I live in is especially adapted to fruit-growing. I have about 400 trees, mostly apples just beginning to bear.

The opportunities for farming in Nova Scotia are good, but I would not advise anyone to rent or buy a farm here until they have been out one or two years, got into the ways of the country, and worked among the farmers, as there are many ways and conditions here very different from the old country. I notice that generally the soil is not so productive as in England, and the various fertilizers do not retain their valuable properties so long here as there. Germination and vegetation, however, are much quicker out here. The methods of farming and the quality of the live stock have improved very much during the past few years.

I did not find it very difficult to learn the methods of work here. The greatest difficulty with most immigrants is the winter work in the country. They are not used to using an axe. Farmers with some capital should certainly come to Nova Scotia, especially if they have been farm servants who were thrifty, industrious, frugal and temperate. There are good openings here, too, for intelligent and temperate farm hands, and also for female servants. They must be smart and intelligent.

A farmer who comes out here intending to rent should have $1,000 for stock, implements, etc. If he wants to buy a place he should have from $4,000 to $5,000. A stranger cannot start on so small capital as a native.

I am well satisfied with my prospects. If I had not worked hard and lived frugally and temperately we would not be in the position we are to-day. I say 'we' for I have a good mate. We have had a large family ofseven children to bring up."
